(First and Fourth Stanzas, to Be Sung by Paraders.)
My Country! 'Tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.
Land where my fathers died!
Land of the Pilgrims' pride!
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!
Our fathers' God, to Thee,
Author of liberty,
To Thee we sing.
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light!
Protect us, by Thy might,
Great God, our King!

Everything is in readiness for the greatest parade in the city's history
and if we can but keep in the good graces of the weather clerk everything will be lovely. The parade will start this evening at 7:45 o'clock sharp. Be on time. All of the details have been attended to and there isn't any reason
why there should be the slightest hitch from start to finish. It is impossible to estimate how long the parade
will take, but it is generally estimated at about three hours. There will be some very pretty features, including feats on which a great deal of time and money has been expended. Paraders are requested, again not to do their hats or make any gesture while passing city hall except to look toward the reviewing stand. Asked if he had anything that he would like to have emphasized at the last moment, Thos.
J. O'Donnell, chief of staff, said: "Tel-

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION IS OPENED AT ST. LOUIS

Not a Ripple of Dissension in Sight— Glynn Makes Keynote Speech for Americanism and Peace, Prepared- ness and Prosperity—Bryan is to Support the Nominees

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—With the keynote of "Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity," the democratic national convention began its first session shortly after noon today
with not a single element in sight to disturb the harmonious re-nomination
of President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall.

When National Chairman McCombs
called the convention to order 12,000
delegates, alternates and spectators
packed the convention to the roof.

Members of the national committee,
and party leaders from all over the country had places on the platform.
Plaster medallions of Washington,
Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland looked down upon the delegates from the decorations which consisted uniformly
of nothing but the American flag. The only picture of President Wilson in the hall hung in front of the speakers' desk, inscribed "America First."

Vice-presidential booms, killed by President Wilson's direct word that he desired the re-nomination of Vice-President Marshall, were brought to the convention hall but only as favorable sound accompaniments.

After National Chairman McCombs
had called the convention to order the call was read by Secretary J. Bruce Kremer.

Former Gov. Glynn of New York
then delivered the keynote speech.

Down the speaker's stand direct telephone and telegraph wires led to the White House carried momentary reports of the proceedings in the hall.

All prospects of a fight in the convention had vanished over night with William J. Bryan's announcement that he did not intend to run for president planks before the resolutions committee and that he would make speeches
for the democratic nominees.

"We have entered this hall as democrats," let us deliberate as Americans," declared Mr. Glynn, in sounding the keynote.

"It is the business of this convention, representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

Reviewing President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs he declared the
president had stood with Washington,
Adams and Grant, who had preserved
peace with honor.

"For vain glory or for selfish purpose," he declared, "others may cry
for a policy of blood and iron but the president has acted on the belief that the leader of a nation who plunges his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate, vainly washes his hands of innocent blood, while the earth quakes and the heavens are darkened and thousands give up the ghost."

"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, the president is right today," he declared.

A "Woody" tiger was sent to Chairman McCombs' desk by the New York delegation.

Chairman McCombs took his place
at his desk at 12:30 amid cheers and applause.

A few thumps of his gavel quickly secured quiet and he cried: "The convention will be in order."

One verse of "America" was then sung by the entire crowd followed by a verse of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Prayer by Rev. J. W. Lee

WILSON LEADS PARADE

Marched at Head of Preparedness Procession in Washington— 75,000 in Line

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Led by President Wilson carrying the Stars and Stripes, nearly 75,000 men, women and children of Washington marched up broad Pennsylvania avenue today in a preparedness parade arranged to emphasize the national capital's demand for an adequate army and navy.

The president arrived in Washington at 10:30 a. m. in a motorcade, wearing suits, blue coat and straw hat, and shouldering his flag like a musketeer, stepped briskly to martial airs played by the United States Marine band.

He smiled broadly and frequently raised his hat in a response to cheers as he marched along, escorted by Secretary Tumulty, the White House employees and the White House newspaper corps.

Ideal weather favored the demonstration. There was hardly a cloud in the sky and the air was cool. Enthusiastic crowds thronged along the avenue from the Peace monument to the White House.

In front of the White House the president left the line of march and took his place in a stand to review the parade. He was joined there by Mrs.
Wilson and all the members of the cabinet.

As the line swung around the treasury building at 15th street and Pen-sylvania avenue, the president was confronted by a huge banner bearing the legend "Be Prepared—If You Care About 91 Electoral Votes, Consider Us
—Women's Party."

Half a dozen young women with megaphones saw to it that the banner did not go unnoticed. It was the work of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage.

Besides marching himself and then reviewing the parade the president had prepared a series of addresses to be delivered in the afternoon at an open air meeting south of the White House.

Washington was brilliantly decorated for the occasion. It was a holiday for under an executive order issued by the president all government employees were excused from work and many stores closed.

The parade was designed as a strictly non-partisan affair. Volunteering to participate in it were employees of many stores, members of patriotic, philanthropic, religious and social organizations, many of the city's leading business men, cabinet members, judges, school children and the members of the senate and house. There were many floats emphasizing preparedness.

T. R. and Taft Decline
President Wilson decided to set a precedent by walking on foot during the entire length of the parade. Former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft had

Make Additional Captures—Berlin Reports Resistance to Russian Attacks—Lull at Verdun

The war news shows that Russia continues her successful offensive on the eastern front although a Berlin despatch claims that seven successive Russian attacks were successfully resisted.

There is a lull in the fighting at Verdun which probably bespeaks a fresh attack.

Canadian forces have recaptured a long line of trenches wrested from them
by a surprise attack of the enemy on the western front.

British forces enter a Persian city to quell disturbances said to be stirred up
by German emissaries.

the Verdun front. There were no infantry actions before Verdun.

Actions before Verdun continue, the official statement of today says. The French carried a small German post
near Venezel east of Soissons.

A raid by French troops at Songren in the Vosges, resulted in the capture of a number of Germans.

The text of the statement follows:
"Between the River Oise and the River Aisne, a strong patrol of the enemy has been driven back with infantry fire at a point to the southeast of Moulin-Sous-Touvent. To the east of Soissons we have occupied a small
German post near Veilfel.

"There has been intermittent artillery fighting in the sectors on the left bank of the River Meuse. On the right

Austrian Attacks in Tyrol Fail— Fall of Czernowitz Imminent— One Killed in Raid on Venice

There is a momentary lull in the desperate infantry fighting which has been going on for several days northeast of Verdun. Preparations for further assaults on the French defenses are in progress, however.

Paris today reports a violent bombardment in the Vaux sector. The anticipated effort of the Germans to make a further advance here is expected to be facilitated by the headway they have made recently in ousting the French from their position on Hill 231, to the west from which they have been able to enfilade the Vaux plateau.

Italian Front Bombarded
In the southern Tyrol the Austrians are now encountering a resistance which they are unable to break down according to the Rome war office which today reports the failure of a series of assaults on Italian positions along the Posina line. Elsewhere there were no Austrian attacks but the whole Italian front has been subjected to a severe bombardment.

Fall of Czernowitz
Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina, apparently is on the eve of falling into Russian hands in the course of Gen. Brusiloff's widespread offensive movement. His troops are reported have cut the railway running north from the city, severing the Austrian communications and his cavalry to have reached a point 20 miles beyond.

One Killed in Air Raid
One woman was killed and four civilians were injured in Monday night's raid by Austrian seaplanes on Venice.
Rome declares that the property damage was slight.

BACK FROM TROPICS

Kermit and Mrs. Roosevelt Arrived in New York from Buenos Ayres—Met by T.R.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Kermit and Mrs. Roosevelt, son and daughter-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, arrived here today with their baby from Buenos Ayres on the United States army transport Kilpatrick. They were met at the pier by the colonel and his wife.

Kermit Roosevelt has been in South America as representative of a New York bank. His wife, daughter of Joseph E. Willard, ambassador to Spain, suffered an attack of typhoid while in the tropics.

Col. Roosevelt was suffering with a very bad cold, contracted several months ago.

After leaving the pier he kept an appointment with a throat specialist. He had been visiting the physician upon the occasions of his visits here from Oyster Bay.

A delightful recital was given by the pianoforte and vocal pupils of Edward Everett Adams at Mr. Adams' studio in the Odd Fellows building last night. There was a good sized attendance of relatives and friends of the pupils and the program carried out reflected much credit on the pupils as well as on their teacher.

TEN YEARS TO PRISON

NORTH CHELMSFORD MAN GETS HEAVY SENTENCE FOR SETTING FIRE TO A BUILDING

Stephen O'Hare was yesterday sentenced in the superior court at East Cambridge to serve not less nor more than ten years in state prison after being found guilty of setting fire to a barn owned by Joseph D. Ryan in North Chelmsford early on the morning of April 8. The barn, seven heads of cattle, hay and other contents of the building were destroyed.

During the progress of the fire the North Chelmsford police in looking for the person who started the blaze, came upon footprints leading to a shed about 1000 yards from the scene of the fire where O'Hare was found sleeping. He at that time denied having any knowledge of the fire, but inasmuch as he had been connected with a similar fire previous to that he was sent to the police station for drunkenness and subsequently the more serious charge was preferred against him.

The jury after being out a short time yesterday returned a verdict of guilty. O'Hare has a record for drunkenness and larceny.

The case of Florence McLean, charged with robbing the home of C. C. Sibley of this city, where she was employed, came up for trial yesterday in the East Cambridge court. Officer Hines of station 9, Roxbury, appeared in court and stated the McLean woman was wanted in Roxbury on a larceny charge. An indefinite sentence in the Sherborn reformatory was imposed.

THE FIRST AID CLUB

FIRST AID CLASS OF THE Y.M.C.A. FORMS ITSELF INTO A PERMANENT ORGANIZATION

A supper to the doctors and nurses who assisted the First Aid class of the Y.M.C.A. was the closing feature last evening of a well rounded out and profitable course in which a great many men took part. The class held a business meeting and formed itself into a permanent organization to be known as the First Aid club of the Lowell Y.M.C.A. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers were elected for one year: President, Haven G. Hull, vice president, W. W. Comings, and secretary-treasurer, Arthur A. Emberg. One interesting feature of this meeting was the presenting of a bouquet of carnations to each of the three nurses present, Miss Bertie Kelley, R. N., Miss Carrie B. Emery, R.N., and Miss Helen Hennessey, R.N.

The other who have assisted are Miss Clara Holland, R.N., Dr. M. L. Alting, Dr. Nathan Pulsifer, Dr. E. O. Taber and Dr. M. A. Tighe.

NORMAL SCHOOL

Great Play and Pageant in Open Tomorrow Afternoon

Lowell has taken note of the Shakespearean Tercentenary and the production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to take place tomorrow afternoon at the State Normal school at 3.30, with its attendant pageant and concert features, will be one of the most elaborate events of the kind held throughout New England. About 200 students and teachers will participate in the great production, which will be staged on the beautiful campus, and the music, costumes, etc., will be of a standard rarely attained even by colleges that pride themselves on their pageants and dramatic productions.

The play, which will be presented in the form of pageant and tableau, will be presented under the auspices of the school and society league as the main pre-graduating feature of the school. It takes the place of the musical festival week, it being the idea of Principal John J. Mahoney that this great educational institution should honor the Shakespearean celebration now so universal.

Besides the characters of Shakespeare's play with its fairies, elves, princes and princesses, etc., those who attend will see Queen Elizabeth and her court, Shakespeare, and other court and literary novelties of that time. Costumes and incidentals will truly reflect the Elizabethan age, and the production will be a beautiful spectacle, all the more beautiful because of its natural setting on the beautiful grounds of the Normal school. The incidental music will be worth going to hear, even though all other features were eliminated. Songs will be sung at intervals by the Glee club of the Normal school and the Bartlett grammar school and the chorus. Instrumental music will be furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra of Boston. There will also be some appropriate folk dancing, and nothing will be left undone to make the event worthy of the State Normal school and the Shakespearean Tercentenary.

The Lowell public is offered an opportunity to participate in a celebration of which any school or college might be proud and it is to be hoped that the patronage will be worthy of the occasion.

Professor Albert Edmund Brown, who has had charge of the musical week in the past, has general charge of the pageant features and Miss Olive B. Clark has directed and coached the presentation of the drama.

THE LOWELL GUILD

At a recent meeting of the council of the Lowell guild the following report from the superintendent was given: Total visits nursing care, 941; friendly visits, 15; prenatal care, 29; visits for Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 172; milk station calls, 225; milk given away, 300 quarts; grocery orders, 4; mothers attending conferences, 60; new babies treated, 15.

During the month the guild co-operated with the humane society, the board of health, board of charities, city hospital and the Lowell social service league.

Clothing given away included one box men's clothing, one box of children's clothing, and one pair of shoes. Attention is especially requested from the public to the following facts:

1. The nurses of the guild are for the public, and all physicians and others interested in the care of sick persons are urged to make full use of them in all cases of need.

2. The work of the milk station is of peculiar value and importance during the hot summer months, which are hardest of all upon babies. Mothers are therefore urged to avail themselves as fully as possible of the station's benefits during July and August. There are two clinics a week for babies, on Tuesdays and Fridays; fresh milk, tested and kept to standard, can be had every day. The guild regards this service affecting the proper feeding of infants as one of the most important practical means looking toward the better conservation of human life.

It was reported that upwards of 10,000 persons attended the recent scientific health exhibition in this city.

NASHUA - LOWELL ROAD

IT WANTS LAND FOR DEPOT IN THIS CITY—APPEALS TO PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 14.—The Nashua and Lowell railroad corporation has requested the public service commissioners to determine, under a provision of the so-called Washburn railroad act, how much additional land it requires in Lowell for the purposes of making and securing its railroad, or for depot or station purposes.

It sets forth in its petition that it desires certain land, northerly of its location, and between the location and the Merrimack river, beginning on the east at Black Brook culvert and extending a point slightly west of the old Middlesex canal location. The land is in three parcels, of which one, consisting of 5.15 acres, is said to belong to Martina A. Gage, and the remaining two, consisting of 0.2 and 6.6 acres, respectively, are said to belong to Samuel P. Hadley.

The corporation states that it has been unable to agree with the owners as to the proper price to be paid for the land, and it therefore requests the commission to determine how much it actually needs. When such determination is made, the corporation will have the right to take the land by right of eminent domain, after which, if the parties are still unable to agree, the price to be paid will be fixed by a jury.

GEORGE COUZOULES' CASE

RE APPEARED AT CAMBRIDGE YESTERDAY AND WAS HELD IN $3,000

George Couzoules, a former Lowell business man, who was indicted for embezzlement of a sum between $5,000 and $10,000 from his fellow countrymen of this city, gave himself up at the superior court in Cambridge and was held in the sum of $3,000 for his appearance before the court at a later date. The complaint on which Mr. Couzoules is wanted dates back a year or two.

Mr. Couzoules has been absent from Lowell for some time. He had been in business on Market street and was esteemed as a prince of good fellows but it appears that lavish expenditures and loose business methods proved his ruin and he has set out to make amends to the best of his ability.

FLAG DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

Exercises in All the Schools Embracing Salute to the Flag and Patriotic Readings

Flag day was observed in a fitting manner in all the public schools of the city today. In some of the schools general exercises were held in the assembly hall, while in others the exercises were confined to the respective classrooms. The program consisted of the reading of the history of the flag, the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic selections, salute to the flag and patriotic recitations.

Greenhalge
There were no general exercises at the Greenhalge school today, but each class room had its special exercises and the programs were carried out much to the satisfaction of the children and teachers.

The graduating class, numbering 42 boys and girls, was taken on a special trip to Charlestown this morning by Principal Whitcomb. The children and their leader boarded an electric car at Merrimack square at 9 o'clock this morning and went directly to Charlestown, where they were given an opportunity of inspecting the navy yard. After their tour of inspection the children partook of a basket dinner and then afternoon they took in the various sights around Boston, including the Bunker Hill monument and historical places.

Varnum
One of the features of the Flag day exercises held at the Varnum school at 8:30 o'clock this morning, was the pledge of allegiance to America by the numerous pupils of the school. The program consisted of the singing of patriotic hymns, salute to the flag, reading of the history of the flag, etc. An illustrated lecture on the development of the American flag since Colonial times was given by the master of the school and various evolutions of the flag were shown.

Yesterday the graduating class, accompanied by Principal Harris and teachers went to visit Whittier's birthplace.

Washington
At 11 o'clock this forenoon patriotic exercises were held at the Washington school. The program consisted of the

AUSTRIAN ATTACKS IN SOUTHERN TYROL REPULSED BY ITALIANS

ROME, June 14, via London, 2:02 p. m.—Austrian attacks along the line of the Posina in the southern Tyrol, made after intensive artillery preparation on Monday night, were everywhere repulsed by the Italians, the war office announced today.

The statement follows: "On the line of the Posina, the enemy after a violent artillery bombardment, made an attack on the night of

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

THE HOME MADE HAMMOCK

"I wish I had a real comfortable hammock like yours," quoth Marjorie as she came upon Marie reading during her rest hour under some trees in the orchard.

"I made this," responded Marie without a trace of pride, "and you can make one too, if you care to. My hammock took 2 3/4 yards of this canvas. It was not as cheap of course as many of the other kinds of ordinary canvas are or the cheaper sacking which is equally as strong, but certainly not as beautiful. You may, of course, use any sort of strong material you wish and let your fancy play in the choice of the colors you would like your hammock to be.

"A hem measuring about three-quarters of an inch must be turned down along each selvage and sewed with a strong thread on a machine. Now a hem about 4 inches in length is machined down at the top and bottom of the canvas. Along these top and bottom hems a row of holes, eight on each end, are made. You will find that these holes are easily made with an ordinary steel, such as is used for sharpening table knives, or you may punch the holes by carefully using a carpenter's small, round chisel.

"Each of these holes must now be firmly buttoned holed with strong linen thread. But if you do not wish to have the bother of working the eyelet holes, take your hammock to the shoemaker and he will put eyelet holes in for a small sum.

"Now take the hammock strings, divide your 16 yards of cord into two equal pieces, eight yards for each end. Each eight yards of cord is again divided into four equal lengths. Then take one of these pieces and double it in half.

"Place the double end through one of your iron rings, and slip the two loose ends through the double, thus securing the cord to the ring and having two equal lengths hanging down. Bring each of these lengths through an eyelet hole and fasten it securely by knotting the cord on the under side and then bringing it over and tying again. Fasten each piece of cord in this manner until you have a cord through each eyelet hole both top and bottom.

BERLIN REPORTS RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE BROKE OUT NORTH OF PINK

BERLIN, June 14, via London, 4:11 p. m.—The Russian offensive, which has been directed against the southern portion of the eastern front broke out yesterday against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces at a point about 75 miles north of Pinsk. The Russians made seven successive attacks with masses of infantry. The war office announcement of today says they were repulsed with heavy losses.

The war office statement follows: "Western front: On the heights southeast of Zillebeke a portion of our new positions was lost during the course of yesterday's fighting.

"On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) positions of the enemy west and south of Thiaumont farm were captured during the battles of June 12 and 13. During these operations we captured 733 Frenchmen, including 27 officers and 15 machine gunners.

"German patrols conducted operations near Maricourt in the Somme and in the Argonne.

"Eastern front: South of Lake Narocz reconnoitering detachments destroyed advanced enemy fortifications and brought back many prisoners.

"North of Baranovici the Russians after a violent artillery preparation advanced to the attack with dense masses of troops. They attempted seven times to storm our lines. The Russians were repulsed completely and suffered very heavy losses.

"German aviators in the last few days have carried out operations for the purpose of attack of the railways behind the Russian front. Repeatedly troop trains have been brought to a standstill and railway establishments have been destroyed."

FIGHTING AT VERDUN DIES DOWN FROM SHEER EXHAUSTION

OF COMBATANTS

PARIS, June 14.—The fighting around Verdun has once more died down from sheer exhaustion of combatants. An entire division, half of whom were Bavarians and half Pomeranians was used up by the Germans in 12 separate attempts Monday to storm the French position north of Thiaumont. From this position the French flanking fire prevented the enemy from advancing on Vaux plateau. No result having been attained by nightfall, fresh troops were brought up and an attempt was made to turn the position from the southwest. After a desperate struggle a footing was obtained in some of the trenches on Hill No. 321, half a mile west of Thiaumont and a mile east of Bras.

No effort was made to increase this advantage yesterday owing probably to the losses on Monday, which, according to prisoners, were exceptionally heavy. A man belonging to the Sixteenth Bavarian Infantry stated that his regiment had lost nearly a third of its effective.

BRITISH COLUMN ENTERED KERMAN, PRINCIPAL TOWN OF SOUTHEASTERN PERSIA

LONDON, June 14.—A Reuter despatch from Teheran says that General Sykes, with a British column on Monday entered Kerman, the principal town of southeastern Persia.

The purpose is not known publicly here but presumably it is intended to maintain order in the British sphere of Persia. Minor disturbances there have been attributed to German and Turkish emissaries.

SHIP YARDS MAY CLOSE

DEMANDS OF LABOR CANNOT BE MET, SAYS J. W. POWELL OF FORE RIVER YARD

BOSTON, June 14.—Joseph W. Powell, president of the Fore River Ship Building corporation declared in an address today that "the situation surrounding labor's wage demands was developing so fast that all the ship yards in the country soon would be forced to consider whether they should shut down rather than submit to impossible terms." The Fore River Co., he added, had not accepted a new order in four months because of the possible necessity of such action.

President Powell was one of the speakers at a luncheon of naval architects held in connection with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology dedication celebration.

REPORT THAT HE IS ILL EXPLAINED—HE SAYS PROBABLY STRAINED LIGAMENT

NEW YORK, June 14.—Reports today that Theodore Roosevelt was seriously ill apparently proved unfounded. He has been experiencing coughing spells recently and in a statement late today regarding an attack of pain while he was at a pier this morning awaiting the arrival of his son Kermit from South America the colonel explained that this coughing probably had strained a ligament.

"One year ago," the colonel said, "I broke one of my ribs in the left side while riding. The horse fell and threw me. The coughing spells which I have had probably strained a ligament. It is ridiculous, but painful, so, like King George, I arch my neck and walk lightly."

The former president left the pier in an automobile with his family. He appeared later in a public dining room with Mrs. Roosevelt and others and held a political conference there with Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the progressive national convention, and Harold L. Ickes, progressive national committeeman from Illinois.

POISON IN LIQUID FORM

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 14.—Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner, testified today at the trial of Will H. He based his statement on allegations that stains of the poison on Miss Lambert's hands and cheek were sediment and not cyanide in crystal form.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

FADED HAIR NOT INCURABLE

When the color of the hair becomes so faded as to cause anxiety the sufferer may be quite sure that the nervous system is not in the best order, and so seek first of all for the internal tonics and improved habits of life which will build up the body. Sulphur and iron taken internally, anointing the scalp at the same time with yolk of egg, is a treatment endorsed by good physicians for restoring faded hair to its natural color, as these things supply the minerals upon which the coloring matter of the hair is supposed to depend.

The following solution of iron, applied externally, is also advised by authoritative persons for the same causes: Citrate of iron, 8 drams; tux vomica, 2 drams; coconut oil, 1 1/2 ounces. Boil 24 hours. This is especially good for dark hair, as the iron produces a delicate stain. The scalp and hair must be moistened with the lotion about twice a week.

Regarding simple dressings for the hair, something that will give the high gloss fashion now demands for the well-dressed head, the simpler the medium used the better, as all hair dressings tend to clog the scalp after a while.

A dressing which will give the hair a look of richness and besides, increase its growth, is made of 10 ounces of eau de cologne and two ounces of pure castor oil. If the cologne is made of pure spirits, it will dissolve the oil completely, leaving a lotion clear and sweet; so it is necessary to get the purest German cologne the market affords for the purpose, only the best thing blending properly with the oil.

ENGINEERS AND FIREMAN'S PAY RAISED AT CHELMSFORD STREET HOSPITAL

Asked relative to the two men whose wages were raised at the Chelmsford street hospital as referred to at the Plunder hearing, yesterday, Mayor O'Donnell said: "One of the men was a fireman and the other an engineer. Their pay was raised because it was necessary for the city to conform to the standard wage paid engineers and firemen. The engineers' and firemen's union demanded it and the two men in question are receiving the same

RAILROAD WAGE QUESTION

NEW YORK, June 14.—The fate of the negotiations between the railroad managers of the United States and their employees, for a settlement of the wage question hung today on the willingness of the railroad to present a "definite answer" to the men's demands.

The union heads at their conference here today rejected the railroad's "contingent" proposition and demanded "something definite." The railroad managers met this afternoon to determine what action would be taken.

MITCHELL CAR POPULAR

LOCAL AGENT REPORTS MACHINE MAKING BIG HIT—NOTES OF DEALERS

The new Mitchell car, the agent for which is Hubert S. Girard of the Howard street garage, is making a big hit among the local auto enthusiasts, although the agency has been established only a brief time. There are two ways of choosing a car. One way is to examine the car itself, and the other way is to follow the judgment of those who understand automobiles. The first method is of value only to those who are familiar with machines. Those who are not must rely upon the words of reliable and disinterested parties. Some of the world's most famous mechanical engineers have pronounced the new Mitchell to be mechanically the best car they have ever seen, and they have given further strength to their words by becoming owners of Mitchell cars.

While on Bridge street yesterday afternoon in answer to a "sick call" auto ambulance number 1 of the Pitts Auto Supply backed up and was partially destroyed by fire. At present the damaged machine is at the headquarters in Hurd street. Later it will be repaired and used again in the service. Fortunately service car number 2 was ready for use, having just come from the painter's, resplendent in its bright appearance. The use of this car will keep Pitts' service unimpaired.

George R. Dana has already sold over twenty-two Cadillac cars in the eastern part of the city this year. Twenty of this number were purchased by persons living in the Belvidere section. Although Mr. Dana has disposed of his entire spring allotment of cars, he is able to secure more and can make immediate deliveries of a roadster and two touring cars.

The Boston Auto Supply company is doing a big business on bumpers. The large stock which this company recently laid in is well known and has been seen in for more. The tremendous sale of these bumpers clearly shows that the local autoist believes in preparedness when it comes to anything which will protect his car from damage. Autoists will do well to equip their cars with bumpers and avoid considerable damage when the occasion arrives.

S. L. Rochette of the Lowell Motor Mart reports the following delivery of Ford cars during the past week: John A. McNamara, Chelmsford street; Alfred Sear, West Meadowcroft street; Martin J. Quinn, Gorham street; George A. Friend, Eighteenth street; William Carp, Chelmsford; Gabriel Kahan, Gorham street; Alfred Chalfour, Hildreth street; Mr. M. D. Bryant, Harvard street; and his Dodge Brothers car through the same agency.

Today Pitts' Auto Supply advertises theft insurance. It is by no means given to understand that this popular supply house is issuing policies on theft insurance, but rather to inform Ford owners of an easy and economical way by which to protect their machines from thieves. The way offered is by using a Ford lock which makes a Ford absolutely theft-proof. This absolute protection can be secured for $1, which of course, must be added to the security obtained by the use of the same.

The weather last week must have discouraged any car owner who received his new machine during the past week, but that will all be forgotten during the fine days which are to follow.

Garland Bros. of Braut have received their five passenger touring car from the Auburn Motor Car company, Thorndike street. L. N. Cushman is enjoying his Auburn 6-cylinder also secured through the same agency.

Ezra Meeker of Seattle, Wash., a grizzled pioneer 82 years old who is making a cross continent tour from Washington, D. C. to Seattle, Wash. in the interest of a national highway to the Pacific coast, is an enthusiast when it comes to the twelve cylinder motor. Ezra is using a typical prairie schooner on his trip, which is mounted on a automobile chassis. "I am more familiar with an ox team than an automobile," says Ezra Meeker, "but I do know what comfort is. When I crossed the Oregon trail with an ox team and a schooner it was mighty different from the manner in which I am making this trip. I cannot speak too loudly of the comforts of my trip. The car is as easy riding as a crack continental railroad train. I am eighty-two years old and I believe there must be something to automobile engineering and construction when, at this age, I can ride in an auto over 200 miles in one day and not be fatigued as much as 20 miles in my original prairie schooner and at that time I was a young man. I have never been up in an airship but I believe an automobile is the nearest approach to that sensation. The car simply flies. So far have not even had a puncture."

Motor car users in the future will not have to worry whether or not the grease cups are filled and turned up. If development during 1916 is followed up. For instance, on one make of cars there are only four grease cups and these are on the steering connections. There are cars which have as many as fifty or sixty grease cups with instructions that each should be turned up once every week or ten days. These are generally used for lubricating minor parts such as spring bolts, shafts, brake operating rods, etc.

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday we will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions or problems they may wish to have answered. Send them to the attention of the Editor, Sun, Lowell, Mass. Communications must bear the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Please publish advice as to the following: I have a 79-T Overland car (1914) which has dry cells for starting. Would it be advisable to connect the storage battery for lights and starter to starting coil and eliminate the dry cells?

G. S. Ans. It is not advisable to connect the storage battery to the starting coil as it may injure the coil, and if the switch is left connected when the engine is standing still it will ruin the coil and injure the battery.

Could you tell me the original price of an Everett touring car, four-cylinder, 36-horsepower, 1912 model, manufactured by the Metzger Motor corporation of Detroit?

Will you kindly enumerate possible causes for overheating of engine?

Is there any way of telling whether the water pump is working or not without disconnecting it?

The above questions are brought out by the fact that my Everett car ran perfectly last Sunday, but on taking it out Decoration day it would not run three miles without boiling the water in the radiator. Absolutely the only thing I did in the meantime was to turn down the low speed button on my carburetor, so as to get a thinner mixture, but I do not see how that could be responsible for such serious results.

F. M. Ans. The list price was $1500 f. o. b. (factory). Lack of water, poor circulation, fan belt broken or slipping, radiator dirty (externally or internally), carburetor not adjusted properly, spark too late, valves not timed right, and running too long on low gear.

Fill radiator to within an inch of the filler tube and start motor, or if return water pipe is to one side so the return cannot be seen, disconnect the hose at the radiator. Disconnect the fan so it will not blow water on the cylinder. Start engine and run very slow. Water pump should work at low speed, if in proper condition.

About two years ago you printed a formula in your auto aid column for a spring lubricant which would lubricate springs for a considerable time and not stain or make the springs too greasy. It contained graphite, beeswax, and one or two more ingredients which I have forgotten. Will you please print the formula again or inform me where I can find it?

E. B. Ans. A good spring lubricant is made up of two parts of petroleum jelly, one-half pound flake graphite and one-quarter pound beeswax. The springs should be taken apart and all rust cleaned off before the lubricant is applied.

Can you suggest the trouble on the following:

I have a Ford 1914 touring car. In shifting from low to high the car will jerk. Also when it is running slow or high it will start to jerk. Have cleaned the carburetor and engine. After slipping the gear and getting it rolling it runs smoothly.

N. V. Ans. Try the compression of each cylinder. Loose carbon may have remained in the cylinders and been caught under the exhaust valves while passing out. Look over the ignition carefully, especially the timing and the plugs. The inlet manifold may have a leak around the gaskets where it is attached to the cylinders. Clean out the gasoline strainer and then adjust the carburetor.

Does a brake equalizer make both brakes hold the same?

C. P. Ans. Not unless the brakes have the same braking effect on each wheel. The equalizer balances the foot or hand effort between the two wheels, and the brakes must be adjusted so that the pressure on one side will have the same effect as on the other. The equalizer will account for the wear.

Please tell me how many batteries or dry cells would give good satisfaction on a four-cylinder Buick car and would a Delco condenser work on a Remy magneto, or would that condenser have anything to do with the car stopping when switched in the magneto? D. T.

Ans. Six cells in series will give good results. The Delco condenser would not be suitable for a magneto. If the car will run on the battery the cause of stopping is not due to the condenser, as condenser trouble would affect both battery and magneto. Look for a loose connection from the magneto to coil switch or at the collector brush.

Please advise me what "dilute" is as used in motor cars. Also if there is any recognized rule as to right of way at road or street crossings where there is no traffic officer.

D. B. Ans.—It is any liquid that has been evaporated from another liquid or solid and distilled; usually it means the less volatile fuels. All things being equal, traffic on a main road or street has the right of way over an intersecting street, excepting fire department machines, ambulances, police patrols, and mail vehicles. It is common practice to give a heavily loaded horse-drawn vehicle the right of way.

I have a model 35 Oakland with Hotley carburetor, Delco electrical system.

The motor runs all right up to from ten to fifteen miles on level roads, but above that, and on taking a grade the motor begins to miss and explode in the muffler.

It does this as soon as I move the throttle lever over about three inches. What seems to be the trouble, as I have had the carburetor adjusted from A to Z.

F. N. Ans.—The battery may be weak. Make sure that it is being charged while the engine is running. One or more cylinders may be misfiring, especially at low speeds. The various causes of this condition are poor compression, defective spark plugs, defective high tension lines, or short circuiting primary wires, loose breaker points, dirty or not adjusted properly, leak in intake manifold, or the carburetor out of adjustment.

We have a five-passenger touring car and have just installed a new cylinder block and pistons.

I find that when it is on high speed and going up a high grade it chokes and misfires. The intake manifold is long and I think the quality of the gas not being so good that it does not vaporize quick enough. Do you think it would help the running of the engine to put a heating attachment to the carburetor?

2. Would it improve the carburetor if the intake manifold was shortened?

3. Do you suppose the magnets are firing too quick and not enough off centre?

4. What should be the proper clearance on the pistons 3 1/2 by 5 inch stroke? We seem to have good compression.

C. P. Ans.—The compression is probably not as good as it should be. Look at the valves and make sure that they seat properly. The rings will fit better after they have been run about 1,000 miles. The more the intake charge can be heated the greater will be the efficiency of the engine; therefore, a heating attachment will be beneficial.

Shortening the manifold would make it less liable to condense the vaporized mixture. In doing so, care must be taken that a sufficient pressure of gasoline reaches the float chamber.

The magnets breaker points should begin to separate when piston is just past top dead centre with spark fully retarded.

Clearance would depend upon the compression desired by the designer. A great many engines allow 30 per cent. of the cylinder volume as compression space.

I have a Cadillac car with two wheels out of alignment (front wheel and rear wheel). Both wheels run unevenly; that is, they wobble. I hit a curb with the left front wheel and a curb with the right rear wheel. On the front wheel I turned the steering cross rod yoke to the left a full turn, but there was no change. I then turned the yoke back to its regular position and gave it a full turn to the right, and the wheel still wobbles.

The distance from one rear wheel to the other is 57 inches, measuring from centre of tread. The front wheels are 56 inches.

J. F. Ans.—The wheels have probably been sprung in the hubs or else the hubs themselves have been bent out of true. Take the hubs apart and put them back on the axles without the wheels. By turning the hubs and watching carefully, any irregularity can be noted. If the hubs are out of true they will have to be taken to a machine shop and trued up in a lathe. If they are all right, the spokes are sprung and will need to be trued up. The front wheels should be farther apart in the rear than in the front. This is called foretrail and should be about 5-16 of an inch.

HELPFUL HINTS

The headlights should be dustproof. If dust shows on the reflectors blow it off with air from the pump or small hand bellows. Do not use polish, as this removes the silvering. After cleaning, look at the joint between the glass and reflector. This should be smooth and even. Sometimes an extra strip of felt helps considerably to prevent dust from getting in to the reflectors.

The connections of the battery should be loosened and cleaned occasionally, in order to get a good clean contact. Sometimes the terminals will become so corroded that the self-starter will not operate.

When jacking up the rear wheels, never set the jack under the trans rod, as the strain will stretch the rod and make it useless for the very purpose it

FIVE MEN LOST LIVES

Four Others Missing and 19 Injured—$2,000,000 Loss is Caused by Fire in Grain Elevator

BALTIMORE, Md., June 14.—Five men are known to have lost their lives as a result of the fire yesterday that destroyed Pennsylvania railroad elevator No. 3 on the harbor front at Canton, a suburb. Four others are unaccounted for, and of the 19 injured in hospitals two are in a critical condition.

PREPAREDNESS PARADE

or today, "with the hearty and ready response of the people of Lowell. I appreciated it was short notice for so big an affair, but I felt that we could go through with it and come out all right. I am sure that we have succeeded admirably. The right spirit has prevailed throughout. It seemed to me as if every man and woman looked upon the idea as the most beneficial thing to take place in Lowell for a long space of time.

"The committee selected to further the progress of the celebration, and the chief marshal and chief of staff have done splendid work and it is owing to that work, I believe, and also to the splendid attitude taken by the people that the affair gives promise of such unbounded success. The newspapers have taken a wonderfully active interest and have kept the public informed as to everything that was going on.

"The contributions received were entirely voluntary and there has been no desire to insist upon contributions having been made. The celebration will not cost the city anything and all the committee required was enough money to supply bands for divisions or organizations not having bands of their own. This money was freely given and had we required thousands instead of a few hundred I am sure we could have had it. We have planned the biggest parade in the city's history and the smallest amount of money. I am sure that we all have cause to feel pretty well satisfied."

U. S. Cartridge Company

The United States Cartridge company will have a little parade of its own after the big parade is over, and it will not be a very small parade, either, as the company expects to turn out 400 strong. The cartridge shop marchers will not disband when its section reaches Cabot street, but will continue on to Market street, down Market to Suffolk, to Fletcher, to Thorne, to the Casino, where the members will be disbanded. The several bands accompanying this section will remain in line and the unit will make quite a formidable appearance in the above named streets.

Mayor Instructs Police

Mayor O'Donnell has issued his instructions to the superintendent of police relative to the policing of the parade route. When the paraders disband they are to be allowed to go back by way of Moody street, but may continue up Moody, or up Cabot, down Market, Adams, Common or any of those streets. The purpose of not allowing them to go back Moody street is to obviate any interference with that portion of the parade that is still en route.

Mayor Sends Invitations

The mayor invited Captain McCoy and Lieutenants McGuinness and Gray, U.S.A., to review the parade at city hall. They answered that they would come if possible. These officers are now stationed at the Sudbury Training camp. Other retired and active army officers who will review the parade from the reviewing stand at city hall will include Gen. Adelbert Ames, Col. Parker, Lieut. Col. E. B. Buck, Col. Butler Ames and Commander E. H. Scribner. The lieutenant governor and his staff are also expected. The reviewing stand is large enough to accommodate 50 people.

White Way Lights

The mayor took up the matter of the white way lights with Mr. Hunnewell of the Lowell Electric Light corporation, the thought having occurred to him that the light should be put on and downed to burn later, and Mr. Hunnewell told the mayor that he had arranged to have the lights turned on at dusk and that they would be kept burning until 11 a. m. instead of 11 p. m., as per contract. The two hours extra of white way lights will not cost the city anything, and Mr. Hunnewell, who is an active member of the committee on arrangements, said he was only too pleased to do it.

Chauvins and Repair Men

Lowell chauvins and repair men expect a large turnout in the parade this evening. All will meet at 7 o'clock, sharp, at the Church street garage, where they will be met by St. Joseph's drum corps of Lawrence. Uniformity of dress will be a feature of this section.

General Orders

General Orders No. 7.

1. At the stroke of 5:30 p. m. every organization then on the march will immediately halt. Every band, whether marching or not will simultaneously begin the playing of "America," and paraders, whether or not their line of march has then begun will join with the onlookers in singing two verses of "America." It is the intention to have the two verses sung at the same moment throughout the entire line of the parade.
2. Division marshals, chiefs of organizations and individual marchers are urged to co-operate in keeping closed up throughout the line of march. A careful attention to this detail is essential in view of the thousands in line and of the time at best consumed in completing the line of march.

Der Order

John Jacob Rogers, Chief Marshal, Thomas J. O'Donnell, Chief of Staff.

The chief of staff asked the newspapers to request the paraders not to smoke while parading.

Postoffice Employees

The organization of Lowell Post Office Employees will be as follows: Letter Carriers Band of Boston. Lowell Post Office Employees, Assist-

The loss is estimated at $2,000,000. It represents the cost of the elevator, the value of the grain therein, and damage to the Dutch steamer William Van Der, and the British steamer Welbeck hall which was moored alongside the elevator.

A spark from broken machinery is thought to have caused the fire.

Postmaster Edwards Cheney, commanding. Lieut. Geo. S. Howard, adjutant. Staff-Supt. of Mails Edwin H. Cooke, Supt. of Delivery Abdon S. Ashworth. Letter Carriers under command of David H. Brown, president of the Letter Carriers' association.

Post office clerks and other post office employees under command of James L. O'Dea, president Clerks' association.

The Weather Question

If it should rain or look so much like it that the committee would deem it advisable to postpone the parade the fire department will sound the no-school signal, two strokes three times repeated, on the fire alarm system at 4 p. m. sharp. The parade will be held Friday night on the same plans and hours if it is found necessary to postpone.

Business Men's Battalion

Companies C and D of the Business Men's battalion stepped into the limelight last night and moved their semimilitaristic feet in the public streets. They didn't look half as bad as the pictures of men in the trenches, or "somewhere in France." Capt. Walter H. Jeyes of Company C, M.V.M., was their instructor and he put them through all of the marching movements that they will be called upon to perform in the parade tonight—and then some.

Both companies turned out with nearly full ranks. They were brought out into Paige street and from there went into Kirk and Merrimack streets, returning via John street.

The Business Men's Battalion will assemble tonight at the armory at 7 o'clock, and a few minutes later will be moved out to take its appointed place in the parade formation. The men are notified to wear their full uniform, including the coats, but if they don't have them they may wear the coat. Tan shoes are required.

Following the supper and before the business meeting was held there were short talks by several of the gentlemen present. Stanley J. Garnet was toastmaster and presided very graciously and efficiently.

Dr. C. E. Simpson spoke on "Ideals of Doctors and Nurses." Dr. D. E. Yarnell in his remarks showed the position of the association in connection with the general health enterprise of the city.

Dr. M. D. Bryant then gave a stirring talk on "Preparedness," dwelling essentially on the need of efficient and adequate military preparations to insure peace against any possible invasion. Dr. J. J. Meigs, M.D., Bristol, Mehan followed with remarks appropriate to the occasion. Dr. Mehan emphasized the fact that persons tendering first aid treatment should not show any prejudice in cases where a physician is consulted.

Secretary of War Baker, who arrived here last night with the planks drafted personally by President Wilson will submit them to the resolutions committee. Mr. Baker has taken extra precautions to prevent the text of his address from reaching the public. He has submitted to the committee Expressions of approval were heard today regarding the suggested plan to win over members of the progressive party by making overtures to them in the democratic platform. Secretary Baker in discussing this phase of the political situation says the party leaders hoped to get the progressive support by drawing a platform so that it will meet with their approval.

Industrial Plank

Denunciation of the use of the military and armed guards by organized workers is contained in a proposed industrial plank submitted by Frank P. Walsh, former chairman of the federal industrial relations committee, to Senator Stone who will be chairman of the resolutions committee. Mr. Walsh also declared the right of labor unions to organize.

Want Larger Navy

A delegation of the Navy league which is here to advocate a larger navy will suggest to the resolutions committee a plank along the lines of the following:

"The democratic party recognizes its constitutional duty to protect each coast from invasion and, realizing that the peace, security and honor of the country depends on an adequate navy, we pledge ourselves to declare, by resolution, the necessity of immediate restoration of the United States to the place of at least second in sea power among the nations of the world."

Bryan, the Reformer

Many democrats familiar with the activities of William J. Bryan in other democratic conventions are not sure that the former standard bearer of the party will not become active in the present convention. Mr. Bryan said he would not go on the floor with a proxy, but might speak to the delegates if invited. It was thought he might appear before the resolutions committee in advocacy of some of his bills. Mr. Bryan said he did not expect to present his views on prohibition to the committee but was here only to observe and write his impressions of the convention.

Tickets Come High

Admission tickets to the Coliseum were selling today for 35 cents. Fifty dollars was offered for a series of tickets. Chairman McCombs of the national committee called upon the city authorities to arrest all persons found selling the tickets. Mr. McCombs also ordered an investigation to learn how the tickets reached the speculators.

The Alaska delegation will present to the platform committee a resolution recommending the employment of only American labor on government construction work in Alaska.

There are about 15,000 seats in the Coliseum. Of these 12,000 seats are on the platform, 4,000 in the section reserved for newspapers and press associations; 235 for weekly papers and 2155 for the delegates and alternates.

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

We have been greatly troubled this spring by the sparrows making their nests in the eaves and behind the blinds. I did not like to tear away the nests, so Cook hit upon this idea and it has proven a great success. She made small bags of cheesecloth, into them placed a few moth balls and then placed the bags wherever the birds had their nests or had started to build them. In a few days we were rid of them entirely and have not been bothered since.

Cook has also discovered that mice which refuse to be caught in a trap baited with cheese, come readily to it if pieces of fish and oyster or scallop are used. We have caught five at one time with this bait while the trap set with cheese was untouched. Mice can be most successfully exterminated if you stuff all their holes with a piece of rag which has been dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

At this time of year if something different or original can be served to us that whets our jaded appetites caused by the heavy and rich food we all indulge in too much during the winter, we turn to it with almost a prayer of thanksgiving. Cook served us this morning a pineapple sweetbread, one of the most appetizing dishes I have tasted for a long time. She gave me the recipe to pass on to you.

Parboil one large pair of sweetbreads and when done, trim and dice them. Chop enough fresh pineapple to make one heaping cup, and add this to the sweetbread with one cup of dry bread crumbs, also pepper, salt, a gill of melted butter, a tablespoon of chutney and two beaten eggs. Pour the mixture into a buttered pudding dish. Dust the top with grated cheese and bake in the oven 20 minutes.

Why is it that trips are seen so seldom on our home tables and almost never at the larger hotels? I confess myself I never cared very much for trips until Cook served it in a new way the other day. She says it is a southern way of cooking it and she calls it southern stewed tripe.

Take one pound of honeycomb tripe and wash it carefully. Put it on to stew in milk and when tender, drain. Have ready a cream sauce in which the juice of an onion and a chopped red pepper have been cooked. Dice the tripe and add it to the sauce. Pour the mixture into a well buttered baking dish and cover with thin slices of bacon, sprinkle a few drops of lemon juice and a little red pepper over the bacon and place the dish in the oven. By the time the bacon is crisp, the dish is ready to be served.

In these days of necessary economy in dye stuffs one should be sure to take the precaution to set the color of every colored wash garment. Cook told me just how this should be done.

For any colored material take a handful of salt and two tablespoons of turpentine to three-quarters of a pail of hot water. Put the goods in and allow to remain until the water is cold. This will set colors permanently and neither sun nor washing will fade them afterwards.

Everyone is proud of a spotless bathtub and Cook says when you clean your porcelain bathtub with them dry, then rub dry salt on them and you will be delighted with results. I also use salt when I sweep rugs and it brightens them wonderfully.

A porcelain sink can be cleaned with paraffin. Dip a flannel lightly into the paraffin and rub the sink till all the stains are removed, then thoroughly scrub it with soda water. When porcelain baking dishes become discolored on the inside, fill them with buttermilk and let stand for two or three days. This will remove all stains from the dishes.

PREMIER ASQUITH EVENT

THE THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ELECTION TO PARLIAMENT IS OBSERVED

LADYFRANK, Scotland, June 14.—In observance of the 30th anniversary of his election to the house of commons from East Fife, Premier Asquith today visited his constituency for the first time since the outbreak of the war, addressing a great meeting of his supporters and many who in past years have been his opponents.

The premier made a touching reference to the death of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener as "leaving a place in our constitutional life that none else can fill and a memory that will live as long as the British empire."

Lord Kitchener had bequeathed to the country an array of armor, said the premier, and it was for the country to make the best use of these.

In a survey of the situation, Premier Asquith declared that the Russian advance was one of the most brilliant features of the war.

WISEST LEADER SINCE CIVIL WAR

Wilson Thus Hailed by Martin H. Glynn —Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity are Issues on Which Democratic Party Stands

St. Louis, June 14.—With the assertion that no president since the civil war has had as cruel problems to solve, and no president has displayed a grasp more sure, a statesmanship more profound, as President Wilson. Hon. Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York, opened the Democratic national convention here today. Declaring that "Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity, are the issues upon which the Democratic party stands, and the heart of Democracy swells with pride that is more than a pride of party as it holds the man who has asserted this Americanism, assured this peace, advocated this preparedness and produced this prosperity," he predicted the re-election of President Wilson.

Taking up our foreign relations that have been called into emphatic prominence by the world wide war, the speaker declared that "We have entered this hall as Democrats; we shall deliberate as Americans." . . . The policy of neutrality, he argued, is as truly American as the American flag. For 200 years neutrality was a theory; America made it a fact. "It took Washington and his successors eighty years of endless negotiation to win recognition of American neutrality. And this eighty years of struggle wove the doctrine of neutrality so closely into the warp and woof of our national life that to tear it out now would unravel the very threads of our existence." By the records of history Mr. Glynn maintained that if Washington and Lincoln were right President Wilson is right. The neutrality that President Wilson stands for today was advocated by Washington, by Hamilton, by Jefferson and by Lincoln.

Followed Examples of Greatest Presidents.

By citing precedents Mr. Glynn justified and defended the course of the president in the Lusitania and similar incidents. "In the face of this record," he asked, "do Republicans realize that when they arraign the policy of the president of the United States today they arraign the policy of Harrison, of Blaine, of Lincoln and of Grant? For the pleasure of criticizing a Democratic president, are they willing to read out of the Republican party the greatest men the Republican party ever had? Are they willing to say that the Republican party of today condemns what Hamilton did in revolutionary days, what Lincoln did in civil war days, and what Grant and Blaine and Harrison did but yesterday?"

"In his policy of peaceful negotiations today the president of the United States follows the example set him by the greatest presidents which the Democratic party and the greatest presidents the Republican party ever gave this nation."

Mr. Glynn impressed on his hearers that it was the business of this convention, "representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

"We must enable every real American to stand up and assert his Americanism. We must make the issue so clear that every ballot box in the land may become a monument to the loyalty of American manhood."

"The citizens of this country must stand behind their president because his policies are right. They will stand behind him because his policies are the policies which have brought the nation a century of prosperous and honored peace. They will stand behind him because they want these policies continued, that prosperity prolonged, that peace assured."

Party Pledges Redeemed.

He pointed out that the promise made four years ago that a Democratic administration would liberate the nation from the chains of industrial tyranny has been carried out. He eulogized the federal reserve act and declared that the "scholar-statesman, whose rod has struck the golden rock of America's resources to set free the wealth imprisoned for half a century, is a Moses who has led America's industries from the wilderness of doubt and despair to the promised land of prosperity and hope."

The laws restraining big business from stifling competition, the trades commission act, the movement to foster expansion of American trade, the close union of economic, commercial and financial interests between the United States and the nations of South America are shown to be legislation of the wisest benefit. The Underwood tariff Mr. Glynn characterized as the fairest and the best of all we have enacted. Under the present administration the United States has enjoyed a wonderful era of good business and good times.

American Ideals Fostered.

The American's ideals and his aspirations served as the basis for the speaker's opening discussion. "We who stand today on the fertile soil of America, who live under the smiling skies of a free and fruitful land, must prove worthy of the trust that American sacrifice has imposed on every American."

"Disregarding the divisions that make one man a Tory and another a Whig, one man a Republican and another a Democrat, Americans will cast aside the tinsel of party labels and the humbug of party emblems."

"From the great pulsing heart of the nation will come a patriot command to crush partisanship and rebuke whatever is mean or blind."

"The command will be heard by the plowman in his field and by the laborer at his bench. It will reach the merchant in his office and the lawyer at his desk. We would be false to ourselves and recreant to those who send us here if we permitted any thought of partisan profit, any consideration of political advantage to obscure our vision of the tremendous issues now before the people of the United States. We must cast aside all that is selfish; we must hold ourselves worthy of a nation's confidence by offering only the best of our intelligence, the flower of our patriotism toward the solution of what all men perceive to be a crisis in the nation's affairs."

The Paramount Issue.

In asking for an endorsement of the president's peace policy Mr. Glynn said:

"For two years the world has been aghast. The civilization that we know has been torn by the mightiest struggle in its history. Sparks from Europe's conflagration have blazed in our own skies, echoes of her strife have sounded at our very doors. That fire still burns, that struggle still continues, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay, thus far it has saved its people from participation in the conflict.

"What the people of the United States must determine through their suffrage is whether the course the country has pursued through this crucial period is to be continued, whether the principles that have been asserted as our national policy shall be indorsed or withdrawn."

"This is the paramount issue. No lesser issue must cloud it, no unrelated problems must confuse it."

In declaring that the policy of neutrality is as American as the American flag Mr. Glynn asserted that:

"The first president of the United States was the first man to pronounce neutrality a rule of international conduct."

"In April, 1793, Washington declared the doctrine, and within a month John Jay, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, in an epoch making decision from the bench whose realization would insure universal and perpetual peace, wrote the principle into the law of this land. The Declaration of Independence had foretold it by declaring 'the rest of mankind enemies in war, in peace friends.' The constitution recognized it, but the first president of the United States by proclamation, the first chief justice by interpretation, gave it vitality and power."

Stands With Washington.

"The president of the United States stands today where stood the men who made America and who saved America. He stands where John Adams stood when he told King George that America was the land he loved and that peace was her grandeur and her welfare. He stands where General Grant stood when he said there never was a war that could not have been settled better some other way, and he has shown his willingness to try the way of peace before he seeks the paths of war. He stands where George Washington stood when he prayed that this country would never unsheath the sword except in self defense so long as justice and our essential rights could be preserved without it."

"For rain or shine, for blood and iron, but the president of the United States has acted on the belief that the leader of a nation who plunges his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate vainly washes his hands of innocent blood while the earth quakes and the heavens are darkened and thousands give up the ghost."

Republican Party False to Its Traditions.

Speaking of the opposition to the president's peace policy, the speaker continued:

"By opposing what we stand for today the Republican party opposes what Hamilton stood for a century ago. The founder of the Republican party and the founder of the Democratic party, placing their country's happiness above every other consideration, forgot partisanship and made American neutrality a national creed. We who follow Jefferson stand where Jefferson stood, but we look in vain for a sign from the present leaders of the Republican party to show that they follow where Hamilton led. Where Hamilton counseled moderation they denounce it. Where Hamilton thought only of country they think only of self. Where Hamilton placed patriotism above partisanship they place partisanship above patriotism. How then do they dare to speak for the great body of American citizens who form the rank and file of the Republican party? Do these leaders believe that their Republicanism is a better Republicanism than Hamilton's, their Americanism a purer Americanism than that of Washington?"

"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, if Lincoln was right, then the president of the United States is right to day. If the Republican leaders are right then Lincoln was wrong and Jefferson was wrong and Hamilton was wrong and Washington was wrong."

The justification of our policy of neutrality is expressed by Mr. Glynn in these words:

"Before this declaration every war was a world war; since this declaration nearly every war has been a local war. Before this declaration war was a whirlpool, ever increasing in area and in its whirl dragging down the nations of the earth; since this declaration war has become a sea of trouble upon which nations embark only from self will, from self interest or the necessity of geographical position, or financial obligation or political alliance."

Neutrality Kept Us at Peace.

"Neutrality is the policy which has kept us at peace while Europe has been driving the nails of war through the hands and feet of a crucified humanity."

"The praises of this policy are not written in the ruins of American homes, not on the wreck of American industries, not in the mourning of American families; they are found in the myriad evidences of prosperity and plenty that make this a contented land. From every whirling spindle in America, from every factory wheel that turns, from every growing thing that breathes its prayer of plenty to the skies, from every quiet school, from every crowded mart, from every peaceful home goes up a song of praise, a psalm of thanksgiving to byman a nation's tribute to the statesmanship that has brought these things to pass."

The issue raised by Democracy's opponents of the vigor with which our neutrality has been enforced is dealt with by the records of history:

"When Grant was president, during the war between Spain and the Spanish West Indies, a Spanish gunboat seized the vessel Virginius flying the American flag and a Spanish commandant in cold blood shot the captain of the Virginius, thirty-six of the crew and sixteen of the passengers."

"But we didn't go to war. Grant settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Harrison was president the people of Chile conceived a violent dislike to the United States for our insistence upon neutrality during the Chilean revolution. When this feeling was at its height one junior officer from the United States warship Baltimore was killed outright in the streets of Valparaiso and sixteen of our sailors wounded, of whom one afterward died."

Negotiation Better Than War.

"But we didn't go to war. Harrison settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Lincoln was president this country's rights were violated on every side. England, Russia, France and Spain were guilty of such flagrant violations that Secretary of State Seward advanced a plan to go to war with all of them at one and the same time."

"But we didn't go to war. Lincoln

settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president is trying to do today."

"When Pierce was president the British minister in this country and three of his counsel violated our neutrality during the Crimean war. We gave these representatives of Great Britain their passports and sent them home."

"But we didn't go to war. Pierce settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Van Buren was president a detachment of Canadian militia, during the internal troubles in Canada, boarded the United States ship Carolina in the American waters of Niagara river, killed an American member of the crew, fired the ship and sent her adrift over Niagara falls."

"But we didn't go to war. Van Buren settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Jefferson was president England seized hundreds of our ships and Napoleon hundreds more."

"When Adams was president France preyed upon our commerce. She extended her seizure, searches and confiscations to the very waters of the United States themselves until she had piled up in our state department charges of over 2,300 violations of neutrality's law."

"But we didn't go to war. Adams settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Washington was president and 'neutrality' first declared, war convulsed Europe our ships dared not put to sea, commerce was paralyzed and business depressed. American passengers and American crews were thrown into prison and deprived of legal rights."

"But we didn't go to war. Washington settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

Advocates of War Confounded.

In concluding this issue Mr. Glynn asks:

"Do the critics of the present administration believe that Lincoln should have risked national disaster by using the sword rather than the pen in pressing the Alabama claims? Are they willing to brand Grant as a coward because he kept us at peace with Spain?"

In answer to those who say that President Wilson's policy does not satisfy any one Mr. Glynn replies: "He means that it does not satisfy those who would map out a new and untried course for this nation to pursue, but they forget it does satisfy those who believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for a century and more."

"Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court says this policy has given America the greatest diplomatic victory of the past generation. Maximilian Harden, Germany's noted editor, says 'that never once has this republic violated its neutrality,' and Gilbert K. Chesterton, the famous English journalist, says 'it is the duty of the president of the United States to protect the interests of the people of the United States; that he can't dip his country into hell just to show the world he has a keen sense of being an individual savior.'"

"This policy," Mr. Glynn continued, "may not satisfy those who revel in destruction and find pleasure in despair. It may not satisfy the fire eater or the swashbuckler. But it does satisfy those who worship at the altar of the god of peace. It does satisfy the mothers of the land at whose hearth and bedside no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair. It does satisfy the daughters of this land from whom bluster and brag have sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave. It does satisfy the fathers of this land and the sons of this land who will fight for our flag and die for our flag when reason primes his rifle, when honor draws the sword, when justice breathes a blessing on the standards they uphold."

"Fighting for every degree of injury," he maintained, "would mean perpetual war, and this is the policy of our opponents, deny it how they will. It would give us a war abroad each time the fighting cock of the European weather vane shifted with the breeze. It would make America the cockpit of the world. We would be so busy settling other people's quarrels that we would have no time to attend to our own business."

Preparedness For Defense.

In his treatment of the issue of preparedness Mr. Glynn asserts that the genius of this country is for peace.

"We have built our greatness on the resources of nature and the peaceful lot of our people. The ring of the anvil, not the rattle of the saber; the song of the reaper, not the shriek of the soldier; the clatter of the shuttle, not the crack of the rifle, have won us the place we occupy in the councils of the world."

"Like the old Mohawk chief who loved peace, we would like to throw the tomahawk of war so high in the sky that no man's hand could ever pull it down. But when some other tribe among the races of men sends us a bundle of arrows wrapped in the skin of a rattlesnake we want, like old Governor Bradford of Massachusetts, to be in a position to send that rattlesnake skin back stuffed with powder and with ball."

"We have been carried too close to the rocks of war during the past two years to believe that those rocks do not exist. And looking into the future we can perceive that if our sovereignty is not challenged, if our peace is not assailed, it will only be because the world knows that we are strong enough to defend ourselves from every foe."

"For these reasons this administration has done more for our army and our navy than any administration in our history."

"More than this, it has mobilized

"And to our opponents we say you can't create an army, can't create a navy, in the course of a day. To them we say if our navy is not strong enough, our army not big enough, the Republican party is 80 per cent to blame, for the Republican party has been in control of this nation 80 per cent of the time during the past fifty years."

"The Democratic party advocates and seeks preparedness, but it is preparedness for defense, not preparedness for aggression."

"It is the preparedness which builds the nation's house upon a rock, so it will not fall when the rains descend and the floods come and the winds blow."

"A regard for national surety as well as a pride of personal honor will therefore bring the American people to the support of their president. Whether their blood is drawn from the banks of the Rhine, or where the river Sanguon flows, whether they hail from Alpine valleys or the meadows of the Pyrenees, whether their descent be German or French, Irish or English, Austrian or Italian, Russian or Greek, the men who have sworn an oath of fealty to the ideals of America will be true."

"They may love the lands of their fathers much, but they love the land of their children more. They may cherish the memory of the sod from whence they sprang, but they stand ready to die for the soil that they have inherited from their fathers."

Democracy Has Kept the Faith.

In his review of our domestic policy the temporary chairman pointed out that the promise made by democracy four years ago had been faithfully kept.

"Today the prosperity which the nation enjoys bears witness that democracy has kept the faith. Today the gates of opportunity are open; the hosts of special privilege stand disarmed. Today the forces of government are encouraging, not blocking the full expression of the nation's progress. Today the business man, the artisan and farmer find themselves free to enjoy the fruits of their labors, unhampered by the sinister power of special privilege or the selfish oppression of 'invisible government.'"

Of the federal reserve act Mr. Glynn had this to say:

"In the panic of 1907, under the old system, New York could not lend a country bank $50,000 with which to meet factory payrolls; in 1915, under the new system inaugurated by this Democratic administration, New York loaned Europe $500,000,000 even though the financial centers of the world were disrupted by the world war, and there were still left in New York the largest bank deposits in its history."

"If this Democratic administration had performed no other public service than the enactment of the federal reserve act it would deserve the unstinted approval of a grateful nation. Thanks to the Democracy and to Democracy's great leader, the business man who is struggling to establish himself may now work out his destiny without living in terror of panics and hard times. The toiler in the factory may ply his tasks in security, knowing that his employer's business is safe from assault. The farmer who must borrow to move his crops may do so without spending his days in anxiety, his nights in nightmares of foreclosure and disaster."

"The Underwood tariff," declared the speaker, "enacted by this administration, has banished greed from the gates of our ports and written justice into our tariff schedules."

"Of all the tariffs we ever enacted this is the fairest and the best."

"Until the foreign war reduced importations no new tariff was ever more satisfactory. The highest protective tariff ever written would probably have given us no more revenue during this European war, and a higher tariff on raw material would have hampered our manufactures. A higher tariff on the necessities of life would have placed a woeful burden on the poor man in the conditions which the war abroad has brought about."

"By the Underwood law this administration has taken the tariff out of politics; by the new tariff commission it proposes to take politics out of the tariff."

Plenty Fills the Land.

"Today prosperity shines from blazing furnaces and glowing forges. It echoes from busy docks and from thronged emporiums of trade. Its message of plenty fills the land with the chant of the spindle and of loom, lifting the mortgage from the poor man's home and promising his children a future that seemed impossible before."

"During the past four years this country has experienced a steady and continuous improvement in business. Wealth has increased 21 per cent, the value of manufactured products 30 per cent, capital 43 per cent, wages 34 per cent and exports 77 per cent. The dole of our prosperity has risen to such an unprecedented height that the only limit to trade is our ability to make and transport the commodities demanded at home and abroad. Our fields and our factories cry aloud for men and unemployment has ceased to be a problem. Wages have advanced, building operations have resumed, real estate has recovered its worth."

Great Increase of Wealth.

"The purchasing power of our people is greater than that of any other people on the globe. Never was there as much money in our vaults as today. The aggregate resources of our national banks are $890,000,000 more than the aggregate resources of the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of Russia, the Reichsbank of Germany, the Bank of the Netherlands, the Swiss National bank and the Bank of Japan. We have $401,000,000 more than we had a year and a half ago and our gold supply exceeds by many hundreds of millions the gold supply of any other nation on earth."

"This avalanche of money poured into our pockets by the rest of the world as a tribute to our national resources and our ability to protect industry is not the measure of our prosperity. It is only the symbol. Compared with our trade at home this foreign trade is a mere pittance. Our domestic commerce today is larger than the foreign commerce of all the nations of the world combined."

"Against this actual condition our opponents raise an argument of 'ifs.' With greater truth we can also enter the realm of conjecture and declare that if another candidate had been elected four years ago the United States would be at war today. A ton of 'ifs' do not weigh as much as a single fact. Our opponents forget that 'if' the light of the seagulls off the coast of the West Indies had not directed his course Columbus would not have discovered America when he did. But the seagulls were there—'ifs' cannot banish them—and Columbus found our land."

Chairman Glynn concluded with praise for President Wilson, who, he said, has measured up to the best traditions of a great office.

The Man Who Has Made Democracy Proud.

"He has been wise with a wisdom that is steeped in the traditions of his country, with a wisdom that has been disciplined by training and broadened by instruction."

"He has been firm with the firmness that proceeds from deep conviction, with the firmness that is grounded in a duty well defined."

"He has been patient with the patience which believes and trusts that truth crushed to earth will rise again, with the patience that can endure and wait, watch and pray, for the certain vindication of justice, humanity and right."

"He has been patriotic with a patriotism that has never wavered, a patriotism that is as pure and strong as the faith that moved the fathers when they made our country free."

"And when the history of these days comes to be written and the children of tomorrow read their nation's story, when time shall have dispelled all misconception and the years shall have rendered their impartial verdict one name will shine in golden splendor upon the page that is blackened with the tale of Europe's war, one name will represent the triumph of American principles over the hosts of darkness and of death."

"That name will be the name of the great president who has made Democracy proud that he is a Democrat and made Americans proud that he is an American."

"It will be the name of the statesman who has kept his country true to its faith in a time that tried men's souls; the name of the student and the scholar who has championed the cause of American freedom wherever he found it oppressed; the name of the patriot who has implanted his country's flag on the highest peak to which humanity has yet aspired; the name that carried the torch of progress to victory once and will carry it to victory again—the name of Woodrow Wilson, president and president to be."

FAMILY DENTIST HERE--TO STAY

Care of Teeth Important for Family Health—Teeth Should Be Examined Twice a Year—Service Free.

"The family dentist is just as important today as the family doctor," said Dr. King, New England's foremost dentist. Medical men have learned to recognize that many ailments arise from neglected teeth.

Pains in many parts of the body may be due to a small abscess in a decayed tooth and the up-to-date physician who cannot find the cause refers the patient to the family dentist.

I am aware that many families in this city do not have a family dentist that they can depend on to do the dental work for them at a reasonable price. I want to place my services to these people who consider any dental work a luxury. Any little work that is required will be accomplished free from pain and at very small profit from each member of the family.

I feel that it is much better for me to do the work for four or five people at a little above cost than to make a large profit from one member. Every patient is so perfectly satisfied with my work that they recommend me to their friends and in consequence they are continually advertising my high class dentistry and low prices.

I wish the mothers and the fathers to call on me. Let me examine their teeth and I will tell them just how much the work will cost. When they find that all treatment is painless and so reasonable they can afford to have the teeth of the entire family treated at about the same cost it would require for one at the average dentist.

My work is absolutely guaranteed. Quality the highest. Bring the family for free examination. Teeth cleaned 50 cents.

WON EXCITING GAME

Lowell Trimmed Springfield Sluggers in Close Contest—Matty Zieser Outpitched Bill Powers

By a flashy finish in the ninth inning, following Springfield to tie the score in the first half, Lowell won a close game from the Ponies yesterday afternoon. The score was 3 to 2.

Matty Zieser opposed Bill Powers and the Lowell twirler secured revenge for the defeat he received in a duel with the iron man last month. Zieser was in fine form and the visitors could not fathom his delivery until the ninth inning when they pushed over two runs aided by a brace of costly errors. Powers was also effective after the first chapter. In the ninth he was replaced by Justin after a pinch hitter had batted for him and the near support given Justy enabled Lowell to score the winning run.

The Springfield players hit the ball hard but fielding features by Barrows and Kilhullen prevented them from adding to their batting averages. Two of the four hits obtained from Zieser were scratches, Parks and Low being the only men to drive the ball for clean hits. Barrows in centre field had seven put outs, three of which were spectacular catches. "Cuke" also was conspicuous with the willow, driving in Lowell's first two runs with a double to the right field fence. Torphy smashed out three singles, the last of which scored the winning run of the game.

THE STRIKEOUT RECORDS

BEST HURLERS DO NOT TRY FOR STRIKEOUTS BUT SAVE ENERGY FOR PINCHES

When "Iron Man Joe" McGinnity was doing duty for the New York Giants he introduced a novel system of keeping tabs on the National League batters. He combined a system of bookkeeping with his pitching, and the combination proved a successful one. In his locker in the clubhouse he kept a ledger, and therein he recorded the weakness of every batter in the league. They were listed under the names of the clubs of which they were members, and McGinnity was wont to spend a deal of his spare time studying this book.

The result was that he knew off-hand what practically all of the players he was called upon to pitch to could and could not hit—whether they were weak on curve balls, favored fast ones, liked them high or low, on the inside or out. And to that book Joe attributed much of his success.

"It saves me a deal of trouble and unnecessary work, not to mention long chances," chuckled Joe one afternoon when he was persuaded to talk about the book. "I don't have to try 'em out like I'd have to if I didn't have the book. When you're trying a batter out to find out his weakness you have to put a lot of stuff on the ball and tax your arm. The book saves me that trouble. It's all there in black and white, gathered from personal observation and experience for the most part. I don't trust to memory. Any one is likely to forget, and a lapse of memory with three on in a tight game many times leads to a costly mistake, and instead of feeding the batter what he don't want a pitcher is apt to put it right in his groove and—bloody, there goes the old ball game!"

"Another thing," continued Joe, "the pitcher who pitches to strike out every batter that steps to the plate is taking the shortest cut back to the minors. Every pitcher has eight men on his ball club to help him out. The secret of successful pitching is to keep the batters from hitting 'em hard. Then, when you crash into a pinch, you've got a lot of energy left and you can work for a knockout. In this way you save your arm."

Incidentally, Christy Mathewson has been doing that very thing for years. He may or may not be through now. Not a "fan" but hopes he will come back. But is it to be imagined that if "Matty" had gone into each game trying to strike out every batter that faced him he would have been able to bower under the big tent as long as he has?

"You can't pitch your arm off every time you start and expect to stick around very long," said Matty. It is only when runners are on the bases that "Big Six" taxes his arm to the limit. It was only on rare occasions that "Cy" Young pitched his hardest from the first through to the last inning. Eddie Plank, now 40 years old, long ago learned the secret. Merced Brown was another who followed the "system." "Chief" Bender is still another example.

Just as McGinnity said, the pitcher who tries to strike out all of them is taking the shortest cut from the majors back to the minors. No arm can stand the strain.

MCINNIS MAY BE SOLD

RUMOR SAYS STUFFY MAY GO TO RED SOX—WOULD BE POPULAR IN HUB

NEW YORK, June 14.—The built among American league players that within the next week Jack McInnis will be sold by Connie Mack to the Red Sox. While here with the Athletics last week Connie declared that never again would he sell a star, but it may be that on McInnis' showing this season he is no longer rated a luminary by the maker of ball clubs.

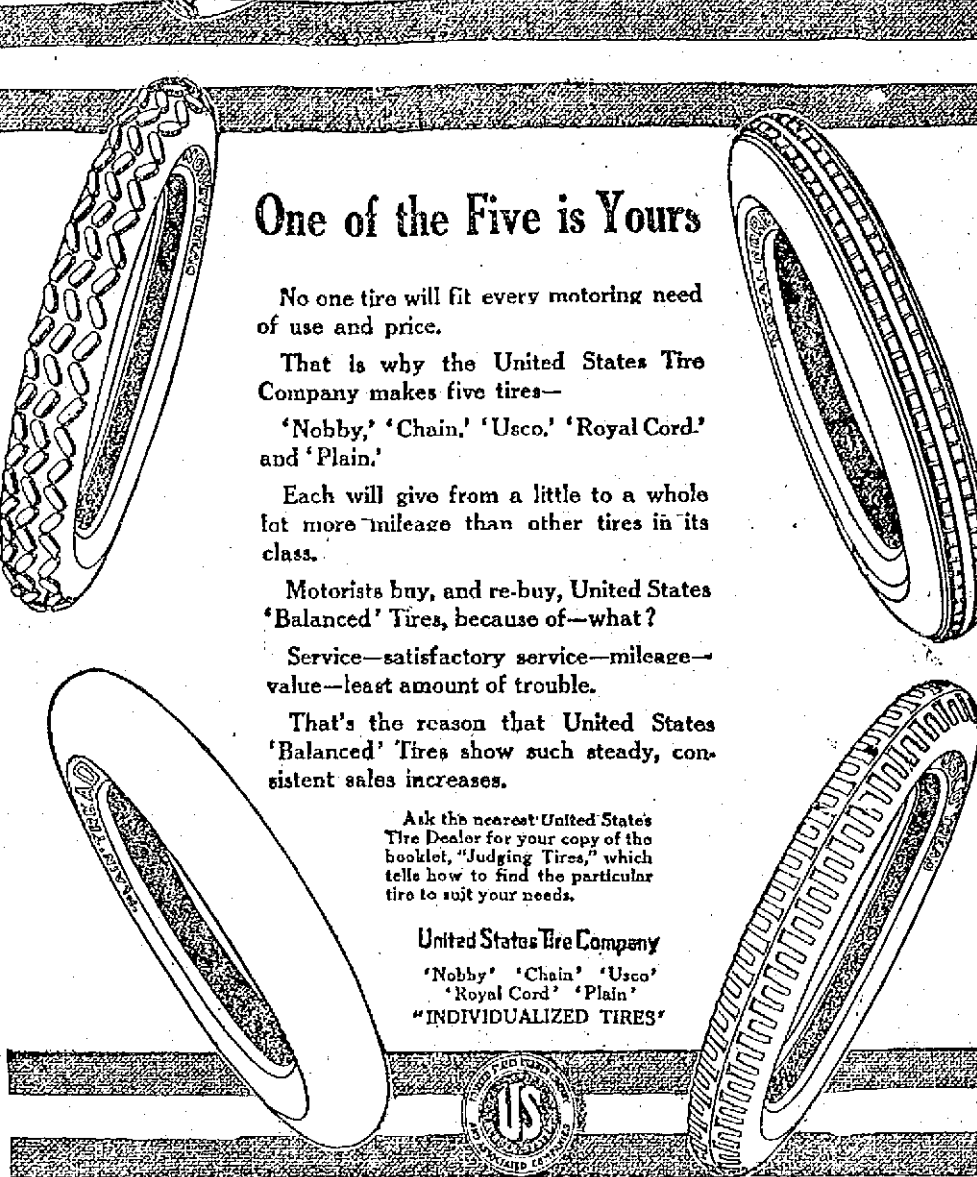

Stranger happenings than the likes of McInnis' going to Boston have been recorded this year, so it is more than possible that Jack will be sold to Joe Lannin. McInnis does not fit into the present Athletic machine. With Barry, Collins and Baker gone Jack feels out of gear and it is known that he would welcome a shift to the Red Sox, to play near his old pal, Jack Barry.

Another consideration is the fact that McInnis has his home in Gloucester, near Boston. Jack would be a prime favorite with Boston fans—and box office receipts indicate that Lannin had better get divers Prime Favorites in a hurry.

Another factor that may prompt Mack to sell McInnis is Jack's annual stipend of $8500. Nap Lajoie is getting too slow for second base and with McInnis out, would be shifted to first. Mack has a new candidate for the keystone sack in the person of Lawry, the University of Maine star, who is to report within the next week. Bobby Voss, the Columbia captain, is a possible candidate to the windward.

What would Boston do with McInnis, with Hohlitzell hitting .305 and McInnis below the .200 mark? The assumption is that Hobby cannot

BIBLE CLASS CAMPAIGN

A campaign to secure in one month's time 100 men as members of a men's bible class at the Congregational church was held last night in the church and a great deal of enthusiasm was displayed. Rev. F. F. Peterson of Boston, a man who is closely connected with Rev. Mr. Downey in the latter's work, gave an interesting talk on methods of organizing campaigns for such classes and offered many helpful suggestions.

An organization was formed with Otis W. Butler as commander-in-chief. The men of the church are divided into two divisions, A and B, with J. S. Johnson as captain of A division and John O. Osgood as captain of B division. The A division lieutenants are Walter Hoyt, Albert Mertrud, Robert Fulton and Edward Melvin; B division, Arthur Bartlett, Charles L. Randall, Frank Lawrence and Fred Milne. The divisions started actual work last night, and the first report of progress will be made next Sunday.

HARVARD WINS

Beats Tufts 3 to 2 in 11 Innings - Umpire Criticised

BOSTON, June 14.—With a score of 3 to 2 in Tufts favor in the last half of the 11th inning of the greatest college baseball battle ever waged, there came an error and four successive bases on balls, which contributed the tying and winning runs and Harvard became the college baseball champion of the east.

Ollie Wescott, centre fielder of Tufts was responsible for the error, but whether Walter Whitaker, the Tufts pitcher, or "Tanny" White, the umpire-in-chief, was the more responsible for the four successive bases on balls is a question that will be debated for some time to come.

To all the Tufts followers and not a few of the Harvard rooters, White's judgment of balls and strikes, particularly when Coolidge and Nash were at bat in that fatal inning, appeared a trifling error, and there is not a follower of either team but who regrets that such a remarkable contest with so much at stake, should have been decided in the fashion it was.

Never was there played a college baseball game equal to the contest staged on Soldiers field yesterday afternoon. An inning passed without its thrill or its thrills. Critical situations developed at every turn. Remarkable fielding and hitting also abounded, and there was many a big league scum among the 10,000 witnesses who checked down favorable notes on the men who played.

Tufts, with Fritz O'Mara, the star southpaw—who had not lost a game in two years—in the box, and its remarkable infield and outfield intact, went into the lead in the very first inning, when a double, a single, a hit batter and a long sacrifice fly netted two runs, and continued to hold that two-run lead until the fifth, when Captain Nash of the Crimson laced out a triple that scored Coolidge.

Not content with drawing up upon the Medford team's score Harvard's men went to things again in the succeeding inning, and doubles by Harrie and Mahan, following each other, scored the former with the tying run.

Scoreless Till Eleventh

From then until the fatal 11th both teams went scoreless. In the first half of that inning singles by Ford, Carroll and Armstrong sent the foremost across the rubber, and placed Tufts again in the lead.

Then came the weirdest session of the game. Ollie Wescott started things when he either misjudged or attempted to make a circus catch of a fly batted almost directly to his position by Percy. He snuffed the ball and thereby allowed the latter to reach third. A base on balls to Butfield followed. A base on balls to Coolidge came next, but not without considerable protest on the part of the Tufts players, as well as hundreds of the assembled fans. Notwithstanding such protest a base on balls was awarded to Captain Nash, the next man up, which forced in Percy with the tying run and then came the fourth base on balls, issued to Abbot, and the game was over.

Eddie Mahan pitched a good, steady game for Harvard and his work on the bases was sensational.

LEWIS BEATS GLOVER

GONG IN THE FINAL ROUND SAVED SOUTH BOSTON BOY FROM KNOCKOUT

BOSTON, June 14.—Ted Kid Lewis of England won all the way in his 12-round bout with Mike Glover of South Boston at the Arena last evening, thus wiping out a defeat scored over him by the local man several months ago.

Lewis was not a great bant, as great bouts go, Glover doing a lot of holding and several of the rounds being very tame.

Lewis was out to win, and but for the bell probably would have scored a clean knockout in the final frame. He had put Glover down for six with a right to the jaw in the 12th round, and was closing in on his man to finish him when the gong terminated hostilities.

The bout was not without its pathos, for about five minutes before the battle began the news reached the Arena of the death of Glover's mother, Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh, at her home in South Boston. Glover was not apprised of her death, but when he went into the ring he knew that her condition was serious, and the fact undoubtedly affected his work.

Walter Butler, referee, and Gil Galant, Chelsea, met next Tuesday night in the main bout.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Lynn at Lowell tomorrow.

The exciting finish sent the fans from the park in a joyful mood.

There were about 500 present, and most of the fans were loaded down with raincoats, umbrellas, etc.

Kane, who covered first base, took care of everything that went his way. He used a regular fielder's glove instead of a mitt.

Tom Downey at second base didn't have a chance of any kind, somewhat out of the ordinary for a second baseman.

Despite his error which allowed the second run to be scored in the ninth, Terphy played a fine game. He showed that he hadn't forgotten how to bat and cracked out three singles.

Umpire Reedy, who officiated at his first game in the Eastern league, did satisfactory work, the best we have seen here this year.

Coke Barrows was in his old-time form. He made some difficult catches in the field and hit the ball hard.

Joe Briggs should strengthen the Lowell outfield. Joe was a good slugger a year ago and there is no reason why he isn't the same now.

Munn's eye is still bad as a result of his accident at Portland. He watched the game out of his one good optic from the grandstand.

The Lowell players will try to get home from Lynn in time to participate in the parade tonight. Travelling from Lynn to Lowell is slow at its best and it is doubtful if they will be in line.

The visitors got their first hit, a scratch, off Ziser, in the sixth inning. They got another in the seventh and two more in the ninth. Marty's team-mate came back strong in the final session, however, and it was all over.

Portland defeated Worcester by the score of 3 to 2 yesterday in a 16-inning game replete with sensational fielding. Burnham and Herring were the opposing pitchers and both went the entire distance.

"Lefty" Fortune and Rube Dressler, who was turned over to New Haven by Connie Meek, fought a hard duel at New London yesterday. Each pitcher allowed only two hits, but errors by New Haven allowed New London to win the game, 2 to 0.

Al Odell, who was released by Bridgeport, is now playing third base for New London, and is said to be satisfying Gene McCann. Marheffa has been shifted to shortstop in place of O'Connell, who was released.

It seems to be a general opinion that Lowell made a mistake in letting George Spies go to Hartford. Lowell still owns him but cannot recall him until the close of the season. His case is similar to that of Arthur Lavigne.—Lawrence Tribune.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Stanley A.C. accepts the challenge from the South Ends for a game to be played Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock on the Bunker Hill grounds.

The Morton Baseball club will play the fourth grade of the Morey school Saturday morning at 10 o'clock on the Highland club grounds.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

For 16 innings yesterday the Braves and Cincinnati Reds battled without either team scoring a run. Herzog's team secured 13 hits against three made by the Braves.

Babe Ruth, Boston's big pitcher, is certainly clinching the ball hard. The other day he won in as a pinch hitter and smashed out a home run in two trips to the bat yesterday he got a home run and a single.

Ed Walsh tried to come back yesterday and was pulled against the Washington team. The big pitcher was not "there," however, and was knocked out of the box in the third inning when the Senators scored enough runs to win the game.

Ruth was sent to the bench by Umpire Bill O'Loughlin after continually wrangling with the umpire's decisions on balls and strikes. Babe was benched in the sixth inning of the game.

It is feared that Johnnie Evers, the greatest little fighter that baseball has ever known, is through with the game. Capt. Johnnie strained his arm while away with the Braves on the spring training trip and it has not improved any since. The only chance is that the warm weather will serve as medicine.

SWIMMING RACE

Frank Murphy, the local swimming instructor, will not appear in the swimming race at Lakeview, as has been announced. He says that no one has approached him on the matter and that the only news he has heard about the swim is what he has read in the papers. The swim, he says, is being arranged by Boston men, and that as far as he knows none of the local swimmers have been invited to compete. Murphy says that for the present at least he will continue to maintain his swimming school at Willow Dale, and will not take part in any races until later in the season. He is getting into condition, by workouts at the lake and reports that he expects to be kept busy giving instructions to his pupils.

SHORT SHIP CIRCUIT

FRAMINGHAM, June 14.—The Hay State Short Ship circuit opened here today for a season of harness racing over half mile tracks. ## INTERCOLLEGIATE ROWING REGATTA AT POUGHKEEPSIE IS AN OPEN AFFAIR THIS YEAR, SAY EXPERTS

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 14.—Four fine crews, ranking as high as those of years gone by, will jump away from the starting line in the shadows of Crum Elbow next Saturday afternoon, June 17, in the big race of the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson, when the gun bangs forth its signal. The four—Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Syracuse—have put on the final touches for the big struggle. Although there will be fewer crews in the race this year than at any time since 1897, nevertheless the regatta holds quite as fixed the attention of the sport loving world as it ever has. There is a touch of romance to it, too, in the fact that it marks the passing from active duty of Charles E. Courtney, dean of American rowing coaches, who for thirty years was at the helm of the Cornell navy. To Courtney has been granted the boon of seeing his crowns—his boys he calls them—win the lion's share of the glory that comes of victory on the heaving tide of the Hudson. Although Courtney is to give up the reins now after his long years of service, it may be that his last race will be one of the fiercest fought of his long career. Opposed to the Cornell crew, which, although developed from a poor end unpromising eight, is fast becoming one of the most powerful rowing units Courtney has ever brought to the Hudson, there are a smooth rowing, hard pulling crew from Syracuse, a finished, resourceful crew from Columbia and a fairly good one from Pennsylvania. These three crews split trouble for Cornell in the big race now less than a week away, and it will take all the magic and wizardry of the "old man" to bring victory once more to the banners of the Ithacans. Layout shows the four varsity crews. No. 1, Cornell; 2, Syracuse; 3, Columbia; 4, Penn.

TERRIFIC STORM

Cloudburst Hits Arlington—Lightning Strikes Reading Woman

BOSTON, June 14.—Towns north of Boston were hit by a severe electrical storm yesterday, but Boston itself escaped. Arlington suffered considerably from a cloudburst, and in Reading a bolt of lightning just missed a baby when it struck and paralyzed temporarily the arm of the child's mother.

Much damage to highways and gardens was caused in the sections hit by the cloudburst, which was confined to Arlington and the lower end of East Arlington. At the same time only a light shower fell at Lexington Center.

The storm was the worst ever experienced in Arlington and Arlington Heights. Rain fell in torrents for about an hour. Tracks of the street car lines were flooded and cars were halted where they stood by the deluge.

On Massachusetts avenue, opposite Sylvia street, East Lexington, water came in over the car floor and passengers were forced to sit on the backs of the seats. Rain fell in such blinding sheets that railroad engineers had to slow down their trains to see signals.

At the Arlington Heights station the inbound trains were covered with water, and roads along the sidehills were washed out by streams four or five feet wide that developed from the storm.

The Spy Pond athletic field was flooded and the fair which was being held there for the Symmes hospital had to be called off, except for a balloon ascension.

The manifestation of the storm in Reading was marked particularly by the strange doings of a bolt of lightning that shot down the chimney of the home of Frank Saulnier on Green street, striking and paralyzing the arm of Mrs. Saulnier and nearly hitting a baby and a little girl. Mrs. Saulnier will recover the use of her arm.

She had just put the baby in a cradle when the lightning struck. A framed photograph of Saulnier was torn from the wall by the bolt and dropped on the floor, the glass being unbroken. Soot was poured from the chimney over the floor and the furniture was disarranged.

The bolt smashed its way out of a window where Marie, Mrs. Saulnier's 4-year-old daughter, had been standing a moment before. The little girl had just gone to another window to get a better view of the storm.

FIGHT WITH BIG SHARK

FORT BANKS SOLDIER LANDS 7-FOOT ONE ON LINE AFTER FIERCE STRUGGLE

BOSTON, June 14.—A life and death struggle between a seven-foot shark and Private Frederick E. Palmer thrilled soldiers at Fort Banks, for an hour early last evening. When the fight had ended the shark was hauled onto the wharf at the fort landing and was hacked to death by the plucky coast artilleryman, whose native home is Michigan, where sharks are unknown.

Palmer is a member of the Ninth company, C.A.C., and recently enlisted from the middle west. He was given an afternoon off yesterday, and having read of a shark fishing in his old home town, he decided that there was an opportunity to haul up some fine cod and make himself "solid" with the company cook.

He secured a heavy fishing line and a hook capable of holding the biggest cod that flies a fin in the waters of Massachusetts bay. Mess call sounded at eventide and Palmer still waited for the cod to bite. He had caught nary a fish.

Other soldiers paraded by and loomed the luckless fisherman. At that moment came a faint moonlight on Palmer's line. "Pull!" shrieked those who feared just a minute before. Then as a black fin cleaved the water they chorused: "It's a shark! Cut him loose!"

Palmer had hooked his fish and refused to cut the line. He warned away several soldiers who started to help him. At times the line spun around the lad's hands until a half hitch thrown over one of the wharf planks checked the rush of the shark and turned the fish gasping on its back.

As Palmer hauled his line in, other rushes began, and it was an hour before he had finally tamed the monster fish and brought it to the wharf.

High tide aided him in hauling the fish upon the landing, where he attacked it with a jackknife. Mess had finished and both Palmer and the spectators were late, but an exacting hero made to the rigid rule at the fort and the men were served their supper without reprimand.

WANTS TO BE DEPORTED

FAY DIES TO BE SENT TO GERMAN—SHIP WRECKER PREPARES VERDUN'S HELL TO PRISON

NEW YORK, June 14.—"Have me deported to Germany, Mr. President. I would rather be fighting for my country in the hell of Verdun than pine away eight years in an American federal prison."

Robert Fay, self-styled "Lieutenant" in the German army, from which he admits he deserted in the early part of the war to come here to wreck ships carrying arms and ammunition to the allies, has written a letter to

Fay, who in his recent trial for bomb plots, caused a dramatic scene in Judge Howe's court room by suddenly jumping up from his seat, telling his counsel to keep quiet, and insisting upon being his own lawyer and questioning the prosecution's witnesses, has once again gone over the heads of his legal defenders. From his cell in the Tombs he wrote the letter to President Wilson without saying a word about it to his counsel. Appeal proceedings of his case are pending. To a reporter the young German said today:

"I wrote President Wilson that this idle waiting behind prison bars is slowly killing me, and that I would prefer death in battle. I told him to consider that the sentence imposed on me, eight years in Atlanta, is not as severe as the one I would receive were I to face a court-martial in Germany on the charge of desertion. This I would gladly go to, however, for the German court would make a quick job of it and then it would be all over."

Meanwhile Fay's attorneys are feverishly busy trying to secure the young German's release from prison pending the decision of his appeal. Efforts have been renewed to have his bail, $50,000, reduced to half the amount Fay at first begged to be taken to Atlanta as soon as possible, but now hopes to regain his liberty pending the decision of appeal.

GOV. McCALL SATISFIED

RETURNS FROM CHICAGO CONVENTION—PRAISES SELECTION OF HUGHES

BOSTON, June 14.—Governor McCall, on his return from the Chicago convention yesterday, praised the selection of Justice Hughes as the republican presidential candidate and predicted a victory for Hughes in the fall.

"We had a great convention and we selected a great man for the presidency," said Governor McCall, "and we have completed, in my judgment, the work of reuniting the republican party."

"The effects of the convention will be shown in Massachusetts next fall. Last year we got over the bulge and returned the republican party to power. We were due for a big victory this fall anyway, but the work done at Chicago means an increased republican strength and a bigger victory than we otherwise would have had."

"I voted for Hughes on every ballot because I believed he was the strongest candidate we could select. I remembered the primaries and

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

thought it not unbecoming even if it might be unfashionable, to show them some deference.

"I pledged myself last spring to the republicans of the commonwealth that if they sent me to Chicago I would vote for the man who, in my judgment, was best fitted under all the circumstances, to lead the republican party to victory this fall."

"That pledge I have kept, and I am very glad indeed that the other republican delegates eventually came unanimously to the same opinion."

The governor reached the state house shortly after noon. He at once gave his attention to the great accumulation of mail.

He was accompanied from Chicago by Mrs. McCall and the trip was made in the first section of the Twentieth Century. In the second section were George von L. Meyer, Thomas W. Lawson and Frank W. Estabrook of Nashua, republican national committee men from New Hampshire.

RESCUED AT SALISBURY

COTTAGER PULLS LIFE SAVER AND BOY FROM SEA ABOUT 6 O'CLOCK

SALISBURY BEACH, June 14.—June 13 proved a lucky day for 16-year-old George Cunningham of Haverhill, who came near to drowning here with his would-be rescuer at about 6 o'clock last night.

Cunningham went beyond his depth, and sinking, cried out for help. Captain Willard A. Charles of the United States life-saving station at once swam out to the drowning boy who struggled with his rescuer. Both seemed to be going under when a cottager, igniting a row to the boat in a dory and succeeded in pulling Charles and Cunningham into the boat.

THE MITCHELL'S SCHOOL

Graduating Exercises Held at the Popular Boys' School in Billerica

The annual prize day, one of the banner events on the Mitchell Military Boys' school calendar, was held today on the beautiful campus in front of the school buildings in Billerica. The fair weather, that prevailed made the outdoor program this forenoon very attractive and parents and friends of students of the school were present in large numbers, coming in automobiles and cars from both near and far. Included in the audience today were people from Cleveland, Ohio, Illinois and many southern states.

The pupils of the school who participated in the program were attired in their uniforms with white leggings. Exhibitions of military maneuvers were given on the campus by the various companies and the efficiency of their instructors was strongly demonstrated by the precision with which the young cadets went through their work. The judges were three Lowell officers in the state militia, Capt. James, Lieut. Walker and Lieut. Castlin.

The exercises, which were the fifth annual in the history of the school, opened at 11 o'clock with a skit drill which was very interesting. This was followed by the "Butts" manual, prize drill for manual of arms and other military numbers. Music was furnished by Hibbard's orchestra which was seated under the beautiful shade trees.

Several cups were presented to students, and the presentations proved a feature of the exercises. The alumni cup, given to the pupil who attains the best general average in studies during the year was awarded to Corp. John B. Safe. Solid gold watch fobs were presented to the captains of the football, basketball and baseball teams by Mr. A. H. Mitchell, head master of the school. Howard Derby, son of Lucien A. Derby of this city, who was captain of the football team, received a miniature football fob; Capt. Alexander Grant of the basketball quintet, who resides at 156 Warwick street, this city, received a miniature basketball; and Capt. Richard Nims of the baseball nine was presented a miniature baseball.

CASES IN POLICE COURT

Larceny and Other Cases Heard—Anna D. Wyman Charged With Theft of Jewelry

Lawyer George F. Toye introduced a technical point in his argument in the case of the Bentley Jewelry Co. against Anna D. Wyman, which was tried before Judge Wright in police court this morning, and as a result the court continued the case for one week. Mrs. Wyman was charged with the concealment of two diamond rings valued at $110 and a watch valued at $25, the property of the Bentley Jewelry Co. of Boston, but during the course of the testimony of the only witness for the government, Albert J. Renfrew of this city, he admitted that he had acquired all rights of the company about four years ago and admitted that he had not entered the present complaint until about a year ago. Lawyer Toye contended that the Bentley Jewelry Co. had nothing to do with the property at that time and that Mr. Renfrew was the owner. Lawyer George H. Allard appeared for the government.

During the course of the testimony it was brought out that Mrs. Wyman purchased two rings, a watch and a pin from the Bentley Co. and up to the time the complaint had been made had paid about $26 in installments, the total value of the jewelry being $135. She sold one of the rings to a prominent business man and secured a loan on the other from another man of local prominence.

No defense was offered. Lawyer Toye contending that the Bentley Jewelry Co. were not the owners of the property at the time the complaint was made out.

Guilty of Larceny
Napoleon Charest entered the shop store of Morris Brownstein at 32 Moody street yesterday morning about 11 o'clock and asked to be shown a pair of shoes. After finding a pair to his liking he put them on and told the dealer to wrap up the old pair. While Brownstein was doing so, Charest ran out of the store leaving his hat behind him in his hurry.

The matter was reported to the police and about three o'clock in the afternoon Charest was arrested in a tailor shop in Market street and sent to the police station where he was booked for drunkenness and larceny.

When arraigned in court this morning Charest entered a plea of not guilty to each complaint.

"Why did you run out of the store with the new shoes on and leave the old ones at the dealer behind you?" asked Deputy Donnelly.

"It was like this," answered Charest. "That man knows me very well, for I buy about 25 pairs of shoes from him every year. You know I have had feet. I went into his store yesterday and told him that the shoes he sold me last Friday were too large for me and I wanted them changed. He said he would do so, but when I got the shoes on he said I would have to pay for them. Then I ran out to get the money."

"But you didn't come back," said the deputy.

"Well, it was 11 o'clock when you purchased the shoes and 3 o'clock when you were arrested and you made no attempt to go back to pay the man."

"Ah, but you must understand that I was going to do so."

The court was convinced that Charest was guilty, but decided to give the defendant a chance to do better. Charest was then ordered to pay a fine of $10 for larceny, the same to be paid within three weeks. On the drunkenness charge the man was given a suspended sentence of five months in jail.

Mole Coat
Bernard F. Meehan, charged with larceny of a coat belonging to John Watson, was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $20. He was also found guilty of drunkenness, but the latter case was placed on file.

Drunken Offenders
Philip Benz was in court last October and after being fined $5 for drunkenness was given time in which to do so, but evidently he forgot all about it. He was arrested yesterday and when asked by the court this morning why he didn't pay the fine, he said that he had remembered that he was to do so, but he did not have the means. This morning he was fined $5 and given two weeks in which to pay it.

The case of Frank H. Smith, drunkenness, was continued until Saturday. James F. Maguire was sent to the state farm.

WILSON AT WEST POINT

Text of President's Address Before Graduating Class Yesterday—Urges Preparedness

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 14.—President Wilson, making his first address since the presidential campaign began, yesterday, discussed preparedness, militarism, Americanism, the causes of the war in Europe, peace, the Monroe Doctrine, divided allegiance and the ideals of America. He declared it is the imperative duty of the United States to be prepared, adding "militarism is going to know that when America speaks she means what she says."

The text of the president's speech follows:

"I look upon this body of men who are graduating today with a peculiar interest. I feel like congratulating them that they are living in a day not only so interesting, because fraught with change, but also because so responsible. Days of responsibility are the only days that count. All the days that are the only days that give test of quality. They are the only days when manhood and purpose is tried out as by fire.

"I need not tell you, gentlemen, that you are not like an ordinary graduating class of one of our universities. These men in these classes look forward to the life which they are to lead after graduation with a great many questions in their minds. Most of them do not know exactly what their lives are going to develop into. Some of them do not know what occupations they are going to follow. All of them are conjecturing what will be the line of duty and advancement and the ultimate goal of success for them.

"There is no conjecture for you. You have enlisted in something that does not stop when you leave the academy. For you then only begin to realize, which then only begins to be filled with the full richness of its meaning, and you can look forward with absolute certainty to the sort of thing that you will be obliged to do.

"This has always been true of graduating classes at West Point, but the certainty of the future of the older classes used to look forward to was a very dull certainty.

Cannot Look Into Future

"But in your case there are many extraordinary possibilities, because, gentlemen, no man can accurately tell you what the immediate future is going to be, either in the history of this country or in the history of the world. It is not by accident that the present great war came in Europe. Every element was there and the contest had to come sooner or later and it is not by accident that the results are worked out but by purpose—the purpose of the men who are strong enough to have guiding minds and indomitable wills when the time for decision and the settlement comes.

"And the part that the United States is to play has this distinction, that it is to be in any event, a disinterested part. There is nothing that the United States wants that it has to get by war, but there are a great many things that the United States has to do. It has to see that its life is not interfered with by anybody else who wants something.

Preparedness

"These are days when we are making preparation, when the most common sense is expressed in every sort of circles, in the shops and on the streets, is preparedness, and undoubtedly, gentlemen, that is the present imperative duty of America, to be prepared.

"But we ought to know what we are preparing for. I remember hearing a wise man say once that the old maxim that 'everything comes to the man who waits' is all very well provided he knows what he is waiting for; and preparedness might be a very hazardous thing if we did not know what we wanted to do with the force that we mean to accumulate and to get into fighting shape.

"America, fortunately, does know what she wants to do with her force. America came into existence for a particular reason. When you look about upon these beautiful hills and up this stately stream and then the whole body of this great country from which you youngsters are drawn, far and wide, you remember that while it had aboriginal inhabitants, while there were people living here, there was no civilization which we displaced. It was as if in the providence of God a content had been kept unused and waiting for a peaceful people who loved liberty and right more than they loved anything else, to come and set up an unselfish commonwealth. It is a very extraordinary thing. You are so familiar with American history, at any rate in its general character—I don't accuse you of knowing the details of it, for I never found the youngster who did—but you are so familiar with the general character of American history that it does not seem strange to you but it is a very strange history. There is none other like it in the whole annals of mankind—of men gathering out of every civilized nation of the world on an unused continent and building up a policy exactly to suit themselves, not under the domination of any ruling dynasty or of the ambitions of any royal family, doing what they pleased with their own life on a free space of land which God had made rich with every resource which was necessary for the civilization they meant to build up. There is nothing like it.

America Means What She Says

"Now, what we are preparing to do is to see that nobody mars that, and that, being safe itself against interference from the outside, all of its force is going to be behind its moral idea, and mankind is going to know that when America speaks she means what she says. I heard a man say to another: 'If you wish me to consider you witty I must really trouble you to make a joke.' We have a right to say to the rest of mankind 'if you don't want to interfere with us, if you are disinterested, we must really trouble you to give the evidence of that fact.' We are not in for anything selfish and we want the whole might power of America thrown into that scale and not into any other.

Militarism

"You know that the chief thing that is holding many people back from enthusiasm for what is called preparedness is the fear of militarism. 'I want to say a word to you young gentlemen about militarism. You are not a militarist because you are military. Militarism does not consist in the existence of an army, not even in the existence of a very great army. Militarism is a spirit. It is a point of view. It is a system. It is a purpose. The purpose of militarism is to use armies for aggression. The spirit of militarism is the opposite of the civilian spirit—the citizen spirit. In a country where militarism prevails the military man looks down upon the civilian, regards him as inferior, thinks of him as intended for his military support and use, and as just so long as America is America that spirit and point of view is impossible with us. There is as yet in this country, so far as I can discover, no taint of the spirit of militarism.

"You young gentlemen are not prepared in promotion because of the families you belong to. You are not drawn into the academy because you belong to certain industrial circles. You do not come here with a long tradition of military pride back of you. You are picked out from the citizens of the United States to be that part of the force of the United States which makes its policy safe against attack. You are the part of American citizens who say to those who would interfere: 'You must not and you shall not.' But you are American citizens, and the idea I want to leave with you boys today is this: No matter what comes always remember that first of all you are citizens of the United States before you are officers, and that you are officers because you represent in your particular profession what the citizenship of the United States stands for. There is no danger of militarism if you are genuine Americans and I for one, do not doubt that you are. When you begin to have the militaristic spirit—not the military spirit, that is all right—then begin to doubt whether you are Americans or not.

"You know that one thing in which our forefathers took pride was this, that the civil power is superior to the military power in the United States.

Once and again the people of the United States have so admired some great military man as to make him president of the United States, when he became commander-in-chief of all the forces of the United States, but he was commander-in-chief because he was president, not because he had been trained to arms, and his authority was civil, not military. I can teach you nothing of military power, but I can instruct you by the constitution to make you for constitutional and patriotic purposes. And that is the only

JEWELS

There can be no real satisfaction in wearing or presenting diamonds or gem jewelry unless one is positive that the jewels are above criticism. While there is nothing more attractive, nothing stirs the emotion more than beautiful gems; so many essentials enter into the grading of precious stones that it is important to exercise great care in selection in order to secure quality and value for the money expended. EVERY GEM HERE IS GOOD AND THE SETTINGS ARE PERFECT—JUST RIGHT TO SET OFF THE BEAUTY AND QUALITY OF EACH STONE. One quality prevails. It is this regard for gem purity which will protect you no matter what stone you buy, and the price will be found to be no more than elsewhere. The policy of this store is not to sell the cheapest goods. An earnest desire is made to merit the patronage of yourself and friends by giving equal or better value for the money than can be had anywhere in town or outside.

AMERICANS WERE KILLED

EL PASO, Tex., June 13.—A rumor was current in El Paso today that several Americans had been killed in a native uprising at Chihuahua City.

The rumor was attributed to a despatch received over telegraph lines of the Mexico Northwestern railway but officials denied that such message had been received.

you care to be put to. That is the only use you ought to care to be put to, because after all, what is the use in being an American if you do not know what it is.

"You have read a great deal in the books about the pride of the old Roman citizen who always felt like drawing himself to his full height when he said: 'I am a Roman' but as compared with the pride that must have risen to his heart, our pride has a new distinction, not the distinction of the mere imperial power of a great empire, not the distinction of being masters of the world, but the distinction of carrying certain lights for the world that the world has never so distinctly seen before, certain guiding lights of liberty and principle and justice.

"We have drawn our people, as you know, from all parts of the world, and we have been somewhat disturbed recently, gentlemen, because some of those—though I believe a very small number—whom we have drawn into our citizenship have not taken in their hearts the spirit of America and they loved other countries more than they loved the country of their adoption.

Americanism

"We have talked a great deal about Americanism. It ought to be a matter of pride with us to know what Americanism really consists in. Americanism consists in utterly believing in the principles of America and putting them first as above anything that might by chance come into competition with it. And I for my part believe that the American test is a spiritual test. If a man has to make excuses for what he has done as an American, I doubt his Americanism. He ought to know at every step of his action that the motive that lies behind what he does is a motive which no American need be ashamed of for a moment. Now we know. We ought to let it be known that nobody who does not put America first can consort with us. But we ought to set them the example. We ought to set them the example by exhibiting American thoughts, by exhibiting American purposes and those thoughts and purposes will stand the test of example anywhere in the world, for they are intended for the betterment of mankind.

"So I have come to say these few words to you today, gentlemen, for a double purpose; first, to all express my personal good wishes to you in your graduation, and my personal interest in you, and second of all to remind you how we must all stand together in one spirit as lovers and servants of America. And that means something more than lovers and servants of merely the United States, gentlemen. You know that we are already spiritual partners with both continents of this hemisphere and that America means something that is bigger even than the United States and that we stand here with the nations of this country ready to spring it into the field of action whenever liberty and independence and political integrity are threatened anywhere in the western hemisphere.

"We Are Ready"

"And we are ready—nobody has authorized me to say this, but I am sure of it—we are ready to join with the other nations of the world in seeing that the kind of justice prevails anywhere that we believe in.

"So that you are graduating today, gentlemen, into a great distinction. Glory attaches to all those men whose names we love, because they have made the annals of the American army distinguished. They played the part they were called upon to play with honor and with extraordinary character and success. I am congratulating you, not because you will be better than they, but because you will have a wider world of thought and conception to play your part in. I am an American, but I do not believe that any of us loves a blustering nationality, a nationality with a chip on its shoulder, a nationality with its thumbs out and its swagger on. We love that quiet, self-respecting, unconquerable spirit which does not strike until it is necessary to strike, and then strikes to conquer. Never since I was a youngster have I been afraid of the noisy man. I have always been afraid of the still man. I have always been afraid of the quiet man. I had a classmate at college who was most dangerous when he was most affable. When he was maddest he seemed to have the sweetest temper in the world. He would approach you with a most ingratiating smile and then you knew that every red corpuscle in his blood was up and shouting. If you work things off in your elbow, you do not work them off in your mind; you do not work them off in your purpose, so my conception of America is a conception of infinite dignity, along with quiet, unquestionable power. I ask you, young gentlemen, to join with me in that conception, and let us all in our several spheres be soldiers together to realize it."

MURDER TRIAL

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 13.—Josephine Davis testified today that Marlan Lamherl, for the alleged murder of whom William H. Orpet is on trial here, threatened to commit suicide, if it proved true that Orpet had transferred his affections to another.

This school girl witness, called by the state, continued to testify for the defense. She completely repudiated stories of the cheerfulness of Marlan, her chum, and told of fits of depression over fear of results of her alleged intimacy with Orpet, and later, when this fear became less acute, after Jan. 20, over the reported defection of Orpet. It was Dorothy Mason who told Marlan that Orpet, a student at the University of Wisconsin, was engaged to marry Celeste Youker, according to the witness.

WAKEFIELD MAN WHO ESCAPED FROM SANITARIUM RESCUED BY OFFICER FULTON

A Wakefield man who had escaped yesterday from a private sanitarium in this town, after throwing himself into the waters of the canal at the foot of Bolton street last night, was rescued by Special Officer Joseph M. Fulton of the Merrimack Mfg. Co., with the assistance of several others who saw the man make the suicidal attempt. Within a few moments after the man leaped into the water, a call was sent in to police headquarters for assistance, and Capt. T. R. Atkinson at once dispatched the patrol with ropes, ladders and a crew of officers under inspector John A. Walsh. When the police arrived, the man had already been rescued. He was taken to the police station and later to Wakefield, where he is a member of a well known family.

U. S. TROOPS TO STAY

Demands of Carranza are All Denied—Raids Must Stop or Troops Will Remain

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Representations were sent yesterday by the state department to Gen. Carranza calling his attention to the fact that the body of one of the Mexican raiders killed by American troops, following the raid on Coleman's ranch, near Laredo, Tex., has been positively identified as that of Lieut. Col. Villareal, an officer in Carranza's army. The representations were sent as a sort of prelude to the American reply to Carranza's note demanding an immediate withdrawal of the Peruvian expedition from Mexico. Carranza's attention was also called in yesterday's message to the fact that at the time of the raid Villareal was clothed in a Carranzista uniform and carried papers which clearly established his identity.

Refuses Carranza's Demand
The formal reply to the Carranza note, it was learned yesterday afternoon, will not be forwarded to Mexico before Saturday night or Monday. Before it goes the state department conferences between the president and Secretary Lansing. A tentative draft of the note has been completed. It is extremely lengthy. The note will reject Carranza's demand for an immediate withdrawal, and will contain a sharp rebuff for the Carranzista authorities in the Mexican communication, and especially for what officials here regard as Carranza's insult and gratuitous references to matters concerning the relations existing between the United States and third parties and his insinuations that President Wilson was keeping the troops in Mexico for political reasons.

At the same time it is said authoritatively that the American note will comply with Carranza's demand for an outline of the intentions of this government. It will be reminded again that at the outset of the expedition into Mexico President Wilson in a public statement proclaimed his purpose to withdraw the forces under Gen. Pershing as soon as the bandits who attacked Columbus were captured or dispersed, and as rapidly as the Carranzista authorities obtained effective control over the situation. This purpose, the note will say, has never varied and the government of the United States strongly resents the imputations of bad faith contained in the communication from the de facto government of Mexico.

To the end that this purpose might be speedily accomplished the American reply will say that the government of the United States earnestly sought the cooperation of the Carranzista government, even to the extent of bringing about the conferences on the border between Generals Scott and Obregon, which conferences the United States hoped would result in an agreement which, under this co-operation between the military forces of the two governments, would be most effectively carried out.

Although the Mexican representative at these conferences declined to subscribe to any formal agreement, he gave to Gen. Scott, the note will say, such verbal assurances as to lead the American government to hope that effective action would be taken by the de facto government to clean up the remaining bandits and thus permit this expedition to be withdrawn. The note will take direct exception to statements contained in the Mexican note to the effect that the Carranzista government, General Obregon and Trevino, and other expeditions would be sent across the line in the event of future raids, and on behalf of Gen. Scott will deny that the latter had assured Gen. Obregon that no expedition had been or was to be sent in pursuit of the Glenn Springs and Boquilla raiders.

Disorders Continue
The hopes that the American government entertained regarding the promises of Obregon, the note will continue, have been void of fulfillment, owing to the apathy of the Carranzista government to the means of disorders on the part of lawless bands have continued and elements hostile to the United States have been able, either through the connivance or the indifference of representatives of the de facto government in northern Mexico, to plan large anti-American demonstrations in some of the principal cities controlled by Carranza and to incite the populace to take up arms against the United States. Under such conditions, the note will declare, the United States cannot consent to withdraw its forces, the object and purpose of which has been to safeguard American territory. The United States, however, still stands ready to withdraw the expedition at any time the Carranza forces are able, by actual deeds rather than promises, to demonstrate their ability to take

PROPOSALS FOR COKE

Scaled proposals addressed to the Middlesex County Commissioners and endorsed "Proposals for Coke" will be received by said Commissioners at the Court House, Lowell, until Monday, the nineteenth day of June, 1916, at 10 o'clock a. m. for a supply of coke to be delivered as described below, and at that time will be publicly opened and read.

All bids must be upon blank forms to be obtained at the office of the Commissioners, Court House, East Cambridge, and must give the prices proposed both in writing and in figures and be signed by the bidder with his address.

Each bid is to be accompanied by a certified check for one hundred dollars ($100.00) payable to the order of the Middlesex County Commissioners, and to be returned to the bidder unless he fails to execute a contract should it be awarded to him.

A bond may be required for the faithful performance of the contract in such sums as shall be fixed by the Commissioners after the bids are opened, said sum to be not less than one-fourth nor more than one-half of the amount of the contract.

May Mean Intervention
What effect the note is going to have on the Mexican people is a matter of extreme concern to officials here. Many are frankly of the opinion that it will result in a hostile demonstration against the Carranzista government to more aggressive steps. In sizing up the outlook, state department officials admit themselves handicapped by their inability to ascertain what is behind the anti-American demonstrations that have been staged at Columbus City, Saltillo and other cities. That an organized propaganda of some kind is at work is shown by the uniformity in character of the demonstrations, but whether Carranza himself is in any way responsible is not known.

European chancellors in Washington are watching developments with the closest interest. To the extent that their nations in Mexico have been made to suffer along with Americans from the exorbitant taxes and confiscatory measures imposed by the de facto government, their resentment against Carranza is being expressed in no opinion expressed in British and French quarters here is decidedly opposed to intervention by the United States on the ground that much of the anti-American demonstrations and other causes of complaint result from a de facto government on the part of Carranza, and that the United States is not a party to the Carranzista intervention. Germany, it is insisted in these quarters, is determined to prevent the United States from taking any Latin-American trade advantages from her as a result of the European war, and is convinced that Carranza would arouse the antagonism and distrust of all the other Latin-American countries.

Although it was admitted at the state department yesterday afternoon that several Japanese have been located in the ranks of the Carranzista army, no special significance is attached to this for the reason, as explained by officials, that Mexico has long been a gathering place for soldiers of fortune of all nationalities, many of them American, who have fought on one side or another during the Mexican revolutions.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KELTH'S THEATRE
The third chapter of "Gloria's Romance" is to be shown twice today at the B. F. Kelth theatre, and in which Miss Billie Burke is making a decided hit. The story of this chapter is of the most substantial, running from $10,000 motor cars on Riverside Drive, New York, to wonderful mansions of stone. And Billie is seen in some adorable Lucille costumes, right from the creator of these costly habiliments. Picture picture picture, as they call it, a regular regular fashion hazard, undoubtedly will follow it with interest. Among the things worn by the lovely actress are footgear of wonderful Persian material costing more than $100 a pair, and a $12,000 ermine coat. Of course these are only details, so to speak, but they are very costly, and the picture picture picture, as they call it, a regular regular fashion hazard, undoubtedly will follow it with interest.

MERIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
No one should let this day pass without taking in the show at the Merimack Square theatre, which will be shown at the continuous performances today for the last time, for this is your last chance to see the debutant J. Warren Kerrigan in "A Son of the Immortal" in the role of Prince Alexis, who gives up a throne to marry a beautiful American girl with whom he is deeply in love. The play is a most thrilling event, such as the burning of the bridge to kill the prince and the riot which follows later. Sharing the honors with Mr. Kerrigan is Frank Losce who will also be seen today for the last time in his new play, "The Evil Theatrical," a play of tragedy, conveying a great moral. The other pictures for the first half of this week will also be shown today for the last time. Starting with the matinee tomorrow afternoon and continuing during the remainder of the week will be seen at the Merimack Square theatre "Edna Goodrich in 'The Making of Maddalena'" and John Mason in "The Rapports."

JEWEL THEATRE
And again the Jewel scores—Triangles, the latest in the world of films is the brand offered once a week. This week's offering is a two-reel "The Golden Claw" with Fred Stone and "The Golden Claw," a dramatic offering by Ince, featuring Ben-

Barrielle. In "The Golden Claw" a fine tale of modern financial life is unfolded, with the heroine as a money-loving girl who pursues for wealth. Later, she finds the happiness of life without love, and causes her husband to lose his money in order to win back his love. It has been finely produced with remarkable realism, and has been surrounded Miss Barrielle with his best Ray-Bee players. In "Crooked Triangle" we see Fred Stone as the station agent, who gets hold of a bundle of money. Two crooks catch hold of the roll and resolve to get a hold of it. Then the action becomes swift and bewildering, showing a series of the most haphazard situations and half-bred escapes, in which automobiles crash and fire at every door of reel. It's a hummer, and a million laughs are crammed into the two reels.

OWL THEATRE
"Blue Blood and Red" a William Fox feature film which is slightly different from the features released from this studio in the past will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. As a rule Fox photoplays deal with modern society, with the scenes laid in the great mansions of the country, but in this film the scenes are taken in the mountain regions or our own west. Appearing in the stellar roles are the two motion picture favorites George Walsh and Doris Paver.

"Blue Blood and Red" deals with a young man, who dismissed from college, sets out in his high powered car to "see America." After many days of arduous going he becomes stranded in a town named Red Gulch. While here he meets a girl and through her accepts a job on the ranch of her father, and that's where his troubles begin. For the foreman of the ranch happens to be in love with the girl, and naturally resents the coming of the tenderfoot, and immediately starts plotting to get the young fellow "in Dutch." His chance soon comes when the two rivals are sent on a horse-buying expedition. The foreman arranges with a "stick-up" man to waylay the easterner. How the plan works out and how the young collector is saved from a necktie party only through the combined efforts of the girl and his faithful racing car, forms a story which is full of action and gripping scenes from start to finish. Other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

BIG CIRCUS IS COMING

HOW WILD ANIMALS SLEEP—BARNUM & BAILEY'S SHOW HAS GREAT MENAGERIE

How do different animals sleep? According to John Patterson, superintendent of the menagerie of the Barnum & Bailey circus, coming to Lowell, on Friday, June 23, no two different species of animal sleep alike. When a monkey gets ready to retire he picks out the highest perch he can find, but there's a reason for this. When the only home of the monkey was a forest, he always lived in deadly fear of the lion, and a live monkey is a dainty morsel for the king of beasts. Therefore even the circus monkey cannot overcome his natural fear of lions, and this accounts for his seeking as high a perch as possible to sleep on.

The lioness, when free from family cares, is prone to lie on her back, with her legs stretched up straight in the air and paws pendant. Her attitude is one of perfect relaxation, and the excitement of the day's work stretches himself out flatly on his side, with paws turned in, and tosses and twitches in his slumber a good deal like a dog.

Gorillas and chimpanzees sleep with their hands over their heads, although they, too, follow the natural instinct of the entire monkey family, and seek a high perch. Bears, who have no fear of man or beast, sleep in any position that pleases their fancy, and the same is true of wolves. Animals of a cunning or cowardly nature, however, are always on the alert, even when asleep. The seal sleeps like a human being. It stretches out at full length, and enters dreamland on its back, stomach or side. Once in a while a seal will sit up, with its head bent down on its chest, fast asleep in the water, with his eyes open, as his custom in his native state, so that he may hear the approach of an enemy, sound traveling with great distinctness under water.

Elephants sleep upright, like a horse, and fitfully. They are keenly alert to the slightest noise and are quick to sense things. If they can see the object they do not get frightened easily, but if it is something weird sounding and out of sight, they need help. With the elephant, however, is everything. They have the same feeling for a friendly, sincere voice that a natural musician has for the sound of a musical voice.

The menagerie department of the Barnum & Bailey circus has been greatly enlarged this season and now contains 100 denizens of the wild, in addition to a herd of 41 elephants, 40 camels and a family of giraffes. It is considered the largest and most complete traveling zoo in the world.

"AMERICA"
(First and Fourth Stanzas, to Be Sung by Paraders.)
My Country! 'Tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing.
Land where my fathers died!
Land of the Pilgrims' pride!
From every mountain side
Let freedom ring!
Our fathers' God, to Thee,
Author of Liberty,
To Thee we sing.
Long may our land be bright
With Freedom's holy light!
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King!

Everything is in readiness for the
greatest parade in the city's history
and if we can but keep in the good
graces of the weather clerk everything
this evening at 7:45 o'clock sharp. Be on time. All of the details have been attended to and there isn't any reason
why there should be the slightest
hitch from start to finish. It is impossible to estimate how long the parade
will take, but it is generally estimated
at about three hours. There will be some very pretty features, including floats on which a great deal of time and money has been expended. Paraders are requested again not to drill their hats or make any gesture while passing city hall except to look toward the reviewing stand. Asked if he had anything that he would like to have emphasized at the last moment, Theo-J. O'Donnell, chief of staff, said: "Tell of our window space would not equal the space occupied by some of our departments singly. The windows are only a glimmer. The advertising is just a steady white light of actualities. You must come into the store to appreciate its largeness; the character of its merchandise;

the excellence of its service.

them to be on time and impress upon them the fact that this parade, like time and tide, will wait for no man."
The very impressive moment of the parade will take place at the sound of the 8:30 bell. Immediately upon the stroke of the bell a halt will be made, bands will stop playing and the paraders will join with the onlookers in singing the first and last stanzas of "America." The intention is to have the two verses sung at the same moment throughout the entire line of parade, and those who may have forgotten the words can have their memories refreshed by reading, which appears elsewhere. The paraders and on-

WILD ENTHUSIASM AT ST. LOUIS CONVENTION

Democrats Cheer Opening Speeches— Gov. Glynn Makes Keynote Speech for Americanism and Peace, Pre- paredness and Prosperity—Bryan Moved to Tears By Declaration Against War

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—With the keynote of "Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity," the democratic national convention began its
first session shortly after noon today
with not a single element in sight to
of President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall.
When National Chairman McCombs
called the convention to order 12,000
delegates, alternates and spectators
packed the convention to the roof.
Members of the national committee,
and party leaders from all over the
country had places on the platform.
Plaster medallions of Washington,
Jackson, Jefferson and Cleveland looked down upon the delegates from the
decorations which consisted uniformly
only picture in front of the speakers'
desk, inscribed "America First."
Vice-presidential booms, willed by President Wilson's direct word that he desired the renomination of Vice-President Marshall, were brought to the convention hall but only as favorite son compliments.
After National Chairman McCombs
had called the convention to order, the call was read by Secretary J. Bruce Kramer.

Former Gov. Glynn of New York
then delivered the keynote speech.
Down under the speakers' stand direct telephone and telegraph wires to the White House carried momentary
reports of the proceedings in the hall.
All prospects of a fight in the convention had vanished over night with William J. Bryan's announcement that he did not propose to press certain planks before the resolutions committee and that he would make speeches
for the democratic nominees.
"We have entered this hall as democrats; let us deliberate as Americans," declared Mr. Glynn, in sounding the keynote.
"It is the business of this convention, representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will
leave no room for doubt."
Following President Wilson's conduct of foreign affairs he declared the
president had stood with Washington,
Adams and Grant, who had preserved
peace with honor.
"For vain glory or for selfish purpose," he declared, "others may cry
for a policy of blood and iron but the president has acted on the belief that
the leader of a nation who plunges his
people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate, vainly washes his
hands of innocent blood while the
earth quakes and the heavens are
darkened and thousands give up the ghost."
"If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, then the president is right today," he declared.

Great Demonstration
The crowd forced Mr. Glynn to repeat a part of his address drowned in applause, in which he declared that the men of America "will fight and die for our flag when reason primes the rifle, when honor draws the sword and when justice breathes a blessing on the cause that they uphold."
Another prolonged demonstration followed in which William J. Bryan joined, tears streaming, and his face flushed with emotion. A Texas delegate called out: "Don't forget that his policy also satisfies William J. Bryan."
Mr. Bryan gazed intently at Mr.
Glynn and enthusiastically clapped his hands in approval of the speaker's declaration of war.
Mr. Glynn proceeded to recite incidents in diplomatic history in which war was avoided by republican presidents.
As Mr. Glynn recounted each instance some delegates would shout:
"What did the president do?"
"He settled our trouble by negotiation."
Great cheering followed. Finally, after 15 minutes, quiet was restored and Mr. Glynn went on.
As the official band played a medley of national airs the delegates stood waving flags and cheering. When Bryan entered he was received with prolonged cheers.
Mr. Glynn's long recital of efforts by President Wilson and former presidents to preserve American neutrality and keep peace was frequently interrupted by applause.
Senator Ollie James was loudly cheered as he entered the hall just before opening of the convention.

Small flags were distributed to all of the delegates as they took their seats, his abandoned them with crass cruelty.
A "Woody" tiger was sent to Chairman McCombs' desk by the New York
delegation.
Chairman McCombs took his place
at his desk at 12:30 amid cheers and
applause.
A few humps of his gavel quickly secured quiet and he cried "the convention will be in order."
One verse of "America" was then
sung by the entire crowd followed by a verse of the "Star Spangled Banner."
Prayer By Rev. J. W. Lee
Rev. James W. Lee, Methodist Episcopal clergyman of St. Louis, read this prayer:
"We thank Thee, O Lord, for all the great relationships which bind us together as a people. May we recognize our government and the laws under which we live, as so many means of aiding by God, and approved and reacted into statutes and institutions by the citizens, for the building of the American people into one great social whole, so that the vast national body, fitly joined together and compacted by the very life and blood of the people, according to the eternal working in the measure of every part, may make increase of the body into the upbuilding of itself in good will and power."
"We thank Thee, O Lord, beyond and above all other things at this time which every man should take stock of himself and his principles. This is an hour when every one should see whether
in his inner consciousness he squares
with the ideals of 1776, and the later periods of dramatic episode, when this country resolutely maintained peace
with honor."
"The democratic party in the face of scandalous and vicious attacks, has maintained this great American ideal.
While for peace, it has steadily and surely worked for sound and powerful preparedness. It has maintained a solemn, calm dignity in the face of circumstances which might have drawn it into the vortex of a world destruction. Though vilified by self-seekers, it has maintained friendly relations throughout the world; it has been true to the spirit of America; it has been true to the great principles of Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Jackson; it has allowed no selfish interest to blind it to the fundamentals of its faith and the country has found that its confidence has been well bestowed.
"The democratic party has proven itself a party of principles, a party of constructive ability, a party of performance. It has proven that ideals can be realized. United we stand for America."
Ladies and gentlemen of this convention: the elephant is dead, the moose is dead. Long live the American eagle.
The first real demonstration greeted Mr. McCombs' declaration: "The elephant is dead, the moose is dead, long live the American eagle."
J. B. Kremer, secretary of the national committee then read the formal call for the convention.
When Chairman McCombs announced the temporary officers of the convention selected by the national committee, former Gov. Martin H.
Glynn of New York, temporary chairman was chosen. The full list of temporary officers was read and approved.
Senators Reed of Missouri, Taggart of Indiana and Pomeroy of Ohio were appointed to escort temporary Chairman Glynn to the chair. When the cheering subsided Mr. Glynn launched into his keynote speech.
When Mr. Glynn told how many presidents "didn't go to war" and settled troubles by negotiation, he was repeatedly cheered.

The board of directors has sat in Chicago and again resolved that they are the country. They have adopted the doctrine of fore-ordination and predestination, but have made it applicable only to themselves.
"The rest of the people are their wards," they say.
Ambition is a noble attribute but when it is adulterated with greed, a cataclysm is inevitable. We have recently witnessed the painful spectacle of two great American parties in Chicago, putting self in place of ideals; self glorification in place of national honor; republicanism and progressivism so-called, in place of our only ism—Americanism.
"We have witnessed the drab spectacle of two groups of men, trading principles like competitors in a fish market, in the hope that some compromise would win public support.
They have not come together—they have fallen out over the swag.
For the sake of victory, many of these men, essentially opposite in principle, have been willing to become friends with false masks. The result is inevitable: divided they fail. They are proud in the thought that 'united we stand.' We welcome the post-up Americanism of the real progressives individually, for our ranks; offering them a haven; in a principle. Their lead has abandoned them with crass

cruelty.
The gentleman from Oyster Bay, in a recent letter to Chicago quotes Abraham Lincoln as saying "May not all having a common interest, reunite in a common effort to save our common country. Ladies and gentlemen, I beg to call your attention to the word reunite. The words 'Save the country,' have been the disguise of the opposition for years. There may be a political war today in this country, but that war only exists between factions.
Why did the gentleman quote the words of Lincoln? In the hope of reuniting Americans? No. Americans are reunited as never before. He means by reuniting that two factions of his party should reunite. These two factions or parts of them hoped to join for self-aggrandizement and for one of these two factions—factions powerless as entities—hoped to join hands, however strained and however divided on irreconcilable principles, for the insidious purpose of overthrowing a third entity, which for the past four years stood united in a common cause, whose principles are grand for all and for one equal rights and special privileges to none; whose chief tenet of faith is that America is American and Americans are Americans.
"This is a crucial hour in the history of the world. It is an hour when every man should take stock of himself and his principles. This is an hour when every one should see whether
in his inner consciousness he squares
with the ideals of 1776, and the later
periods of dramatic episode, when this country resolutely maintained peace
with honor."

The municipal council met at 11:15 o'clock this afternoon and adjourned to meet at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.
No business was transacted at this morning's meeting. The mayor said the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking final action on the Pawtucket bridge plans, but that the city solicitor would not have everything in shape until 3:30, hence the adjournment.
At its meeting this afternoon the council adopted an order to seize land on the eastern side of Mammoth road and on the southern side of H.

RUSSIANS MOVING ON TOWARD CZERNOWITZ

Make Additional Captures—Berlin Reports Resistance to Russian Attacks—Lull at Verdun

The war news shows that Russia continues her successful offensive on the eastern front, although a Berlin despatch claims that seven successive Russian attacks were successfully resisted.
There is a lull in the fighting at Verdun which probably bespeaks a fresh attack.
Canadian forces have recaptured a long line of trenches wrested from them
by a surprise attack of the enemy on
the western front.
British forces enter a Persian city to quell disturbances said to be stirred up
by German emissaries.

NIGHT
PARIS, June 14, 11:45 a. m.—A violent artillery engagement took place last night in the vicinity of Vaux, on the Verdun front. There were no infantry actions before Verdun.

Actions before Verdun continue, the official statement of today says. The French carried a small German post
near Venezel east of Soissons.
A raid by French troops at Songenot
in the Vosges, resulted in the capture
of a number of Germans.
The text of the statement follows:
"Between the River Oise and the River Aube a strong patrol of the enemy has been driven back with infantry fire at a point to the southeast
of Moulin-Sous-Touvent. To the east
of Soissons we have occupied a small German post near Venezel.
"There has been intermittent artilery fighting in the sectors on the left bank of the River Meuse. On the right
bank of the river the enemy last night
bombed violently our positions.

CANVASED MEMBERS OF THE RESOLUTIONS COMMITTEE—BAK-ER HAS PLANK IN HIS POCKET.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Under a sweltering sun and intense humidity, 8000 suffragists today carried out their "Golden Lane" demonstration over 13 blocks of downtown street leading to Convention hall. They were enthusiastically received by the thousands of delegates, and convention visitors who passed between their white and yellow garbed lines, ranged on the two sides of the street, and not a single untoward incident marked the occasion.
Only members of the National Woman Suffrage association participated in the display. Meantime representatives of the woman's party continued to canvass members of the resolutions committee in behalf of their cause.
Reports came to both suffrage camps
today that the plank which Secretary Baker carries and which is said to have the president's endorsement is not as strong as that submitted to the suffragists last night through Secretary Dan-democrats. The plank, Mr. Baker has it is understood, declares strongly for suffrage but does not advocate the im-amendment by congress.

BACK FROM TROPICS

Kermitt and Mrs. Roosevelt Arrived in New York from Buenos Ayres—Met by T. H.

NEW YORK, June 14.—Kermitt and Mrs. Roosevelt, son and daughter-in-law of Theodore Roosevelt, arrived here today with their baby from Buenos Ayres on the United States army transport Kilpatrick. They were met at the pier by the colonel and his wife.

Kermitt Roosevelt has been in South America as representative of a New York bank. His wife, daughter of Joseph E. Willard, ambassador to Spain, suffered an attack of typhoid while in the tropics.

Col. Roosevelt was suffering with a very bad cold, contracted several months ago.

After leaving the pier he kept an appointment with a throat specialist. He had been visiting the physician upon the occasions of his visits here from Oyster Bay.

PUPILS OF E. E. ADAMS

A delightful recital was given by the pianoforte and vocal pupils of Edward Adams at Mr. Adams' studio in the Old Fellows building last night. There was a good sized attendance of relatives and friends of the pupils and the program carried out reflected much credit on the pupils as well as on their teacher.

The program was as follows:

- March Militaire, Op. 51, No. 1, Schbert (Zu vier Handen)
- Miss Olga H. Emberg, Miss Julia B. Emberg
- a—Valse Ondulante, Op. 33, Binet
- b—Caprice Espagnole, Beaumont

NORMAL SCHOOL

Great Play and Pageant
in Open Tomorrow Afternoon

Lowell has taken note of the Shakespearean Tercentenary and the production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to take place tomorrow afternoon at the State Normal school at 3.30, with its attendant pageant and concert features, will be one of the most elaborate events of the kind held throughout New England. About 200 students and teachers will participate in the great production, which will be staged on the beautiful campus, and the music, costuming, etc., will be of a standard rarely attained even by colleges that pride themselves on their pageants and dramatic productions.

The play, which will be presented in the form of pageant and tableau, will be presented under the auspices of the school and society league as the main pre-graduating feature of the school. It takes the place of the musical festival week, it being the idea of Principal John J. Mahoney that this great educational institution should honor the Shakespearean celebration now so universal.

Besides the characters of Shakespeare's play with its fairies, elves, princes and princesses, etc., those who attend will see Queen Elizabeth and her court, Shakespeare, and other court and literary notables of that time. Costumes and incidentals will truly reflect the Elizabethan age, and the production will be a beautiful spectacle, all the more beautiful because of its natural setting on the beautiful grounds of the Normal school.

The incidental music will be worth going to hear, even though all other features were eliminated. Songs will be sung at intervals by the Glee club of the Normal school and the Bartlett grammar school and the chorus. Instrumental music will be furnished by the Philharmonic orchestra of Boston. There will also be some appropriate folk dancing, and nothing will be left undone to make the event worthy of the State Normal school and the Shakespearean Tercentenary. The Lowell public is offered an opportunity to participate in a celebration of which any school or college might be proud and it is to be hoped that the patronage will be worthy of the occasion.

Professor Albert Edmund Brown, who has had charge of the musical week in the past, has general charge of the pageant features and Miss Olive B. Clark has directed and coached the presentative of the drama.

THE LOWELL GUILD

At a recent meeting of the council of the Lowell guild the following report from the superintendent was given: Total visits nursing care, 341; friendly visits, 18; prenatal cases, 23; visits for Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 472; milk station calls, 238; milk given away, 300 quarts; grocery orders, 1; mothers attending conferences, 60; new babies treated, 12.

During the month the guild co-operated with the humane society, the board of health, board of charities, city hospital and the Lowell social service league.

Clothing given away included one box men's clothing, one box of children's clothing, and one pair of shoes. Attention is especially requested from the public to the following facts:

1. The nurses of the guild are for the public, and all physicians and others interested in the care of sick persons are urged to make full use of them in all cases of need.
2. The work of the milk station is of peculiar value and importance during the hot summer months, which are hardest of all upon babies. Mothers are therefore urged to avail themselves as fully as possible of the station's benefits during July and August. There are two clinics a week for babies, on Tuesdays and Fridays; fresh milk, tested and kept to standard, can be had every day. The guild regards this service affecting the proper feeding of infants as one of the most important practical means looking toward the better conservation of human life.

It was reported that upwards of 10,000 persons attended the recent scientific health exhibition in this city.

TEN YEARS TO PRISON

NORTH CHELMSFORD MAN GETS HEAVY SENTENCE FOR SETTING
FIRE TO A BUILDING

Stephen O'Hara was yesterday sentenced in the superior court at East Cambridge to serve not less nor more than ten years in state's prison after being found guilty of setting fire to a barn owned by Joseph D. Ryan in North Chelmsford early on the morning of April 3. The barn, seven head of cattle hay and other contents of the building were destroyed.

During the progress of the fire the North Chelmsford police in looking for the person who started the blaze, came upon footprints leading to a shed about 1000 yards from the scene of the fire where O'Hara was found sleeping. He at that time denied having any knowledge of the fire, but inasmuch as he had been connected with a similar fire previous to that he was sent to the police station for drunkenness and subsequently the more serious charge was preferred against him.

The jury after being out a short time yesterday returned a verdict of guilty. O'Hara has a record for drunkenness and larceny.

The case of Florence McLean, charged with robbing the home of C. C. Sibley of this city, where she was employed, came up for trial yesterday in the East Cambridge court. Officer Hines of station 3, Roxbury, appeared in court and stated the McLean woman was wanted in Roxbury on a larceny charge. An indefinite sentence in the Sherborn reformatory was imposed.

THE FIRST AID CLUB

FIRST AID CLASS OF THE Y.M.C.A.
FORMS ITSELF INTO A PERMA-NENT ORGANIZATION

A supper to the doctors and nurses who assisted the First Aid class of the Y.M.C.A. was the closing feature last evening of a well rounded out and profitable course in which a great many men took part. The class held a business meeting and formed itself into a permanent organization to be known as the First Aid club of the Lowell Y.M.C.A. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers were elected for one year: President, Haven C. Hill, vice president, W. W. Comings, and secretary-treasurer, Arthur A. Eushy. One interesting feature of this meeting was the presenting of a bouquet of carnations to each of the three nurses present, Miss Bertie Kelley, E. N. Miss Gerrie B. Emery, R.N., and Miss Helen Hennessey, R.N.

The others who have assisted are Miss Clara Holland, R.N., Dr. M. L. Alling, Dr. Nathan Pulsifer, Dr. E. O. Tabor and Dr. M. A. Tishie.

NASHUA - LOWELL ROAD

Special to The Sun

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 14.—The Nashua and Lowell railroad corporation has requested the public service commissioners to determine, under a provision of the so-called Washburn railroad act, how much additional land it requires in Lowell for the purposes of making and securing its railroad, or for depot or station purposes.

It sets forth in its petition that it desires certain land, northerly of its location, and between the location and the Merrimack river, beginning on the east at Black Brook culvert and extending a point slightly west of the old Middlesex canal location. The land is in three parcels, of which one, consisting of 3.18 acres, is sold to belong to Martha A. Gage, and there remaining two, consisting of .82 and .002 acres, respectively, are said to belong to Samuel P. Hadley.

The corporation states that it has been unable to agree with the owners as to the proper price to be paid for the land, and it therefore re-

how much it actually needs. When such determination is made, the corporation will have the right to take the land by right of eminent domain, after which, if the parties are still unable to agree, the price to be paid will be fixed by a jury.

GEORGE COUZOULES' CASE

HE APPEARED AT CAMBRIDGE YESTERDAY AND WAS HELD IN $3,000

George Couzoules, a former Lowell business man, who was indicted for embezzlement of a sum between $3,000 and $10,000 from his fellow countrymen of this city, gave himself up at the superior court in Cambridge and was held in the sum of $3,000 for his appearance before the court at a later date. The complaint on which Mr. Couzoules is wanted dates back a year or two.

Mr. Couzoules has been absent from Lowell for some time. He had been in business on Market street and was esteemed as a prince of good fellows but it appears that lavish expenditure and loose business methods proved his ruin but he has set out to make amends to the best of his ability.

FLAG DAY IN THE SCHOOLS

Exercises in All the Schools Embracing Salute to the Flag and Patriotic Readings

Flag day was observed in a fitting manner in all the public schools of the city today. In some of the schools general exercises were held in the assembly hall, while in others the exercises were confined to the respective classrooms. The programs consisted of the reading of the history of the flag, the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and other patriotic selections, salute to the flag and patriotic recitations.

Greenhalge

There were no general exercises at the Greenhalge school today, but each class room had its special exercises and the programs were carried out much to the satisfaction of the children and teachers.

The graduating class, numbering 42 boys and girls, was taken on a special trip to Charlestown this morning by Principal Whitcomb. The children and their leader boarded an electric car at Merrimack square at 9 o'clock this morning and went directly to Charlestown, where they were given an opportunity of inspecting the navy yard. After their tour of inspection the children partook of a basket dinner and this afternoon they took in the various sights around Boston, including the Bunker Hill monument and historical places.

Varnum

One of the features of the Flag day exercises held at the Varnum school at 8:30 o'clock this morning, was the pledge of allegiance to America by the numerous pupils of the school. The program consisted of the singing of patriotic hymns, salute to the flag, reading of the history of the flag etc. An illustrated lecture on the development of the American flag since colonial times was given by the master of the school and various evolutions of the flag were shown.

Yesterday the graduating class, accompanied by Principal Harris and teachers went to visit Waitt's birthplace.

At 11 o'clock this forenoon patriotic exercises were held at the Washington school. The program consisted of the

"In the Vosges a surprise attack by French troops on skis upon a German detachment to the south of Songron (north of Thann) resulted in our bringing back some prisoners."

AUSTRIAN REPORT OF THE SINKING OF ITALIAN AUXILIARY CRUISER

BERLIN, June 14. (By wireless to Sayville).—The following statement from the Austrian admiralty was received today from Vienna:

"An Austro-Hungarian submarine on June 8 torpedoed the large Italian auxiliary cruiser Principe Umberto, which had troops on board. The vessel which was accompanied by several destroyers sank in a few minutes."

The loss of the Principe Umberto was announced by the Italian admiralty on June 9. It was said probably half the troops on board the vessel perished.

AUSTRIAN ATTACKS IN SOUTHERN TYROL REPULSED BY ITALIANS

ROME, June 14, via London, 2:02 p.m.—Austrian attacks along the line of the Posina in the southern Tyrol, made after intensive artillery preparation on Monday night, were everywhere repulsed by the Italians, the war office announced today.

The statement follows:

"On the line of the Posina, the enemy after a violent artillery bombardment, made an attack on the night of

THE FRENCH MAID SAYS

THE HOME MADE HAMMOCK

"I wish I had a real comfortable hammock like yours," quoth Marjorie as she came upon Mario reading during her rest hour under some trees in the orchard.

"I made this," responded Mario not without a trace of pride, "and you can make one too, if you care to."

"My hammock took 2-3 yards of this canvas. It was not as cheap of course as many of the other kinds of ordinary canvas are or the cheaper sacking which is equally as strong, but certainly not as beautiful. You may, of course, use any sort of strong material you wish and let your fancy play in the choice of the colors you would like your hammock to be."

A hem measuring about three-quarters of an inch must be turned down along each edge and sewed with a strong thread on a machine. Now a hem measuring 1-1/4 inches is machined down at the top and bottom of the canvas. Along these top and bottom hems a row of holes, eight on each end, are made. You will find that these holes are easily made with an ordinary steel, such as is used for sharpening table knives, or you may punch the holes by carefully using a carpenter's small, round chisel.

"Each of these holes must now be firmly buttoned with strong linen thread. But if you do not wish to have the bother of working the eyelet holes, take your hammock to the shoemaker, and he will put eyelet holes in for a small sum."

"Now take the hammock strings, divide your 16 yards of cord into two equal pieces, eight yards for each end. Each eight yards of cord is again divided into four equal lengths. Then take one of these pieces and double it in half.

"Place the double end through one of your iron rings, and slip the two loose ends through the double, thus securing the cord to the ring and having two equal lengths hanging down. Bring each of these lengths through an eyelet hole and fasten it securely by knotting the cord on the under side and then bringing it over and tying again. Fasten each piece of cord in this manner until you have a cord through each eyelet hole both top and bottom.

BERLIN REPORTS RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE BROKE OUT NORTH OF PINSK

BERLIN, June 14, via London, 4:11 p.m.—The Russian offensive, which has been directed against the southern portion of the eastern front broke out yesterday against Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces at a point about 75 miles north of Pinsk. The Russians made seven successive attacks with masses of infantry. The war office announcement of today says they were repulsed with heavy losses.

The war office statement follows:

"Western front: On the heights southeast of Zillebeke a portion of our new positions was lost during the course of yesterday's fighting."

"North of the bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) positions of the enemy west and south of Thiaumont farm were captured during the battles of June 12 and 13. During these operations we captured 793 Frenchmen, including 27 officers and 15 machine guns."

RUSSIANS MAKE PROGRESS IN EFFORTS TO CAPTURE CZERNOWITZ

LONDON, June 14.—Reports from the eastern front indicate that the Russians are making substantial progress in their efforts to capture Czernowitz, the capital of Bukovina. A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says the Russians have interrupted the Austrian communications by cutting the railway running north from Czernowitz. Heavy fighting is in progress in the eastern, southeastern and northern outskirts of the city.

A wireless despatch from Rome quotes the Russian ambassador to Italy to the effect that Russian cavalry has reached a point 20 miles beyond Czernowitz.

Further north the Russian forces have followed up their victories along the river Sty and are steadily advancing to the northwest towards Vladimir Volynsk. In this sector the Russians have covered the ground embraced in from one and a half to marches from the Rottche-Lutsk line. Having reached the Stokhod river the Russians are separated from Kovel, the vital center of the Teuton railway and road communication in this sector, by less than one third the distance they covered during their crushing strokes westward from the Olyka region. They are already more

FIGHTING AT VERDUN DIES DOWN FROM SHEER EXHAUSTION OF COMBATANTS

PARIS, June 14.—The fighting around Verdun has once more died down from sheer exhaustion of combatants. An entire division half of whom were Bavarians and half Pomeranians was used up by the Germans in 12 separate attempts Monday to storm the French position north of Thiaumont. From this position the French flanking fire prevented the enemy from advancing on Vaux plateau. No result having been attained by nightfall, fresh troops were brought up and an attempt was made to turn the position from the southwest. After a desperate struggle a footing was obtained in some of the trenches on Hill No. 321, half a mile west of Thiaumont and a mile east of Bras.

No effort was made to increase this advantage yesterday owing probably to the losses on Monday night. According to prisoners, were exceptionally heavy. A man belonging to the Sixteenth Bavarian Infantry stated that his regiment had lost nearly a third of its effectives.

ONE KILLED IN AIR RAID AT VENICE MONDAY NIGHT

PARIS, June 14.—It was officially announced today that an Austrian sea-plane raided Venice on Monday night. The statement says that one woman was killed and four civilians injured and that the property damage was slight.

BRITISH COLUMN ENTERED KERMAN, PRINCIPAL TOWN OF SOUTHEASTERN PERSIA

LONDON, June 14.—A Reuter despatch from Tehran says that General Sykes, with a British column, on Monday entered Kerman, the principal town of southeastern Persia.

The purpose is not known publicly here but presumably it is intended to maintain order in the British sphere of Persia. Minor disturbances there have been attributed to German and Turkish emissaries.

SHIP YARDS MAY CLOSE

DEMANDS OF LABOR CANNOT BE MET, SAYS J. W. POWELL OF FORE RIVER YARD

BOSTON, June 14.—Joseph W. Powell, president of the Fore River Ship Building corporation declared in an address today that "the situation surrounding labor's wage demands was developing so fast that all the ship yards in the country soon would be forced to consider whether they should shut down rather than submit to impossible terms." The Fore River Co., he added, had not accepted a new order in four months because of the possible necessity of such action.

President Powell was one of the speakers at a luncheon of naval architects held in connection with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology dedication celebration.

ROOSEVELT BROKE RIB

REPORT THAT HE IS ILL EXPLAINED—HE SAYS PROBABLY STRAINED LIGAMENT

NEW YORK, June 14.—Reports today that Theodore Roosevelt was seriously ill apparently proved unfounded. He has been experiencing coughing spells recently and in a statement late today regarding an attack of pain while he was at a pier this morning awaiting the arrival of his son Kermit from South America the colonel explained that this coughing probably had strained a ligament.

"One year ago," the colonel said, "I broke one of my ribs in the left side while riding. The horse fell and threw me. The coughing spells which I have had probably strained a ligament. It is ridiculous, but painful, so, like King Gog, I arch my neck and walk lightly."

The former president left the pier in an automobile with his family. He appeared later in a public dining room with Mrs. Roosevelt and others and held a political conference there with Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the progressive national convention, and Harold L. Ickes, progressive national committee man from Illinois.

POISON IN LIQUID FORM

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 14.—Dr. John L. Taylor, coroner, testified today at the trial of Will H. It was based on statements of allegations that stains of the poison on Miss Lambert's hand and cheek were sediment and not cyanide in crystal form.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

When the color of the hair comes so faded as to cause anxiety the sufferer may be quite sure that the nervous system is not in the best order, and so seek first of all for the internal tonics and improved habits of life which will build up the body. Sulphur and iron taken internally, anointing the scalp at the same time with yolk of egg, is a treatment endorsed by good physicians for restoring faded hair to its natural color, as these things supply the minerals upon which the coloring matter of the hair is supposed to depend.

The following solution of iron, applied externally, is also advised by authoritative persons for the same causes: Citrate of iron, 3 drams; nux vomica, 2 drams; coconut oil, 1-2 ounces; Bay rum, 2 ounces. This is especially good for dark hair, as the iron produces a delicate stain. The scalp and hair must be moistened with the lotion about twice a week.

Regarding simple dressings for the hair, something that will give the high gloss fashion new demands for the well-dressed head. The shapier the medium used the better, as all hair dressings tend to clog the scalp after a while.

A dressing which will give the hair a look of richness and, besides, increase its growth, is made of 10 ounces of castor oil, and two ounces of pure castor oil. If the oil is made of pure spirits, it will dissolve the oil completely, leaving a lotion clear and sweet; so it is necessary to get the purest German cologne the market affords as the cheaper ones are worthless for the purpose, only the best thing blending properly with the oil.

Their pay was raised because it was necessary for the city to conform to the standard wage paid engineers and firemen. ## RAILROAD WAGE QUESTION

NEW YORK, June 14.—The fate of the negotiations between the railroad managers of the United States and their employees for a settlement of the wage question hung today on the willfulness of the railroads to present a "definite answer" to the men's demands.

"The union heads at their conference here today rejected the railroads' 'contingent' proposition and demanded 'something definite.' The railroad managers met this afternoon to determine what action would be taken.

MITCHELL CAR POPULAR

The new Mitchell car, the agent for which is Hubert S. Girard of the Howard street garage, is making a big hit among the local auto enthusiasts, although the agency has been established only a brief time. There are two ways of classifying a car. One way is to examine the car itself, and the other way is to follow the judgment of those who understand automobiles. The first method is of value only to those who are familiar with machines. Those who are not must rely upon the words of reliable and disinterested parties. Some of the world's most famous mechanical engineers have pronounced the new Mitchell to be mechanically the best car they have ever seen, and they have given their strength to their words by becoming owners of Mitchell cars.

While on Bridge street yesterday afternoon in answer to a "click" call, an ambulance number 1 of the Pitts Auto Supply backed up and was partially destroyed by fire. At present the damaged machine is at the headquarters in Hurd street. Later it will be repaired and used again in the service. Fortunately service car number 2 was ready for use, having just come from the painter's, resplendent in its bright appearance. The use of this car will keep Pitts' service unimpaired.

George R. Dana has already sold over twenty-two Cadillac cars in the eastern part of the city this year. Twenty of this number were purchased by persons living in the Belvidere section. Although Mr. Dana has disposed of his entire spring allotment of cars, he is able to secure more and can make immediate deliveries of a roadster and two touring cars.

The Boston Auto Supply company is doing a big business on Hampden street. This company, recently laid in, is well high exhausted. Orders have been sent in for more. The tremendous sale of these bumpers clearly shows that the local autoist believes in preparedness when it comes to anything which will protect his car from damage. Autoists will do well to equip their cars with bumpers and avoid considerable damage when the occasion arrives.

S. L. Rochette of the Lowell Motor Mart reports the following delivery of Ford cars during the week: John A. McNamara, Chelmsford street; Alfred Sclard, West Meadowcroft street; Martin J. Quinn, Gorham street; George A. Friend, Eighteenth street; William Carp, Chelmsford; Gabriel Kahan, Gorham street; Alfred Chalifour, Harvard street. Mr. M. D. Hyman, Harvard street, received his Dodge Brothers car through the same agency.

Today Pitts' Auto Supply advertises theft insurance. It is by no means given to understand that this popular supply house is issuing policies on theft insurance, but rather to inform Ford owners of an easy and economical way by which to protect their machines from thieves. The way offered is by using a Ford lock which makes a Ford absolutely thief-proof. This absolute protection can be secured for $1, which of course, must be admitted to be very cheap in comparison with the security obtained by the use of the same.

The weather last week must have discouraged any car owner who received his new machine during the past week, but that will all be forgotten during the fine days which are to follow.

Garland Bros. of Braintree have received their five passenger touring car from the Auburn Motor Car company, Thorndike street. L. N. Cushman is enjoying his Auburn 6-cylinder also secured through the same agency.

Ezra Meeker of Seattle, Wash., a grizzled pioneer 82 years old who is making a cross continent tour from Washington, D. C., to Seattle, Wash., in the interest of a national highway to the Pacific coast, is an enthusiast when it comes to the twelve cylinder motor. Ezra is using a typical profile schooner on his trip, which is mounted on a automobile chassis. "I am more familiar with an ox team than an automobile," says Ezra Meeker, "but I do know what comfort is. When I crossed the Oregon trail with an ox team and a schooner it was mighty different from the manner in which I am making this trip. I cannot speak too loudly of the comforts of my trip. The car is as easy riding as a crack continental railroad train. I am eighty-two years old and I believe there must be something to automobile engineering and construction when, at this age, I can ride in an auto over 200 miles in one day and not be fatigued as much as 20 miles in my original prairie schooner and at that time I was a young man. I have never been up in an airplane but I believe an automobile is the nearest approach to that sensation. The car simply flies. So far have not even had a puncture."

Motor car users in the future will not have to worry whether or not the grease cups are filled and turned up. For instance, on one make of cars there are only four grease cups and these are on the steering connections. There are cars which have as many as fifty or sixty grease cups with instructions that each should be turned up once every week or ten days. These are generally used for lubricating minor parts such as spring bolts, shafts, brake operating rods, etc.

AUTOMOBILE QUESTION BOX

NOTE—In these columns every Wednesday we will give expert advice to motorists on how to repair and operate their machines. Automobile readers of THE SUN are invited to send in questions which will receive attention in due time. Address all communications: Automobile Editor, Sun, Lowell, Mass. Communications must bear the signature and address of the sender, though not for publication but as a guarantee of good faith.

Please publish advice as to the following: I have a 79-T Overland car (1914), which has dry cells for starting. Would it be advisable to connect the storage battery for lights and starter to starting coil and eliminate the dry cells?

Ans. It is not advisable to connect the storage battery to the starting coil, as it may injure the coil, and if the switch is left connected when the engine is standing still it will ruin the coil and injure the battery.

Could you tell me the original price of an Everitt touring car, four-cylinder, 30-horsepower, 1912 model, manufactured by the Héttger Motor corporation of Detroit?

Will you kindly enumerate possible causes for overheating of engine?

Is there any way of telling whether the water pump is working or not, without disconnecting it? The above questions are brought out by the fact that my Everitt car ran perfectly last Sunday, but on taking it out for decoration day it would not run three miles without boiling the water in the radiator. Absolutely the only thing I did in the meantime was to turn down the low speed button on my carburetor, so as to get a thinner mixture, but I do not see how that could be responsible for such serious results.

Ans. The list price was $1500 f. o. b. factory.

Lack of water, poor circulation, fan belt broken or slipping, radiator dirty (externally or internally), carburetor not adjusted properly, spark too late.

you think it would help the running of the engine to put a heating attachment to the carburetor?

2. Would it improve the carburetor if the intake manifold was shortened?

3. Do you suppose the magnets are firing too quick and not enough off centre?

4. What should be the proper clearance on the pistons 3 1/2 by 5 inch stroke? We seem to have good compression. C. P.

Ans.—The compression is probably not as good as it should be. Look at the valves and make sure that they seat properly. The rings will fit better after they have been run about 1,000 miles. The more the intake charge can be heated the greater will be the efficiency of the engine; therefore, a heating attachment will be beneficial.

Shortening the manifold would make it less liable to condense the vaporized mixture. In doing so, care must be taken that a sufficient pressure of gasoline reaches the float chamber.

The magneto breaker points should begin to separate when piston is just past top dead centre with spark fully retarded.

Clearance would depend upon the compression desired by the designer. A great many engines allow 30 per cent of the cylinder volume as compression space.

I have a Cadillac car with two wheels out of alignment (front wheel and rear wheel). Both wheels run unevenly; that is, they wobble. I hit a curb with the left front wheel and a curb with the right rear wheel. On the front wheel I turned the steering cross rod yoke to the left a full turn, but there was no change. I then turned the yoke back to its regular position and gave it a full turn to the right, and the wheel still wobbles.

The distance from one rear wheel to the other is 57 inches, measuring from centre of tread. The front wheels are 56 inches. J. F.

Ans.—The wheels have probably been sprung in the hubs or else the hubs themselves have been bent out of true. Take the hubs apart and put them back on the axles without the wheels. By turning the hubs and watching carefully, any irregularity can be noted. If the hubs are out of true they will have to be taken to a machine shop and trued up in a lathe. If they are all right, the spokes are sprung and will need to be trued up. The front wheels should be farther apart in the rear than in the front. This is called fore-and-aft and should be about 5-16 of an inch.

HELPFUL HINTS

The headlights should be dustproof. If dust shows on the reflectors blow it off with air from the pump or small hand bellows. Do not use polish, as this removes the silvering. After cleaning, look at the joint between the glass and reflector. This should be smooth and even. Sometimes an extra strip of felt helps considerably to prevent dust from getting in to the reflectors.

The connections of the battery should be loosened and cleaned occasionally, in order to get a good clean contact. Sometimes the terminals will become so corroded that the self-starter will not operate.

When jacking up the rear wheels, never set the jack under the truss rod, as the strain will stretch the rod and make it useless for the very purpose it

PREPAREDNESS AMERICA FIRST

Preparedness for automobile comfort and enjoyment can easily be accomplished by the purchase of a CADILLAC "EIGHT."

This car was conceived by a New Englander; its policy is controlled by a man born and bred in Massachusetts. It is American through and through.

We foresaw and prepared for the future and now have to offer for immediate delivery a snappy yet conservative roadster, also touring cars, standard and special.

FIVE MEN LOST LIVES

Four Others Missing and 19 Injured—$2,000,000 Loss is Caused by Fire in Grain Elevator

BALTIMORE, Md., June 14.—Five men are known to have lost their lives as a result of the fire yesterday that destroyed Pennsylvania railroad elevator No. 3 on the harbor front at Canton, a suburb. Four others are unaccounted for, and of the 19 injured in hospitals two are in a critical condition.

The loss is estimated at $2,000,000. It represents the cost of the elevator, the value of the grain therein, and damage to the Dutch steamer William Van Driel, Sr., and the British steamer Welbeck hall which was moored alongside the elevator. A spark from broken machinery is thought to have caused the fire.

PREPAREDNESS PARADE

or today, "with the hearty and ready response of the people of Lowell. I appreciated it was just what we needed for so big an affair, but I felt that we could go through with it and come out all right. I am sure that we have succeeded admirably. The right spirit has prevailed throughout. It seemed to me as if every man and woman looked upon the idea as the most beneficial thing to take place in Lowell for a long space of time.

"The committee selected to further the progress of the celebration, and the chief marshal and chief of staff have done splendid work and it is owing to that work, I believe, and all the splendid attitude taken by the people that the affair gives promise of such unusual success. The newspapers have taken a wonderfully active interest and have kept the public informed as to everything that was going on.

"The contributions received were entirely voluntary and there has been no desire to insist upon contributions being made. The celebration being held in the city's history and on the smallest amount of money. I am sure that we all have cause to feel pretty well satisfied."

U. S. Cartridge Company

The United States Cartridge company will have a little parade of its own after the big parade is over, and it will not be a very small parade, either, as the company expects to turn out 4000 strong. The cartridge shop marchers will not disband when their section reaches Cabot street, but will continue Cabot to Market street, down Market to Suffolk, to Fletcher, to Thorndike, to the Casino, where the members will be dismissed. The several bands accompanying this section will remain in line and the unit will make quite a formidable appearance in the above named streets.

Mayor Instructs Police

Mayor O'Donnell has issued his instructions to the superintendent of police relative to the policing of the parade. He said that the parade should be held by way of Moody street, but may continue up Moody, or up Cabot or down Market, Adams, Common or any of those streets. The purpose of not allowing them to go back Moody street is to avoid any interference with that portion of the parade that is still en route.

Mayor Sends Invitations

The mayor invited Captain McCoy and Lieutenants McGinness and Gray, U.S. to review the parade at city hall and they answered that they would come if possible. These officers are now stationed at the Sudbury Training camp. Other retired and active army officers who will review the parade from the reviewing stand at city hall will include Gen. Adeline Ames, Col. Percy Parker, Lieut. Col. B. Buck, Col. Butler Ames and Commander E. L. Scribner. The lieutenant governor and his staff are also expected. The reviewing stand is large enough to accommodate 50 people.

White Way Lights

The mayor took up the matter of the white way lights with Mr. Hunnewell of the Lowell Electric Light corporation, the thought having occurred to him that the light should be put on earlier and allowed to burn later, and Mr. Hunnewell told the mayor that he had arranged to have the lights turned on at dusk and that they would be kept burning until 1 a. m. Instead of 11 p. m., as per contract. The two hours extra of white way lights will not cost the city anything, and Mr. Hunnewell, who is an active member of the committee on arrangements, said he was only too pleased to do it.

Chauffeurs and Repair Men

Lowell chauffeurs and repair men expect a large turnout in the parade this evening. All will meet at 7 o'clock, sharp, at the Church street garage, where they will be met by St. Joseph's drum corps of Lawrence. Uniformity of dress will be a feature of this section.

General Orders

General Orders No. 7.

1. At the stroke of 8.30 p. m. every organization then on the march will immediately halt. Every band, whether marching or not will simultaneously begin the playing of "America," and leaders, whether or not their line of march has then begun will join with the onlookers in singing two verses of "America." It is the intention to have the two verses sung at the same moment throughout the entire line of the parade.

2. Division marshals, chiefs of organization and individual marchers are urged to co-operate in keeping closed up throughout the line of march. A careful attention to this detail is essential in view of the thousands in line and of the time at best consumed in completing the line of march.

Per order

John Jacob Rogers, Chief Marshal.
Thomas J. O'Donnell, Chief of Staff.
The chief of staff asked the newspapers to request the parade not to smoke while parading.

Postoffice Employees

The organization of Lowell Post Office Employees will be as follows: Letter Carriers Band of Boston. Lowell Post Office Employees, Assist-

aut Postmaster Edwards Cheney, commanding.

Lieut. Geo. S. Howard, adjutant. Staff—Supt. of Mails Edwin H. Cooke, Supt. of Delivery Albin S. Ashworth, Letter Carriers under command of David H. Dwyer, vice-president of Letter Carriers' Association. Post office clerks and other post office employees under command of James L. O'Dea, president Clerks' association.

The Weather Question

If it should rain or look so much like it that the committee would deem it advisable to postpone the parade the fire department will sound the school signal, two strokes three times repeated, on the fire alarm system at 4 p. m. sharp. The parade will be held Friday night on the same plans and hours if it is found necessary to postpone.

Business Men's Battalion

Companies C and D of the Business Men's battalion stepped into the line last night and moved their semimilitary band in the public streets. It was their first appearance and they didn't look half as bad as some of the pictures of men in the trenches or "somewhere in France." Capt. Walter R. Jeyes of Company C, M.V.M., was their instructor and he put them through all of the marching movements they will be called upon to perform in the parade tonight—and then some.

Both companies turned out with nearly full ranks. They were brought out into Paige street and from there went into Kirk and Merriback streets, returning via John street.

The Business Men's Battalion will assemble tonight at the armory at 7 o'clock, and a few minutes later will be moved out to take its appointed place in the parade formation. The men are notified to wear their full uniform, including the coats, but if any man has not yet received his coat, he is to turn out in his uniform minus the coat. Tan shoes are required.

Following the supper and before the business meeting was held there were short talks by several of the gentlemen present. Stanley I. Garret was toastmaster and presided very gracefully and efficiently.

Dr. C. E. Simpson spoke on "Ideals of Doctors and Nurses." Dr. D. E. Jarnes in his remarks showed the position of the association in connection with the general civic interest of promoting better health conditions.

Dr. M. D. Bryant then gave a stirring talk on "Preparedness," dwelling essentially on the need of efficient and adequate military preparations to insure peace against any possible invader. Dr. R. J. Meigs, W. A. Riel, educational secretary, and Dr. J. Mehan followed with remarks appropriate to the occasion. Dr. Mehan emphasized the fact that persons rendering first aid treatment should not be nervous against any cases but should in practically all cases see that a physician is consulted.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

for the opening of the democratic national convention. The probability was not one delegate here, who recalled when a national convention of that party entered upon its work more harmoniously. The candidates for president and vice-president have been decided upon, and according to the leaders, there will be no friction over the party's declaration of principle. Only the phraseology of a few planks in the platform remains to be agreed upon.

Call on Old Campaigners

The party managers hope to enliven the proceedings by calling upon old campaigners to deliver ringing speeches at odd moments during the sessions and the sergeant-at-arms of the convention and his assistants were prepared to handle large crowds at all of the meetings.

The city itself was dressed for the occasion, and the fact that this was Flag day, helped in the display of the colors. Everywhere the Stars and Stripes flutter. There was but one button seen on the delegates and that carried a likeness of President Wilson.

To Renominate Marshall

Those who did not wear Wilson buttons had some emblem indicating their favorite for vice-president—Thomas R. Marshall or Indiana, Roger C. Sullivan or Illinois, Gov. Major of Missouri, or Gov. Morehead of Nebraska. But only one of these appeared to be in the running, the present vice-president. President Wilson has indicated his preference for his running mate of four years ago, and there is not the slightest doubt that his wish will be gratified. The other candidates may receive complimentary votes but if the leaders can bring it about Vice-President Marshall will be re-nominated by acclamation.

Today's Program

The plans for today's session provided for calling the convention to order at 12 o'clock (Central time) by William F. McCombs of New York, the retiring chairman of the national committee; the opening prayer by the Rev. James W. Lee of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, St. Louis, and the keynote speech by the temporary chairman, Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York.

After routine convention work adjournment will be taken until noon Thursday when the committee will report. Permanent organization will be effected and after the permanent chairman, Senator Otis James of Kentucky, delivers his speech the convention may listen to some of the party's orators, after which adjournment will be taken until Friday morning, when the platform will be read and adopted. Then will follow a recess and the presidential nomination will come late Friday night.

WHAT THE COOK SAYS

We have been greatly troubled this spring by the sparrows making their nests in the eaves and behind the blinds. I did not like to tear away the nests, so Cook hit upon this idea and it has proven a great success. She made small bags of cheesecloth, into them placed a few moth balls and then placed the bags wherever the birds had their nests or had started to build them. In a few days we were rid of them entirely and have not been bothered since. Cook has also discovered that mice which refuse to be caught in a trap baited with cheese, come readily to it if pieces of fish and oyster or scallop are used. We have caught five at one time with this bait while the trap set with cheese was untouched. Mice can be most successfully exterminated if you stuff all their holes with a piece of rag which has been dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

At this time of year if something different or original can be served to us that whets our jaded appetites caused by the heavy and rich food we all indulge in too much during the winter, we turn to it with almost a prayer of thanksgiving. Cook served us this morning a pineapple sweetbread, one of the most appetizing dishes I have tasted for a long time. She gave me the recipe to pass on to you.

Parboli one large pair of sweetbreads, when done, trim and dice them. Chop enough fresh pineapple to make one heaping cup, add this to the sweetbread with one cup of dry bread crumbs, also pepper, salt, a gill of melted butter, a tablespoon of chutney and two beaten eggs. Pour the mixture into a buttered pudding dish. Dust the top with grated cheese and bake in the oven 20 minutes.

Why is it our table is seen so seldom on our home trips and so much more at the larger hotels? I confess myself I never cared very much for trips until Cook served it in a new way the other day. She says it is a southern way of cooking trip and she calls it southern stewed trip.

Take one pound of honeycomb tripe and wash it carefully. Put it on to stew in milk and, when tender, drain. Have ready a cream sauce, in which the juice of an onion and a chopped red pepper have been cooked. Dice the tripe and add it to the sauce. Pour the mixture into a well buttered baking dish and cover it with thin slices of bacon; sprinkle a few drops of lemon juice and a little red pepper over the bacon and place the dish in the oven. By the time the bacon is crisp, the dish is ready to be served.

In these days of necessary economy in dye stuffs one should be sure to take the precaution to get the color of every colored wash garment. Cook told me just how this should be done. For any colored material take a handful of salt and two tablespoons of turpentine to three-quarters of a pint of hot water. Put the goods in and allow to remain until the water is cold. Pour the mixture into a well buttered baking dish and cover it with thin slices of bacon; sprinkle a few drops of lemon juice and a little red pepper over the bacon and place the dish in the oven. By the time the bacon is crisp, the dish is ready to be served.

Everyone is proud of a spotless bathtub and Cook says when you clean your porcelain bathtub wipe them dry, then rub dry salt on them and you will be delighted with results. I also use salt when I sweep my rugs and it brightens them wonderfully.

A porcelain sink can be cleaned with paraffin. Dip a flannel lightly into the paraffin and rub the sink till all the stains are removed, then thoroughly scrub it with soda water. When porcelain baking dishes become discolored on the inside, fill them with buttermilk and let stand for two or three days. This will remove all stains from the dishes.

Cook has a simple way to clean discolored silver. She puts a quarter of a pound of sal soda into a gallon of water. She places this on the stove and lets it come to a boil. When at boiling heat, the pieces of silver, one by one, are dipped in and taken out quickly. They are then washed in soap suds and dried with a soft, clean cloth. No polishing is necessary when silver is cleaned in this manner says Cook. Silver spoons and forks may be kept brightest if they are left for several hours in strong borax water. Silver that is frequently washed with ammonia water will need cleaning less often.

Silver teapots, being seldom in constant use, are very likely to become mouldy. They can, however, be kept in perfectly good condition after washing and drying them thoroughly in a lump of sugar is placed inside. The sugar absorbs the dampness and keeps the teapot sweet and fresh.

Cook says sausage rolls and apple sauce are delicious. Make a good tart apple sauce—firm, not too thin—and set it away to chill. Make enough plain piecrust for the ordinary pie. Take one pound of good sausage meat, season it well, adding to it a half a cup of dry bread crumbs, a finely chopped hard boiled egg and some stiffly beaten eggs.

Roll out the paste, as is done for pies, and cut it 12 inches wide and as long as the dough will make it. Spread it with the sausage meat and roll it sealing the ends with rounds of the crust. Set away in the refrigerator. In the morning, put the roll in a large lump of sugar in a tin, and bake 20 minutes. Serve garnished with parsley and lemon quarters, with a helping of the apple sauce on each service plate.

PREMIER ASQUITH EVENT

THE THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ELECTION TO PARLIAMENT IS OBSERVED

LADYBANK, Scotland, June 14.—In observance of the 30th anniversary of his election to the house of commons from East Fife, Premier Asquith today visited his constituency for the first time since the outbreak of the war, addressing a great meeting of his supporters and many who in past years have been his opponents.

The premier made a touching reference to the death of Field Marshal Earl Kitchener as "leaving a place in our constitutional life that none else can fill and a memory that will live as long as the British empire."

Lord Kitchener had bequeathed to the country an array of armies, said the premier, and it was for the country to make the best use of these. In a survey of the situation, Premier Asquith declared that the Russian advance was one of the most brilliant features of the war.

VICTORY FOR SUFFRAGISTS

Tentative Draft of Suffrage Platform Plank Tendered By the Democratic Leaders

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Victory for the suffragists in the democratic national convention today appeared so close that "General Undergrad" well might plan to keep silent her 8000 "marchers" in the walkless, talkless "Golden Lane" demonstration appeared likely to be shattered. The participants had promised their "general" faithfully that during the two hours of the display they would not utter a sound and then, in the closing hours of preparation, a tentative draft of a suffrage platform plank tendered them by democratic leaders put them in a shouting mood.

The plank contains everything which the suffragists have been fighting for. It would put the party on record as favoring passage of a constitutional amendment to enfranchise women. The plank as drafted refers to the large number of voting women in the enfranchised states, one of the principal arguments the women have been using.

Members of the National American Woman Suffrage association were expected to put their unequalled approval on the plank today and representatives of the woman's party already have endorsed it. If the plank is adopted the woman's party will turn attention to congress and try to force the Susan B. Anthony amendment through both houses before adjournment of the present session.

Suffragists today plan to continue their street speaking and demonstration and to appear before the resolutions committee Thursday as if no plank had been submitted to them. They will vigorously oppose substitution of a suffrage plank in any less different terms.

Anti-suffragists were prepared to redouble their efforts to defeat adoption of the plank. Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge and Mrs. S. J. George will speak before the resolutions committee.

The "Golden Lane" demonstration today is some emblem to stand in the front of the suffrage displays in the United States.

BRYAN TO BACK WILSON

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14.—Colonel Bryan's statement, made here yesterday, that he proposes to support President Wilson and the platform adopted by the democratic party is all that is necessary to make the harmony complete in the democratic national convention which opened today.

Some of the delegates pictured Bryan with a peace plank under one arm and a prohibition plank under the other, and felt that with his well known propensity for trouble he might start a fight.

Bryan was very angry at the idea that any democrat could question his allegiance to the democratic party. He said that such a question could only be inspired by "malicious intent."

LONGSHOREMEN JOIN STRIKE

WILLARD WHEELER GETS $200

Willard Wheeler, an employee of the Saco-Lowell shops was given a hearing before an arbitration committee under the workman's compensation act at city hall late yesterday afternoon. Wheeler was injured about a year ago while at his work, but he failed to comply with the law by not reporting the accident, and accordingly he was not entitled to any compensation. An agreement of fact, however, was entered upon between the insurance company and the employee and he was awarded compensation to the amount of $200.

A STOLEN PLATFORM

References to the democratic party eliminated, the republican platform would read very like the inaugural address of President Wilson, supplemented by passages from his speeches to congress and public addresses. Safely vague and unspecific in its accusations or recommendations it nevertheless recommends many things that the democratic party has achieved or is striving to achieve. To those who are broad enough and fair enough to give credit to any party that aims at reform, the republican platform is the highest possible compliment to President Wilson, and if Mr. Hughes should follow it closely he will be campaigning for his opponent.

It may safely be said at the outset that there is not one large issue in its eloquent paragraphs. There is a forced and artificial attempt to take advantage of all the popular agitations of the time, but in no place does it challenge the democratic party to take opposite sides—excepting a few minor incidents in which the American people show little interest. There is not one good thing in the republican platform that has not been preached and practised by President Wilson, and his supporters for the past four years.

The opening paragraph is of the usual patriotic style, general enough to fit into any platform. Then comes the resounding declaration: "We declare that we believe in and will enforce the protection of every American citizen in all the rights secured to him, etc." Has not President Wilson enforced the protection of every American citizen to the very brink of war? His strongest opponents are those who say that he has been needlessly obstinate in his determination that no right of an American citizen shall be surrendered. When he asked for a vote of confidence in congress who but the republicans threaten to desert him and to surrender American rights, thereby siding with one of the belligerent powers against their own government?

Immediately after this courageous declaration comes the statement: "We desire peace, the peace of justice and right and believe in maintaining a straight and honest neutrality, etc." This sounds all right but they might have written it: "As President Wilson has said, we desire peace, etc." The sentiments are his as is also a large share of credit for standing out for an honest neutrality under difficulties. Merely another boost for President Wilson!

Ah, here we have something definite. "We deeply sympathize with the 15,000,000 people of Mexico. We pledge our aid in restoring order and maintaining peace in Mexico." Yet it is not definite enough. There are no Mexican voters to offend either way, but there are other reasons why the platform makers should have been more positive. We take from it that the republicans are against the Mexican policy of this administration, but do they favor armed intervention or absolute non-interference? We suspect strongly that when the campaign is under way, even the declarations about Mexico will be sandpapered considerably.

The republicans are strongly for the Monroe Doctrine. Who isn't? They are also in favor of more close relations with Latin-America. How often has President Wilson said things that sound similar? Never in any administration has a stronger or more intelligent effort been made to draw closer the two Americas than during the present administration. It has been profitable and popular and the republicans include the South American policy in the stolen planks.

The republicans are for "complete national defence ready for any emergency." So is President Wilson. Even their suggestions for a larger army and navy sound like an echo of the administration preparedness bills. They are for a safe tariff, but they do not call it a high tariff. That wouldn't do in the present state of public sentiment. However, they are for a "tariff commission with complete power to gather and compile information for the use of congress in all matters relating to the tariff." Was it Senator Gore who told us about President Wilson's tariff commission bill a few months ago?

Analysis grows tedious, but it is all the same down to the last resounding appeal to the American people. They are for a val credits, rural free delivery, a merchant marine—though they defeated a bill for its restoration at the last session—conservation, labor legislation, economy, etc., etc. From first to last all that is good therein is democratic. All that is distinctly republican is vague and so general that you may read anything into it. The republicans have a candidate, but they still lack a republican platform.

U-BOAT LINER?

The war has upset so many predictions that one now predicts with diffidence, yet a picturesque possibility that is now being discussed is a line of commercial submarines from Germany to America, bringing chemicals, dyes, etc., to our ports and returning with cargoes of food for the German population. We read that officials of steamboat companies in New York are betting even money that a German submarine merchant liner will arrive at New York before July 5 with a cargo worth $1,000,000.

Should this come to pass, it will be an epochal event as it will open a new chapter in naval warfare. During the war German submarines have done some wonderful feats, showing endurance and the ability to travel thousands of miles without replenishing the fuel supply. Like the airship, the underwater craft has been used heretofore for war purposes only, but the necessity of the present may lead to new inventions which will not only have a great bearing on the war but which will shape all the relations of the nations for the future. The use of the submarine, however, as a freighter is not likely to be more than a demonstration of a possibility.

The arrival in America of a German submarine would not impose any new international obligations on this country as the British blockade has been the only bar to our trading with the central powers, but it would give England another weighty problem to solve. The prediction has a mythical ring, like the announced invasion of England, but those who have seen how Germany has risen to other occasions will not put it aside as utterly impossible.

POLICE PROTECTION

It is to be hoped that Mayor O'Donnell will be able to reconcile the demand for economy with the demand for more adequate police protection of parks and commons during the summer. His letter to Superintendent Welsh puts the matter in a fair and open light and his desire to meet the call for additional police without increasing the police department appropriation is commendable. When, at the beginning of the year, there was a request for extra men it was deemed inexpedient because of the additional cost, but the public places will have to be policed adequately despite any extra cost that it may entail. The same applies to traffic regulation. If we may have more traffic officers and more park policemen without increasing the appropriation, well and good, but in both departments the cost is secondary to the welfare of the public.

Appropos of the policing of parks, the gangs who from time to time infest these places are quick to sense a show of authority and to act accordingly. If, for the first few weeks of the warm season they are permitted to work their will without restriction, they grow bolder and bolder and at times in the past it was utterly impossible for women to frequent the parks in the evening without being insulted in sundry ways. The parks and commons are for all of the people, and all who want to use them should be able to do so without fear of hoodlum molestation. Activity by park police at times in the past it was utterly impossible for women to frequent the parks in the evening without being insulted in sundry ways. Because of the perils of the business and the congested nature of the district those in charge of the Chase paper plant on Howe street should make every reasonable effort to protect their business and the property adjoining. There have been many major and several minor fires in this and in neighboring plants for several years past, due it is said, to the work of children. Those who know the neighborhood know well that the children are there in great number, but it ought to be possible to protect the paper and other waste from them. If it cannot be done, a thoughtless or mischievous child with a match can at any time duplicate the fire of Saturday night. A police campaign through the region and the adoption of precautionary measures by the Chase Co. would enable a great many persons in Belvidere to feel safer from fire perils than they have been.

SEEN AND HEARD

Your opinions always get warped if you are "bughouse" on one idea.

God bless the rainy days! They add to our appreciation of the sunshine.

But it's Pure Food

A lawyer was examining a Georgia farmer.

"You affirm that when this happened you were going home to a meal. Let us be quite certain on this point, because it is a very important one. Do good enough to tell me, sir, with a little prevarication as possible, what meal it was you were going home to."

"You would like to know what meal it was," said the man.

"Yes, sir. I would like to know," replied the counsel, sternly and impressively. "Be sure you tell the truth."

"Well, then, it was just oatmeal."

Yes, For $2000 a Night

A musical director tells a story of the embarrassment caused by a young woman at a reception given Madame Schumann-Heink last year. The young woman was an enthusiastic admirer of the songstress, and she had often expressed to the hostess her intense desire to meet the celebrity. When, however, her turn came to be introduced to the famous woman she was so overcome, especially at the thought of having a reason, but I tell you what I might do—I might ask him to join the choir!"—Chicago Herald.

A Happy Thought

A member of a fashionable church had gone to her pastor with the complaint that she was greatly disturbed by one of her neighbors.

"Do you know," she said, "that the man in the pew behind ours destroys all my devotional feelings when he utters to sink? Shouldn't you ask him to change his pew?"

"Well," answered the pastor, reflectively, "I feel a little delicate on that score, especially as I should have to give a reason, but I tell you what I might do—I might ask him to join the choir!"—Chicago Herald.

A Delayed Execution

An 18th century execution on Kennington common was stopped for a time owing to a strange cause. On Aug. 19, 1763, two days before the date of the execution, a heavy fog came over London, accompanied by thunder and lightning and torrents of rain. These conditions lasted for nearly 48 hours, and many people believed that the last day had arrived. When the time fixed for the execution arrived the assembled crowd cried shame on the sheriff for hanging a man when the world was coming to an end. As he persisted in his preparations, they burst through the barriers and stopped the proceedings, shouting that the culprit might as well wait a few minutes, when the grand summons would come to all. The sheriff had to obtain the assistance of a force of soldiers before the execution could be carried out.

Fantastic Goldfish

Japanese fish breeders took advantage of one of nature's pranks to obtain this much decorated goldfish. A man got a tap found in his aquarium a fish with two tails. He was so well pleased with the novelty that he undertook to make it the basis of a new type. Thus the one accident by nature became the grandfather of a race of two tailed fish. We call them Japanese fantastic.

Not satisfied with the double tail, the breeders next set about molding the bodies of their fish into round balls. Breeders first picked out the fish with the shortest bodies and bred them every year by painstaking selection. Fish with shorter and shorter bodies were produced until today the accepted type of Japanese fantail has a body as round as a ball.

Not all fantails are alike. One with the ends of the tail cut flat is called

WOMEN VOLUNTEERS.

In stress and trouble the women of a nation are always to be counted upon. In this country few of our women escape the weakening troubles peculiar to sex.

Bridgeport, Conn.—"I have brought up a family of seven healthy children and I attribute my good health and theirs to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I am now using this medicine to help me through the period of middle life. We have the utmost faith in Dr. Pierce's remedies and advise their use at all times."

"The 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' is the only medical book I have ever owned and it has been exceedingly helpful in rearing my family."—Mrs. C. W. Mosbison, 72 Milford St., Bridgeport, Conn.

Many women, both young and old, have experienced much suffering and have been benefited by the hundreds.

Middle-aged women about to experience that dreaded change of life, should profit by the experience of thousands of noble women who have gone through the same period with little or no pain, misery or discomfort.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is and has been for nearly 50 years just the medicine. Its ingredients printed on wrapper; a temperance medicine, and can be had in tablet or liquid form.

Not only does it build up the entire system and make it strong and vigorous enough to withstand the organic disturbances, but it has a quieting effect upon the feminine organism.

Every woman should be careful that the liver is active and the poisons are not allowed to clog the system—get rid of these poisons by taking a vegetable laxative occasionally—such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They do not gripe and will not harm the most delicate system.

Questions of Sex—Are fully and properly answered in The Medical Adviser. 1005 pages with color plates, and bound in cloth. By mail, prepaid, one receipt of 3 dimes. Address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

the square tall. Another with a slight inward curve to the edges of the tail is called 'tail tail'. A third, with a deep cut out tail, is named the ribbon tail.

All these varieties have long tails and fins. You will recognize them instantly when you see them in an aquarium floating about like bits of lace in the water.—Philadelphia North American.

He's A Wise Judge

Judge E. Leroy Sweetser of the Malden district court is one of those individuals who shows more than an ordinary regard for the opinion of newspapermen and the reporters who in the course of their work are brought into contact with any event with which Judge Sweetser is concerned and they are invariably numbered among his conferees. Last week while the inquest into the mysterious death of little Lorena Winifred Wakelin, the Melrose school girl, whose mutilated body was found under peculiar circumstances off a lonely road in Wakefield, was in progress Judge Sweetser who was presiding sent for the newspapermen who were working on the case and discussed the affair in conference with them. It will be recalled that when Judge Sweetser, as colonel of the Eighth Infantry, M.V.M., was placed in command of the militia troops during the strike in Lawrence and practically in control of the police of the city, he had daily conferences with the newspapermen. The idea worked to the advantage of both. Col. Sweetser, as he was then recognized, and to the news gatherers.—Lawrence Telegram.

Come, Choose Your Road And Away
Over the sweet-smelling mountain-passes
The clouds lie brightly curled;
The wild-flowers cling to the crags
And swing
With catkins dew-drops imperious;
And the way, the way that you choose
This day
Is the way to the end of the world.

It rolls from the golden long ago
To the land that we never shall find;
And it's uphill here, but it's downhill
There.

For the road is wise and kind,
And all rough places and cheerless
Will soon be left behind.
Come, choose your road and away,
Away!

Follow the gypsy sun;
For it's soon, too soon to the end of the day.
And the day is well begun;
And the road rolls on through the heart of May.
And there's never a May but one.

There's a fir-wood here, and a dog-rose there,
And a note of the mating dove;
And a glimpse, maybe, of the warm blue sea,
And the warm white clouds above;

Come out—a bundle and stick is all
You'll need to carry along;
If your heart can carry a kindly word,
And your lips can carry a song.

—Alfred Noyes.

YOU CAN HAVE PINK CHEEKS

What causes the color to fade from pink cheeks and red lips? In a word it is thin blood.

When the fading color in cheeks and lips is accompanied by a loss of brightness in the eyes and an increasing heaviness in the step, the cause is to be sought in the state of the blood.

A hundred causes may contribute to the condition of thin blood that is known as anemia. Overwork, lack of out-door exercise, insufficient rest and sleep, improper diet, these are a few of them. The important thing is to restore the blood to normal, to build it up so that the color will return to cheeks and lips.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the great blood builder and invigorator. They begin at once to increase the red corpuscles in the blood and the new blood carries strength and health to every part of the body. Appetite increases, digestion becomes more perfect, energy and ambition return.

A booklet, "Building Up the Blood," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. if you mention this paper. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes, $2.50.

Before the beginning of the trial, on June 28, Atty Doyle is going to Ireland to study the case from the start.

TRIBUTE TO KITCHENER

ENGLAND HOLDS GREATEST CEREMONIAL OF MOURNING SINCE DEATH OF KING EDWARD

LONDON, June 14.—The memorial service to Field Marshal Earl Kitchener held in St. Paul's Cathedral at noon yesterday was the greatest ceremonial of national mourning since that for the late King Edward VII. It was attended by 300 persons, besides members of the royal family, the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and nearly all the high officers of the army and navy not in the field or with the fleet, together with many members of parliament and conspicuous figures from all branches of the nation's life.

King George, Queen Mary and Queen Mother Alexandra entered the cathedral at the western door and were conducted down the center aisle to seats by the dean and chapter of St. Paul's. The dean conducted the service. The archbishop of Canterbury and the Bishop of London were among the clergy.

Program of Service
The hymn, "Abide With Me," was the first number. From the Psalms, "Out of the Deep, I have Called Unto Thee, O Lord," and "The Lord Is My Shepherd" were chanted. The lesson was from First Epistle to the Corinthians. Then the "Dead March" was rendered with moving effect by the great band of the Royal Engineers, authorized by drummers of the Irish Guards. The choir sang a portion of the Liturgy of St. Chrysostom, "Give Rest, O Christ, to Thy Servants With Thy Saints."

After prayers from the burial services and the benediction, a bugle from a far recess of the cathedral sounded the notes of the "Last Post." Finally the choir, accompanied by the band, sang "God Save the King," the thousand of voices, with the roll of drums and accompanying brass giving the last verse with tremendous, sonorous volume.

America's Representation

and Mrs. Page, Irwin B. Laughlin, secretary of the embassy, and Mrs. Laughlin; Commander Power Symington, naval attaché, and Capt. Alexander M. Miller, military attaché. J. Arthur Barratt representing the Pilgrims.

Premier Asquith, Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty; Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary; Earl Curzon of Kedleston, lord privy seal; Lewis Harcourt, first commissioner of works; Viscount Haldane, Col. Winston Spencer Churchill, Lord Chief Justice Reading, Field Marshal Sir John French, Gen. Sir William Robertson, chief of the imperial staff, the Duke of Devonshire and the Earl of Rosebery were conspicuous in front pews.

Royalty in the Pews
Besides the king and queen, the royal personages present, including Princess Henry of Battenberg, Princess Louise, Victoria and Maud and the princess royal, the Duchess of Argyll, Prince Arthur of Connaught in khaki, and Grand Duke Michael of Russia, in the uniform of the Russian army.

Flags throughout London were flown at half-staff. The Stock Exchange suspended operations for a hour during the services, many business places also closing their doors for that period.

DOWEY BIBLE CAMPAIGN
At a meeting last evening of the committee in charge of the Dowe Bible campaign in Lowell preliminary plans for a big congress of men's classes of the churches of Lowell are being discussed and it is probable that the congress will be held in October. # WISEST LEADER SINCE CIVIL WAR

Wilson Thus Hailed by Martin H. Glynn —Americanism and Peace, Preparedness and Prosperity are Issues on Which Democratic Party Stands

St. Louis, June 14.—With the assertion that no president since the civil war has had as crucial problems to solve, and no president has displayed a grasp more sure, a statesmanship more profound, as President Wilson, Hon. Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York, opened the Democratic national convention here today. Declaring that "Americanism and peace, preparedness and prosperity, are the issues upon which the Democratic party stands, and the heart of Democracy swells with pride that is more than a pride of party as it hails the man who has asserted this Americanism, assured this peace, advocated this preparedness and produced this prosperity," he predicted the re-election of President Wilson.

Taking up our foreign relations that have been called into emphatic prominence by the world wide war, the speaker declared that "We have entered this hall as Democrats; we shall deliberate as Americans." . . . The policy of neutrality, he argued, is as truly American as the American flag. For 200 years neutrality was a theory; America made it a fact. "It took Washington and his successors eighty years of endless negotiation to win recognition of American neutrality. And this eighty years of struggle wove the doctrine of neutrality so closely into the warp and woof of our national life that to tear it out now would unravel the very threads of our existence." By the records of history Mr. Glynn maintained that if Washington and Lincoln were right President Wilson is right. The neutrality that President Wilson stands for today was advocated by Washington, by Hamilton, by Jefferson and by Lincoln.

Followed Examples of Greatest Presidents.

By citing precedents Mr. Glynn justified and defended the course of the president in the Lusitania and similar incidents. "In the face of this record," he asked, "do Republicans realize that when they arraign the policy of the president of the United States today they arraign the policy of Harrison, of Blaine, of Lincoln and of Grant? For the pleasure of criticising a Democratic president, are they willing to read out of the Republican party the greatest men the Republican party ever had? Are they willing to say that the Republican party of today condemns what Hamilton did in revolutionary days, what Lincoln did in civil war days, and what Grant and Blaine and Harrison did but yesterday?"

"In his policy of peaceful negotiations today the president of the United States follows the example set him by the greatest presidents which the Democratic party and the greatest presidents the Republican party ever gave this nation."

Mr. Glynn impressed on his hearers that it was the business of this convention, "representing every section of the United States, speaking for every racial strain in America, to send forth a message to all the world that will leave no room for doubt."

"We must enable every real American to stand up and assert his Americanism. We must make the issue so clear that every ballot box in the land may become a monument to the loyalty of American manhood."

"The citizens of this country must stand behind their president because his policies are right. They will stand behind him because his policies are the policies which have brought the nation a century of prosperous and honored peace. They will stand behind him because they want these policies continued, that prosperity prolonged, that peace assured."

Party Pledges Redeemed.

He pointed out that the promise made four years ago that a Democratic administration would liberate the nation from the chains of industrial tyranny has been carried out. He eulogized the federal reserve act and declared that the "scholar-statesman, whose red has struck the golden rock of America's resources to set free the wealth imprisoned for half a century, is a Moses who has led America's industries from the wilderness of doubt and despair to the promised land of prosperity and hope."

The laws restraining big business from stifling competition, the trades commission act, the movement to foster expansion of American trade, the close union of economic, commercial and financial interests between the United States and the nations of South America are shown to be legislation of the widest benefit. The Underwood tariff Mr. Glynn characterized as the fairest and the best of all we have enacted. Under the present administration the United States has enjoyed a wonderful era of good business and good times.

American Ideals Fostered.
The American's ideals and his aspirations served as the basis for the speaker's opening discussion.
"We who stand today on the fertile soil of America, who live under the smiling skies of a free and fruitful land, must prove worthy of the trust that American sacrifice has imposed on every American."

"Disregarding the divisions that make one man a Tory and another a Whig, one man a Republican and another a Democrat, Americans will cast aside the tinsel of party labels and the mummery of party emblems.
"From the great pulsing heart of the nation will come a patriot command to crush partisanship and rebuke whatever is mean or blind."

"The command will be heard by the plowman in his field and by the laborer at his bench. It will reach the merchant in his office and the lawyer at his desk. We would be false to ourselves and recant to those who send us here if we permitted any thought of partisan profit, any consideration of political advantage to obscure our vision of the tremendous issues now before the people of the United States. We must cast aside all that is selfish; we must hold ourselves worthy of a nation's confidence by offering only the best of our intelligence, the flower of our patriotism toward the solution of what all men perceive to be a crisis in the nation's affairs."

The Paramount Issue.

In asking for an endorsement of the president's peace policy Mr. Glynn said:

"For two years the world has been afloat. The civilization that we know has been torn by the mightiest struggle in its history. Sparks from Europe's conflagration have blazed in our own skies, echoes of her strife have sounded at our very doors. That fire still burns, that struggle still continues, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay, thus far it has saved its people from participation in the conflict.

"This is the paramount issue. No lesser issue must cloud it, no unrelated problems must confuse it."

In declaring that the policy of neutrality is as American as the American flag Mr. Glynn asserted that:

"The first president of the United States was the first man to pronounce neutrality a rule of international conduct."

"In April, 1793, Washington declared the doctrine, and within a month John Jay, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, in an epoch making decision from the bench whose realization would insure universal and perpetual peace, wrote the principle into the law of this land. The Declaration of Independence had foretold it by declaring 'the rest of mankind' enemies in war, in peace friends.' The constitution recognized it, but the first president of the United States by proclamation, the first chief justice by interpretation, gave it vitality and power."

Stands With Washington.

"The president of the United States stands today where stood the men who made America and who saved America. He stands where John Adams stood when he told King George that America was the land he loved and that peace was her grandeur and her welfare. He stands where General Grant stood when he said there never was a war that could not have been settled better some other way, and he has shown his willingness to try the way of peace before he seeks the paths of war. He stands where George Washington stood when he prayed that this country would never unseal the sword except in self defense so long as justice and our essential rights could be preserved without it."

"For valour or for selfish purpose, others may cry up a policy of blood and iron, but the president of the United States has acted on the belief that the leader of a nation who plunges his people into an unnecessary war, like Pontius Pilate vainly washes his hands of innocent blood while the earth quakes and the heavens are darkened and thousands give up the ghost."

Republican Party False to Its Traditions.

"By opposing what we stand for today the Republican party opposes what Hamilton stood for a century ago. The founder of the Republican party and the founder of the Democratic party, placing their country's happiness above every other consideration, forgot partisanship and made American neutrality a national creed. We who follow Jefferson stand where Jefferson stood, but we look in vain for a sign from the present leaders of the Republican party to show that they follow where Hamilton led. Where Hamilton counseled moderation they denounce it. Where Hamilton thought only of country they think only of self. Where Hamilton placed patriotism above partisanship they place partisanship above patriotism. How then do they dare to speak for the great body of American citizens who form the rank and file of the Republican party? Do these leaders believe that their Republicanism is a better Republicanism than Hamilton's, their Americanism a purer Americanism than that of Washington?"

The justification of our policy of neutrality is expressed by Mr. Glynn in these words:

"Before this declaration every war was a world war; since this declaration nearly every war has been a local war. Before this declaration war was a whirlpool, ever increasing in area and in its whirl dragging down the nations of the earth; since this declaration war has become a sea of trouble upon which nations embark only from self will, from self interest or the necessity of geographical position, of financial obligation or political alliance."

Neutrality Kept Us at Peace.

"Neutrality is the policy which has kept us at peace while Europe has been driving the nails of war through the hands and feet of a crucified humanity."

"The praises of this policy are not written in the ruins of American homes, not on the wreck of American industries, not in the mourning of American families; they are found in the myriad evidences of prosperity and plenty that make this a contented land. From every whirling spindle in America, from every factory wheel that turns, from every growing thing that breathes its prayer of plenty to the skies, from every quiet school, from every crowded mart, from every peaceful home goes up a song of praise, a psalm of thanksgiving to hymn a nation's tribute to the statesmanship that has brought these things to pass."

The issue raised by Democracy's opponents of the vigor with which our neutrality has been enforced is dealt with by the records of history:
"When Grant was president, during the war between Spain and the Spanish West Indies, a Spanish gunboat seized the vessel Virginius flying the American flag and a Spanish commandant in cold blood shot the captain of the Virginius, thirty-six of the crew and sixteen of the passengers."
"But we didn't go to war. Grant settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Harrison was president the people of Chile conceived a violent dislike to the United States for our insistence upon neutrality during the Chilean revolution. When this feeling was at its height one junior officer from the United States warship Baltimore was killed outright in the streets of Valparaiso and sixteen of our sailors wounded, of whom one afterward died."

Negotiation Better Than War.

"But we didn't go to war. Harrison settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today.
"When Lincoln was president this country's rights were violated on every side. England, Russia, France and Spain were guilty of such flagrant violations that Secretary of State Seward advanced a plan to go to war with all of them at one and the same time."
"But we didn't go to war. Lincoln

settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president is trying to do today."

"When Pierce was president the British minister in this country and three of his counsel violated our neutrality during the Crimean war. We gave these representatives of Great Britain their passports and sent them home."

"But we didn't go to war. Pierce settled our troubles by negotiation just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Van Buren was president a detachment of Canadian militia, during the internal troubles in Canada, boarded the United States ship Carolina in the American waters of Niagara river, killed an American member of the crew, fired the ship and sent her adrift over Niagara falls."

"But we didn't go to war. Van Buren settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Jefferson was president England seized hundreds of our ships and Napoleon hundreds more."

"When Adams was president France preyed upon our commerce. She extended her seizure, searches and confiscations to the very waters of the United States themselves until she had piled up in our state department charges of over 2,200 violations of neutrality's law."

"But we didn't go to war. Adams settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

"When Washington was president and 'neutrality' first declared, war convulsed Europe our ships dared not to put to sea, commerce was paralyzed and business depressed. American passengers and American crews were thrown into prison and deprived of legal rights."

"But we didn't go to war. Washington settled our troubles by negotiation, just as the president of the United States is trying to do today."

Advocates of War Confounded.

In concluding this issue Mr. Glynn asks:

"Do the critics of the present administration believe that Lincoln should have risked national disaster by using the sword rather than the pen in pressing the Alabama claims? Are they willing to brand Grant as a coward because he kept us at peace with Spain?"

In answer to those who say that President Wilson's policy does not satisfy any one Mr. Glynn replies: "He means that it does not satisfy those who would map out a new and untrodden course for this nation to pursue, but they forget it does satisfy those who believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for a century and more."

"Chief Justice White of the United States supreme court says this policy has given America the greatest diplomatic victory of the past generation. Maximilian Harden, Germany's noted editor, says 'that never once has this republic violated its neutrality,' and Gilbert K. Chesterton, the famous English journalist, says 'it is the duty of the president of the United States to protect the interests of the people of the United States; that he can't dip his country into hell just to show the world he has a keen sense of being an individual savior.'"

"This policy," Mr. Glynn continued, "may not satisfy those who revel in destruction and find pleasure in despair. It may not satisfy the fire eater or the swashbuckler. But it does satisfy those who worship at the altar of the god of peace. It does satisfy the mothers of the land at whose hearth and bedside no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair. It does satisfy the daughters of this land from whom bluster and brag have sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave. It does satisfy the fathers of this land and the sons of this land who will fight for our flag and die for our flag when reason primes the rifle, when honor draws the sword, when justice breathes a blessing on the standards they uphold."

"Fighting for every degree of injury," he maintained, "would mean perpetual war, and this is the policy of our opponents, deny it how they will. It would give us a war abroad each time the fighting cock of the European weather vane shifted with the breeze. It would make America the cockpit of the world. We would be so busy settling other people's quarrels that we would have no time to attend to our own business."

Preparedness For Defense.

"We have built our greatness on the resources of nature and the peaceful toil of our people. The ring of the anvil, not the rattle of the saber; the song of the reaper, not the shriek of the soldier; the clatter of the shuttle, not the crack of the rifle, have won us the place we occupy in the councils of the world."

"Like the old Mohawk chief who loved peace, we would like to throw the tomahawk of war so high in the sky that no man's hand could ever pull it down. But when some other tribe among the races of men sends us a bundle of arrows wrapped in the skin of a rattlesnake we want, like old Governor Bradford of Massachusetts, to be in a position to send that rattlesnake skin back stuffed with powder and with ball."

"We have been carried too close to the rocks of war during the past two years to believe that those rocks do not exist. And looking into the future we can perceive that if our sovereignty is not challenged, if our peace is not assailed, it will only be because the world knows that we are strong enough to defend ourselves from every foe."

"For these reasons this administration has done more for our army and our navy than any administration in our history."

"More than this, it has mobilized

"And to our opponents we say you can't create an army, can't create a navy, in the course of a day. To them we say if our navy is not strong enough, our army not big enough, the Republican party is 80 per cent to blame, for the Republican party has been in control of this nation 80 per cent of the time during the past fifty years."

"The Democratic party advocates and seeks preparedness, but it is preparedness for defense, not preparedness for aggression."

"It is the preparedness which builds the nation's house upon a rock, so it will not fall when the rains descend and the floods come and the winds blow."

"A regard for national surety as well as a pride of personal honor will therefore bring the American people to the support of their president. Whether their blood is drawn from the banks of the Rhine, or where the river Shannon flows, whether they hail from Alpine valleys or the meadows of the Pyrenees, whether their descent be German or French, Irish or English, Austrian or Italian, Russian or Greek, the men who have sworn an oath of fealty to the ideals of America will be true."

"They may love the lands of their fathers much, but they love the land of their children more. They may cherish the memory of the sod from whence they spring, but they stand ready to die for the soil that they have inherited with their homes."

Democracy Has Kept the Faith.

In his review of our domestic policy the temporary chairman pointed that the promise made by democracy four years ago had been faithfully kept.

"Today the prosperity which the nation enjoys bears witness that democracy has kept the faith. Today the gates of opportunity are open; the hosts of special privilege stand disarmed. Today the forces of government are encouraging, not blocking the full expression of the nation's progress. Today the business man, the artisan and farmer find themselves free to enjoy the fruits of their labors, unhampered by the sinister power of special privilege or the selfish oppression of 'invisible government.'"

Of the federal reserve act Mr. Glynn had this to say:

"In the panic of 1907, under the old system, New York could not lend a country bank $50,000 with which to meet factory payrolls; in 1915, under the new system inaugurated by this Democratic administration, New York loaned Europe $500,000,000 even though the financial centers of the world were disrupted by the world war, and there were still left in New York the largest bank deposits in its history."

"If this Democratic administration had performed no other public service than the enactment of the federal reserve act it would deserve the unstinted approval of a grateful nation. Thanks to the Democracy and to Democracy's great leader, the business man who is struggling to establish himself may now work out his destiny without living in terror of panics and hard times. The toiler in the factory may ply his tasks in security, knowing that his employer's business is safe from assault. The farmer who must borrow to move his crops may do so without spending his days in anxiety, his nights in nightmares of foreclosure and disaster."

"The Underwood tariff," declared the speaker, "enacted by this administration, has banked greed from the gates of our ports and written justice into our tariff schedules."

"Of all the tariffs we ever enacted this is the fairest and the best."

"Until the foreign war reduced importations no new tariff was ever more satisfactory. The highest protective tariff ever written would probably have given us no more revenue during this European war, and a higher tariff on raw material would have hampered our manufactures. A higher tariff on the necessities of life would have placed a woeful burden on the poor man in the conditions which the war abroad has brought about."

Plenty Fills the Land.

In the discussion of prosperity Mr. Glynn made particular reference to our industrial condition.
"Today prosperity shines from blazing furnaces and glowing forges. It echoes from busy docks and from thronged emporiums of trade. Its message of plenty fills the land with the chant of the spindle and of loom, lifting the mortgage from the poor man's home and promising his children a future that seemed impossible before."

"During the past four years this country has experienced a steady and continuous improvement in business. Wealth has increased 21 per cent, the value of manufactured products 39 per cent, capital 43 per cent, wages 64 per cent and exports 77 per cent. The floodtide of our prosperity has risen to such an unprecedented height that the only limit to trade is our ability to make and transport the commodities demanded at home and abroad. Our fields and our factories cry aloud for men and unemployment has ceased to be a problem. Wages have advanced, building operations have resumed, real estate has recovered its worth."

Great Increase of Wealth.

"The purchasing power of our people is greater than that of any other people on the globe. Never was there as much money in our vaults as today. The aggregate resources of our national banks are $200,000,000 more than the aggregate resources of the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of Russia, the Reichsbank of Germany, the Bank of the Netherlands, the Swiss National bank and the Bank of Japan. We have $401,000,000 more than we had a year and a half ago, and our gold supply exceeds by many hundreds of millions the gold supply of any other nation on earth."

"This avalanche of money poured into our pockets by the rest of the world as a tribute to our national resources and our fidelity to peaceful industry is not the measure of our prosperity. It is only the symbol. Compared with our trade at home this foreign trade is a mere pittance. Our domestic commerce today is larger than the foreign commerce of all the nations of the world combined."

"Against this actual condition our opponents raise an argument of 'ifs.' With greater truth we can also enter the realm of conjecture and declare that if another candidate had been elected four years ago the United States would be at war today. A ton of 'ifs' do not weigh as much as a single fact. Our opponents forget that if the flight of the seagulls off the coast of the West Indies had not directed his course Columbus would not have discovered America when he did. But the seagulls were there—'ifs' cannot banish them—and Columbus found our land."

Chairman Glynn concluded with praise for President Wilson, who, he said, has measured up to the best traditions of a great chief.
The Man Who Has Made Democracy Proud.
"He has been wise with a wisdom that is steeped in the traditions of his country, with a wisdom that has been disciplined by training and broadened by instruction."

"He has been firm with the firmness that proceeds from deep conviction, with the firmness that is grounded in a duty well defined."

"He has been patient with the patience which believes and trusts that truth crushed to earth will rise again, with the patience that can endure and wait, watch and pray, for the certain vindication of justice, humanity and right."

"He has been patriotic with a patriotism that has never wavered, a patriotism that is as pure and strong as the faith that moved the fathers when they made our country free."

"And when the history of these days comes to be written and the children of tomorrow read their nation's story, when time shall have dispelled all misconception and the years shall have rendered their impartial verdict one name will shine in golden splendor upon the page that is blackened with the tale of Europe's war, one name will represent the triumph of American principles over the hosts of darkness and of death."

"That name will be the name of the great president who has made Democracy proud that he is a Democrat and made Americans proud that he is an American."

"It will be the name of the statesman who has kept his country true to its faith in a time that tried men's souls; the name of the student and the scholar who has championed the cause of American freedom wherever he found it oppressed; the name of the patriot who has implanted his country's flag on the highest peak to which humanity has yet aspired; the name that carried the torch of progress to victory once and will carry it to victory again—the name of Woodrow Wilson, president and president to be."

FAMILY DENTIST HERE--TO STAY

Care of Teeth Important for Family Health—Teeth
Should Be Examined
Twice a Year—Service Free.

"The family dentist is just as important today as the family doctor," said Dr. King, New England's foremost dentist. "Medical men have learned to recognize that many ailments arise from neglected teeth. Pains in many parts of the body may be due to a small abscess in a decayed tooth and the up-to-date physician who cannot find the cause refers the patient to the family dentist."

I am aware that many families in this city do not have a family dentist that they can depend on to do the dental work for them at a reasonable price. I want to place my services to these people who consider dental work a luxury. Any little work that is required will be accomplished free from pain and at a very small profit for each member of the family.

I feel that it is much better for me to do the work for four or five people at a little above cost than to make a large profit from one member. Every patient is so perfectly satisfied with my work that they recommend me to their friends and in consequence they are continually advertising my high class dentistry and low prices.

I wish the mothers and the fathers to call on me. Let me examine their teeth and I will tell them just how much the work will cost. When they find that all treatment is painless and so reasonable they can afford to have the teeth of the entire family treated at about the same cost. It would require for one at the average dentist.

My work is absolutely guaranteed. Quality the highest. Bring the family for free examination. Teeth cleaned 50 cents.

WON EXCITING GAME

Lowell Trimmed Springfield Sluggers in Close Contest—Matty Zieser Outpitched Bill Powers

By a flashy finish in the ninth inning after playing loose ball and allowing Springfield to tie the score in the first half, Lowell won a close game from the Ponies yesterday afternoon. The score was 3 to 2. Matty Zieser opposed Bill Powers and the Lowell twirler secured revenge for the defeat he decided in a duel with the Iron Man last month. Zieser was in fine form and the visitors could not fathom his delivery until the ninth inning when they pushed over two runs aided by a brace of costly errors. Powers was also effective after the first chapter. In the ninth he was replaced by Justin after a pinch hitter had batted for him and the poor support given just enabled Lowell to score the winning run.

The Springfield players hit the ball hard but fielding features by Barrows and Kilhullen prevented them from adding to their batting averages. Two of the four hits obtained from Zieser were scratches, Parks and Low being the only men to drive the ball for clean hits. Barrows in centre field had seven put outs, three of which were spectacular catches. "Cuke" also was conspicuous with the willow, driving in Lowell's first two runs with a double to the right field fence. Torphy smashed out three singles, the last of which scored the winning run of the game.

First Inning
Lowell scored two runs in the first inning, while excellent work on the part of Kilhullen prevented the visitors from sending a man across the plate. Lowell's two runs were scored by Lord and Briggs, who traveled home on Barrows' double to the right field fence. "Hickey, the first man to face Zieser, flied to Briggs. Booe sent a fly which Stimpson should have gathered in but the latter dropped it. Parks was hit by a pitched ball and walked to first, Booe going to second. Hammond fouled in back at the plate but Kilhullen was on the job and grabbed the pop. Kilhullen then made a spectacular catch of a "foul fly off Flynn's bat, the local catcher securing the ball up against the fence near the Lowell players' bench.

No runs, no hits, one error.
Kane went out on an easy grounder to Powers and Lord reached first on four balls. Hammond slipped up on a chance to make a double play when he fumbled Briggs' grounder and both runners were safe. Lord and Briggs scored on Barrows' double to the right field fence. Downey then fanned the breeze. Stimpson singled over second base and Barrows started for home but the latter was caught at the plate.

Two runs, two hits, one error.
Score—Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Second Inning
Neither side scored in the second session, the visitors going out in one, two, three order while the home team got a man as far as second but he did not there.

Lowell was first out on a foul fly to Kilhullen and Stimpson gathered in Riconda's hard drive to deep left. Stephens flied to Barrows.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Kilhullen was called out on strikes without moving his bat from his shoulder. Torphy singled to short left field and went to second on Zieser's infield out. Hammond to Flynn. Kane was third out on a grounder to Low.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Score—Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Third Inning
Two more goose eggs were registered in the third inning.
Powers flied to Kilhullen. Lord took Hickey's grounder and threw the runner out at first. Booe was third out on a fly to Barrows in centre.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Lord and Briggs went out on flies to Hickey. Barrows singled between first and second and Downey followed with a grounder to Powers and was out at first.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Fourth Inning
Zieser got a little wild in this inning but he settled down before any material damage was done.
Parks sent a grounder to Kane and was out at first. Zieser covering the bag. Hammond drew a free pass. Flynn also drew a base on balls. Zieser then calmed down and fanned Low and Riconda.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Stimpson sent a grounder to Hammond and was out at first on a close decision. Kilhullen struck out, Torphy singled over third base, but a moment later was thrown out while attempting to steal second.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Score—Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Fifth Inning
Stephens was out at first on a grounder to Torphy. Powers sent an easy one to Zieser and was second out at first. Torphy made a nice stop and throw of Hickey's hard grounder over second base.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Zieser flied to Hammond and Kane struck out. Lord sent a grounder along the first base line and was out, Powers to Flynn.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Score—Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Sixth Inning
Booe opened the sixth with a punt along the first base line, the runner being safe. This was the first hit made by the visitors during the game. Barrows made a pretty catch of Parks' drive to the right field fence which looked like a sure three-bagger. Booe was forced at second on Hammond's grounder to Zieser. Flynn was third out on a fly to Stimpson in deep left.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Briggs flied to Hammond and Barrows bunted to Powers and was retired at first. Downey was out at first on a grounder to Hammond.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Score—Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Seventh Inning
Low drew a base on balls, but he died on first for the next three players were caught out by Barrows. Riconda drove a hard one to centre which Cuke took care of and a little later Barrows ran almost into second base to get a fly off Stephens' bat. Powers flied to Barrows.
No runs, no hits, no errors.
Stimpson lined the ball to Powers and was out at first. Kilhullen grounded to Low and was also out at first. Torphy grounded to Hammond and failed to reach first.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 2, Springfield 0.

Eighth Inning
Stimpson captured Hickey's fly to deep left field. Booe grounded to Kane who made the put-out unassisted. Parks singled over Downey's head. Hammond closed the inning with a hard grounder to Kane.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Zieser walked. He was forced at second on Kane's attempt to sacrifice. Kane went to second on Lord's infield out, Hammond to Flynn. Briggs was hit by a pitched ball. Barrows hit up a high fly which Low gathered in.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Ninth Inning
Flynn flied to Barrows. Low smashed a single to left. Riconda singled to right field. Low scored when Briggs let the ball go through him. Stephens flied to Torphy. Egan went in to bat for Powers. He sent a grounder to Torphy who fumbled and Riconda scored. Hickey walked, sending Egan to second. Booe struck out.

Two runs, two hits, two errors.
Justin went in to pitch for Springfield in the latter half of the ninth. Downey reached first when Flynn dropped Justin's throw of his grounder. Stimpson scratched a hit along the first base line. Downey going to third. Kilhullen died at first, Justin to Flynn. Stimpson going to second.
Torphy singled to right and Downey scored.

BEST HURLERS DO NOT TRY FOR STRIKEOUTS BUT SAVE ENERGY FOR PINCHES

When "Iron Man Joe" McGinnity was doing duty for the New York Giants he introduced a novel system of keeping tabs on the National league batters. He combined a system of bookkeeping with his pitching, and the combination proved a successful one. In his locker in the clubhouse he kept a ledger, and therein he recorded the weakness of every batter in the league. They were listed under the names of the clubs of which they were members, and McGinnity was wont to spend a deal of his spare time studying this book.

The result was that he knew off-hand what practically all of the players he was called upon to pitch to could and could not hit—whether they were weak on curve balls, favored fast ones, liked them high or low, on the inside or out. And to that book Joe attributed much of his success.

"It saves me a deal of trouble and unnecessary work, not to mention long chances," remarked Joe one afternoon when he was persuaded to talk about the book. "I don't have to try 'em out like I'd have to if I didn't have the book. When you're trying a batter out to find out his weakness you have to put a lot of stuff on the ball and tax your arm. The book saves me a lot of trouble. It's all there in black and white, gathered from personal observation and experience for the most part. I don't trust to memory. Any one is likely to forget, and a lapse of memory with three on in a tight game many times leads to a costly mistake, and instead of feeling the batter what he don't want a pitcher is apt to put it right in his groove and—bloody, there goes the old ball game!

"Another thing," continued Joe, "the pitcher who pitches to strike out every batter that steps to the plate is taking the shortest cut back to the minors. Every pitcher has eight men on his ball club to help him out. The secret of successful pitching is to keep the batters from hitting 'em hard. Then, when you crash into a pinch, you've got a lot of energy left and you can work for a strikeout. In this way you save your arm."

Incidentally Christy Mathewson has been doing that very thing for years. He may or may not be through now. Not a "foul" but hopes he will come back. But it is to be imagined that if "Matty" had gone into each game trying to strike out every batter that faced him he would have been able to hover under the big tent as long as he has?

"You can't pitch your arm off every time you start and expect to stick around very long," said Matty. It is only when runners are on the bases that "Big Six" taxes his arm to the limit. It was only on rare occasions that "Cy" Young pitched his hardest from the first through to the last inning. Eddie Plank, now 40 years old, long ago learned the secret. Mordred Brown was another who followed the "system." "Chief" Bender is still another example.

Just as McGinnity said, the pitcher who tries to strike out all of them is taking the shortest cut from the majors back to the minors. No arm can stand the strain.

McINNIS MAY BE SOLD

RUMOR SAYS STUFFY MAY GO TO RED SOX—WOULD BE POPULAR IN HUB

NEW YORK, June 14.—Tis bruited among American league players that within the next week Jack McInnis will be sold by Connie Mack to the Red Sox. While here with the Athletics last week Connie declared that never again would he sell a star, but it may be that on McInnis' showing this season he is no longer rated a luminary by the maker of ball clubs.

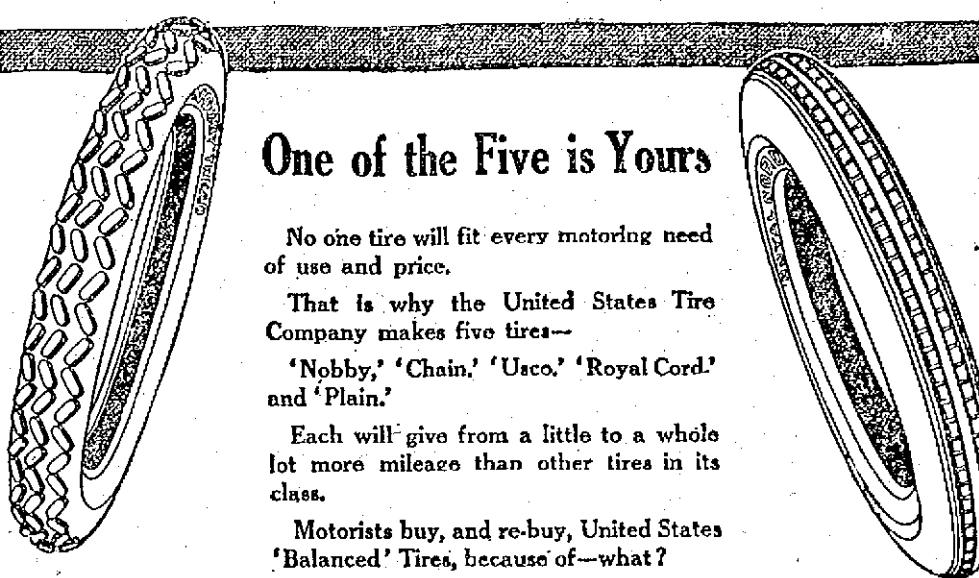

Stranger happenings than the likes of McInnis' going to Boston have been recorded this year, so it is more than possible that Jack will be sold to Joe Lannin. McInnis does not fit into the present Athletic machine. With Barry, Collins and Baker gone Jack feels out of gear and it is known that he would welcome a shift to the Red Sox, to play near his old pal, Jack Barry.

Another consideration is the fact that McInnis has his home in Gloucester, near Boston. Jack would be a prime favorite with Boston fans—and box office receipts indicate that Lannin had better get divers Primo Favorites in a hurry.

Another factor that may prompt Mack to sell McInnis is Jack's annual stipend of $8500. Nap Lajoie is getting too slow for second base chances, and with McInnis out, would be shifted to first. Mack has a new candidate for the keystone sack in the person of Lawry, the University of Maine star, who is to report within the next week. Bobby Watt, the Columbia captain, is a possible anchor to the windward.

What would Boston do with McInnis, with Hoblitzell hitting 305 and McInnis below the 200 mark? The assumption is that Hobby cannot keep up that pace, while McInnis, with a change of scene, will once more become the wondrous Jack of yore.

TERRIFIC STORM

Cloudburst Hits Arlington—Lightning Strikes Reading Woman

BOSTON, June 14.—Towns north of Boston were hit by a severe electrical storm yesterday, but Boston itself escaped. Arlington suffered considerably from a cloudburst, and in Reading a bolt of lightning just missed a baby when it struck and paralyzed temporarily the arm of the child's mother.

Much damage to highways and gardens was caused in the sections hit by the cloudburst, which was confined to Arlington and the lower end of East Arlington. At the same time only a light shower fell at Lexington Center.

The storm was the worst ever experienced in Arlington and Arlington Heights. Rain fell in torrents for about an hour. Tracks of the street car lines were flooded and cars were halted where they stood by the deluge.

On Massachusetts avenue, opposite Sylvia street, East Lexington, water came in over the car floor and passengers were forced to sit on the backs of the seats. Rain fell in such blinding sheets that railroad engineers had to slow down their trains to see signals.

At the Arlington Heights station the inbound roads were covered with water, and roads along the sidehills were washed out by streams four or five feet wide that developed from the storm.

The Spy Pond athletic field was flooded and the fair which was being held there for the Symmes hospital had to be called off, except for a balloon ascension.

The manifestation of the storm in Reading was marked particularly by the strange doings of a bolt of lightning that shot down the chimney of the home of Frank Saulnier on Green street, striking and paralyzing the arm of Mrs. Saulnier and nearly hitting a baby and a little girl. Mrs. Saulnier will recover the use of her arm.

She had just put the baby in a cradle when the lightning struck. A framed photograph of Saulnier was torn from the wall by the bolt and dropped on the floor, the glass being unbroken. Soot was poured from the chimney over the floor and the furniture was disarranged.

The bolt smashed its way out of a window where Marie, Mrs. Saulnier's 4-year-old daughter, had been standing a moment before. The little girl had just gone to another window to get a better view of the storm.

FIGHT WITH BIG SHARK

FOOT DANKS SOLDIER LANDS 7-FOOT ONE ON LINE AFTER FIERCE STRUGGLE

BOSTON, June 14.—A life and death struggle between a seven-foot shark and Private Frederick E. Palmer thrilled soldiers at Fort Banks, for an hour early last evening. When the fight had ended the shark was hauled onto the wharf at the fort landing and was hacked to death by the plucky coast artilleryman, whose native home is Michigan, where sharks are unknown.

Palmer is a member of the Ninth company, C.A.C., and recently enlisted from the middle west. He was given an afternoon off yesterday, and having read of salt water fishing in his old home town, he decided that there was an opportunity to haul up some fine cod and make himself "solid" with the company cook.

He secured a heavy fishing line and a hook capable of holding the biggest cod that slips a fin in the waters of Massachusetts bay. Mess call sounded at eventide and Palmer still waited for the cod to bite. He had caught nary a fish.

Other soldiers paraded by and jeered the fisherman. At that moment came a tremendous tug on Palmer's line. "Pull!" shrieked those who jeered just a minute before. Then a black fin cleaved the water they chorused: "It's a shark! Cut him loose!"

Palmer had hooked his fish and refused to cut the line. He warned away several soldiers who started to help him. At times the line spun through the lad's hands until a half inch thrown over one of the wharf plankings checked the rush of the shark and turned the fish gasping on its back.

As Palmer hauled his line in, other rushes began, and it was an hour before he had finally tired the monster fish and brought it to the wharf.

High tide aided him in hauling the fish upon the landing, where he attacked it with a jackknife. Mess had flashed into the hall of Verdon then, and the men were late, but an exception was made to the rigid rule at the fort and the men were served their supper without reprimand.

WANTS TO BE DEPORTED

FAY BEGS TO BE SENT TO GERMAN-SHIP WRECKER PRISONERS VERDUN'S HELL TO PRISON

NEW YORK, June 14.—"Have me deported to Germany, Mr. President. I would rather be fighting for my country in the hell of Verdun than pine away eight years in an American federal prison."

Robert Fay, self-styled "lieutenant" in the German army, from which he admits he deserted in the early part of the war to come here to wreck ships carrying arms and ammunition to the allies, has written a letter to

Fay, who in his recent trial for bomb plots, caused a dramatic scene in Judge Howe's court room by suddenly jumping up from his seat, telling his counsel to keep quiet, and insisting upon being his own lawyer and questioning the prosecution's witnesses, has once again gone over the heads of his legal defenders. From his cell in the Tombs he wrote the letter to President Wilson without saying a word about it to his counsel. Appeal proceedings of his "case" are pending. To a reporter the young German said today:

"I wrote President Wilson that this little waiting behind prison bars is slowly killing me, and that I would prefer death in battle. I told him to consider that the sentence imposed on me, eight years in Atlanta, is not as severe as the one I would receive were I to face a court-martial in Germany on the charge of desertion. This I would gladly go to, however, for the German court would make a quick job of it and then it would be all over."

"I received a reply from the president's secretary telling me that my letter had been referred to the department of justice. That department wrote me that my only chance is a presidential pardon, and that this could be granted only upon application by Federal District Attorney Marshall. I have since learned that Mr. Marshall has refused to intervene in my behalf."

"Meanwhile Fay's attorneys are feverishly busy trying to secure the young German's release from prison pending the decision of his appeal. Before they have succeeded to have his bail, $50,000, reduced to half the amount, Fay at first begged to be taken to Atlanta as soon as possible, but now hopes to regain his liberty pending the decision of appeal."

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

THE MITCHELL'S SCHOOL

Graduating Exercises Held at the Popular Boys' School in Billerica

The annual prize day, one of the banner events on the Mitchell Military Boys' school calendar, was held today on the beautiful campus in front of the school buildings in Billerica. The fair weather that prevailed made the outdoor program this forenoon very attractive and parents and friends of students of the school were present in large numbers, coming in automobiles and cars from both near and far. Included in the audience today were people from Cleveland, Ohio, Illinois and many southern states.

The pupils of the school who participated in the program were attired in their blue uniforms with white leggings. Exhibitions of military maneuvers were given on the campus by the various companies and the efficiency of their instructors was strongly demonstrated by the precision with which the young cadets went through their work. The judges were three Lowell officers in the state militia, Capt. Jeyes, Lieut. Walker and Lieut. Cashin.

The exercises, which were the 46th annual in the history of the school, opened at 11 o'clock with a skitish drill which was very interesting. This was followed by the Butts manual, prize drill for manual of arms and other military "numbers." Music was furnished by Hubbard's orchestra which was seated under the beautiful shade trees.

Following the drills luncheon was served to the students and cadets on the lawn by the D. L. Page Co. with over 200 present.

Several cups were presented to students, and the prizes were a feature of the exercises. The alumni cup, given to the pupil who attains the best general average in studies during the year was awarded to Corp. John B. Safe. Solid gold watch fobs were presented to the captains of the football, basketball and baseball teams by Mr. A. H. Mitchell, head master of the school. Rowland Derby, son of Lucien A. Derby of this city, who was captain of the football team, received a miniature football fob; Capt. Alexander Grant of the basketball quintet, who resides at 156 Warwick street, this city, received a miniature basketball, and Capt. Richard Nims of the baseball team was presented a miniature baseball.

The finish of the field events for the Mason medals took place yesterday afternoon at the school campus. The meet started Monday, but rain interfered which necessitated the postponement of the affair until yesterday. The winners were: First medal, Charles Sawyer of Westboro; second medal, Richard Nims; third medal, Alexander Grant, Lowell. The winner of the junior event was Donald Mitchell of Billerica.

The afternoon program was as follows:

CANDIDATE HUGHES ON WAY TO "WORK," LIKE EVERYDAY COMMUTER

CANDIDATE HUGHES GOING TO WORK

THE LADY'S WORKBAG

One can buy so very reasonably remnants of cotton and woollens in almost anything you may happen to want that it is well to look out for them at this time of the year. A friend of mine gave me these three suggestions of things she had made and I hope they will help you.

From a remnant of heavy double-faced material (coatings) can be made an excellent auto robe by binding all around with leather stitched on machine.

From a remnant (blanket weight) of suitable material can be made a lovely bed blanket, by binding all around with satin or sateen of color matching stripe or check in material.

From a remnant can be made a splendid shawl by drawing in fringe material, then stitch through the knots making the fringe firm so it won't pull out.

It is quite the thing now to be upside down in the matter of clothes. You will find the up-to-date modiste turning the tucks on her gowns up instead of down, with the edges sometimes lace trimmed. You may also turn up the ruffles on your skirt and keep them so with a small light wire or by tacking them occasionally to the skirt. Skirt hems may be turned up on the right side of a circular skirt. The ruffles on a bodice may be turned up and also on the sleeves.

The bottom of a flaring suit coat shows the same idea as it is buttoned up on the right side with the hem of the skirt turned to match. The soft silk or filmy chiffons that are used so much for the long scarfs to throw over one's shoulders when a brisk salt breeze comes up in the evenings, are made with the same idea. The hem is turned up all the way around and finished with a tiny brier stitch in a sharp contrasting color. The tiny square of fine linen that makes the latest handkerchief has its hem turned the same way and with the same finish except of course colored cotton is used in place of silk, unless one cares to make the handkerchief of silk to match the gown, when of course very fine silk is used for the stitching.

This is the season when our minds wander to green meadows and cool rivers and the thought of a country outing is a pleasant one. It is worth while to begin to make some of the things that we will need to take with us. Try making a writing pad. Secure a stiff piece of cardboard and cover one side of it with blotting paper. Now take a piece of heavy cretonne or art denim twice the length of the board and three inches wider, for a cover. Fold the cretonne over at the edges so it will fit the sides of the board, and each edge and stitch on two pockets of the same material, in which to carry paper, pens, pencils, stamps and anything necessary for a writer. The pockets must be fastened down either with buttons or straps of tape, and the cretonne folds over the pad and ties with ribbon. The edges of the cover are held down to the pad by thumb-tacks, so that it is easy to renew the blotter when necessary.

I wonder how many women realize how much time and trouble can be avoided by using a floor-cloth the days your home dresser comes? Make a square of bed ticking or heavy denim as large as the size of the room will permit. Sew the lengths of material together, lapping the edges one-quarter of an inch.

At the joining place, which must come directly over one of the brace wires, one edge of the cretonne is sewed to the cotton covering of the wire and the other edge turned in a wide bit and sewed fast to the over-lapping cretonne. Fancy galleon, either gold, silver or some pretty color contrasting with the color of the shade, is then sewed around the top and bottom of the shade and also over the joining point.

Take care that the pattern exactly fits the shade, for if it does not, the shade will be impossible to make a neat-looking piece of work. Cut the cretonne the size of the pattern allowing one-half inch extra both at the top and at the bottom to fold over the wire, making a neat finish there.

U. S. TROOPS TO STAY

Demands of Carranza are All Denied—Raids Must Stop or Troops Will Remain

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Representations were sent yesterday by the state department to Gen. Carranza calling his attention to the fact that the body of one of the Mexican raiders killed by American troops, following the raid on Coleman's ranch near Laredo, Tex., has been positively identified as that of Lieut. Col. Villareal, an officer in Carranza's army. The representations were sent as a sort of prelude to the American reply to Carranza's note demanding an immediate withdrawal of the Pershing expedition from Mexico. Carranza's attention was also called in yesterday's message to the fact that at the time of the raid Carranza's army was equipped with uniforms and carried papers which clearly established his identity.

Rejects Carranza's Demand.
The formal reply to the Carranza note was sent yesterday afternoon, but will not be forwarded to Mexico City before Saturday night or Monday. Before it goes there will be further conferences between the president and Secretary Lansing. A tentative draft of the note has been completed. It is extremely lengthy. The note will reject Carranza's demand for the immediate withdrawal. It will contain a sharp rebuke for the language employed in the Mexican communication, and especially for what officials here regard as Carranza's insult and gratuitous references to matters concerning the relations existing between the United States and third parties and his insinuations that President Wilson was keeping the troops in Mexico for political reasons.

At the same time it is said authoritatively that the American note will comply with Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of the intentions of this government.

He will be reminded again that at the outset of the expedition into Mexico President Wilson in a public statement proclaimed his purpose to withdraw the forces under Gen. Pershing as soon as the situation in Mexico should be such that the United States could be assured of effective control over the situation. This purpose, the note will say, has never varied and the government of the United States strongly resents the implication that it has been changed in communication from the de facto government of Mexico.

To the end that this purpose might be speedily accomplished the American reply will urge Carranza to co-operate with the United States government, even to the extent of bringing about the conferences on the border between Generals Scott and Obregon, which conferences the United States hopes would result in a general agreement, under which co-operation between the military forces of the two governments would be most effectively carried out.

Although the Mexican representative at these conferences declined to subscribe to any formal agreement, he gave verbal assurances as to lead the American government to hope that effective action would be taken by the de facto government to clean up the remaining bandits and thus permit this expedition to be withdrawn. The note will take direct effect in the Mexican note to the effect that Gen. Scott had promised Generals Obregon and Trevino that no other expeditions would be sent across the line in the event of future raids, and on behalf of Gen. Scott will deny that the latter had assured Gen. Obregon that he would not be sent in pursuit of the Glenn Springs and Boquilla raiders.

The hopes that the American government entertained regarding the present situation in Mexico will continue, but have been void of fulfillment, owing to the apathy of the Mexican forces. In the meantime disorders on the part of lawless bands have continued and elements hostile to the United States have been able, either through the connivance or the indifference of representatives of the de facto government in northern Mexico, to plan large anti-American demonstrations in some of the principal cities controlled by Carranza and to incite the populace to take up arms against the United States. Under such conditions the American government cannot declare that it is unable to withdraw its forces, the main object and purpose of which has been to safeguard American territory. The United States, however, still stands ready to withdraw the expedition at any time the Carranza forces are able, by actual deeds rather than by promises, to demonstrate their ability to take ale Barriscale. In "The Golden Claw" a fine tale of modern financial life is unfolded, with the heroine as a money-loving girl who marries for wealth. Later she finds the hollowness of life without love, and causes her husband to lose his money in order to win back his love. It has been finely produced with remarkable realism, and has enthralled Miss Barriscale with his best Kay-Bee plays. In "Crooked to the End," the two-act Keynote-Triangles see Fred Vance as the small-town station agent, who gets hold of a bundle of money. Two crooks catch sight of the roll and resolve to get a hold of it. Then the action becomes swift and bewildering, showing a series of the most haphazard situations and hair-breadth escapes, in which automobiles, trains, motorcycles and other vehicles crash and tear at every corner. It's a hummer, and a million laughs are crammed into the two reels.

OWL THEATRE

"Blue Blood and Red." A William Fox feature film which is slightly different from the features released from this studio in the past will be the attraction at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow. As a rule Fox photoplays deal with modern society, with the scenes laid in the great mansions of the country, but in this film the scenes are taken in the mountain regions or our own west. Appearing in the stellar roles are the two motion picture favorites George Walsh and Doris Fawn.

"Blue Blood and Red" deals with a young man, who dismissed from college sets out in his high powered car to "see America." After many days of aimless going he becomes stranded in a town named Red Gulch. While here he meets a girl and through her accepts a job on the ranch of her father, and that's where his troubles begin. For the foreman of the ranch happens to be in love with the girl and naturally resents the coming of the tenderfoot, and immediately starts out to get the young fellow "in Dutch." His chance soon comes when the two rivals are sent on a horse-buying expedition. The foreman arranges with a "stick-up" man to waylay the easterner. How the plan works out and how the young ex-collegian is saved from a necktie party only through the combined efforts of the girl and his faithful racing car, forms a story which is full of action and gripping scenes from start to finish. Other excellent attractions will also be presented at the Owl theatre today and tomorrow.

HOW WILD ANIMALS SLEEP—BARNUM & BAILEY'S SHOW HAS GREAT MENAGERIE

How do different animals sleep? According to John Patterson, superintendent of the menagerie of the Barnum & Bailey circus, coming to Lowell, on Friday, June 23, no two different species of animal sleep alike. When a monkey gets ready to retire he picks out the highest perch he can find, but there's a catch. When the monkey is a forest, he always lives in a dainty morsel for the king of beasts. Therefore even the circus monkey cannot overcome his natural fear of lions and this accounts for his seeking a high perch as possible to sleep on.

Miss Mae Lynch, a popular book-keeper at the Ipswich hotel, was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Helen Mullane, 163 Agawam street last evening. The lioness, when free from family cares, is prone to lie on her back, with her legs stretched out straight in the air and paws pendant. Her mate of masculine persuasion, when the excitement of the day is over, stretches himself out flatly on his side, with his head turned in and tosses and twitches in his slumber a good deal like a dog.

Gorillas and chimpanzees sleep with their hands over their heads, although they, too, follow the natural instinct of the entire monkey family, and seek a high perch.

Beasts, who have no fear of man or beast, sleep in any position that pleases their fancy, and the same is true of wolves. Animals of a cunning or cowardly nature, however, are always on the alert, even when asleep. A seal sleeps like a human being. It stretches out at full length and enters dreamland on its back, stomach or side. Once in a while a seal will sit up, with its head bent down on its chest, fast asleep in the water, with its ears under, as is his custom in his native state, so that he may hear the approach of an enemy, sound his whistle with great distinctness underwater.

OLD TECH ABANDONED

Ship of State "Bucentaur" Carries Seal and Charter to New Home of Institute

BOSTON, June 14.—In a white ship of state, the charter and great seal of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology were carried across the Charles river basin last night.

The home of the Institute is forthwith in Cambridge, and the climax of her great celebration is past.

Today, the buildings now completed will be formally dedicated. Tonight, in a final rejoicing, the men of Technology will feast in Symphony hall and the celebration will have reached its end.

Last night's ceremonies, simple though they were, had a dignity and the water of artificial beauty and spectacular setting that will keep them memorable. The gravely transcended the show aspect of the occasion, even as its beauty rose above the sensational highness of it. Nobody who was there will ever think of it as a great show; nobody who saw can forget the sedate, richly hued procession of dignitaries from the state barge to the thrones of the portico.

It came at the end of a day, given over to picnicking. The alumni frolicked at Nantasket; the undergraduates skylarked at Riverside.

All day long the weather had tried to make up for the disgraceful performances of Sunday and Monday; brilliant sunshine, tempered by a gentle easterly breeze, cloud effects such as one cannot see except on the New England coast, and a sunset of lustrous brilliance, were succeeded by a soft, cool evening with a hazy moon hung in a sky of alabaster.

Biggest in Tech's History

The alumni celebration was the biggest in Tech's history. Indeed, it was so big that it could barely be run off in the time allotted to it. The old grads of 48 years, with their women-folk, left Boston on three steamers, the first of which started at 9.10. The first boat back reached Boston at 6, and the time between had been filled to the last second.

A parade of the classes more than half a mile long, a newly represented "parade of mascots," with representatives from each club all over the Western hemisphere, a box luncheon on the beach, and a long program of class stunts took up the afternoon.

Class after class went out to win laughter or admiration, and many of the performances were successful. The extreme. Perhaps the funniest stunt was one in which a Tech whale, spouting real water and winking a wicked eye, swallowed a Harvard ca-

THE MATHEW INSTITUTE

REV. DR. KELEHER ADDRESSED THE TEMPERANCE MEN LAST NIGHT

Rev. Daniel J. Keleher, D. D., spiritual director of the Mathew Temperance Institute, delivered an inspiring address on the premeditated movement before the members at the regular meeting held last evening. Rev. Dr. Keleher's remarks were received with much enthusiasm and great interest was manifested in the Mathew's part of the big parade tonight. Marshal Kane urged all members to be at the rooms ready to march at 7 o'clock. Letters in regard to the parade were received from Congressman Rogers and Mayor O'Donnell.

Dr. Keleher spoke strongly on the necessity of adequate defense and referred to the modern and effective weapons of the modern nations. He said: "The great wealth of this country is such that if we gave great offense to some nations by passing tariff laws which they might think great injury to them, would make us very susceptible to attack. Such being the case, lack of proper preparedness really is unpatriotic."

"Owing to the vastness of our country and the great population of the United States, the vast majority of whom have never seen a warship and seldom see the regular soldiers, it has been difficult to educate these people to the fact that modern methods of warfare have eliminated distance as an element of security."

UNITED AFTER 50 YEARS

NATIVES OF VERMONT CLASP HANDS AT CHICAGO—BABCOCK BOYS SEPARATED AFTER WAR

CHICAGO, June 14.—A gap of half a century and half a continent closed yesterday when two natives of Vermont clasped hands in Chicago and looked eagerly into each other's eyes. They were Henry Babcock and Charles Babcock, brothers, who for 50 years had been as ignorant of each other's whereabouts as if they lived on separate spheres.

The Babcock boys lived in Burlington, Vt., when the war closed. Their father had been killed in battle. Their mother died the year after. Then they separated. Henry, 12 years old, stayed in the state. Charles, two years younger, went west. For almost 30 years not a word did they hear from each other. Then after the World's Fair in 1893, Henry heard of a friend who had been in Chicago that Charles was working in the west.

CHELMSFORD

A well attended meeting of the Chelmsford water district was held in the town hall last night. The meeting was called to order by Winthrop A. Parkhurst, secretary of the board of commissioners, after which he read the warrant. Joseph E. Warren was chosen moderator.

The first business taken up was an article "to see if the district will vote to extend its service in North street to the premises of Mrs. J. H. Brown, and act in relation to the same." Breck Emerson, a resident of the district included in the proposed extension, spoke in its favor, as did also George E. Holt of the Westlands. The estimated cost of the extension was given as $4325. Upon motion of Breck Emerson to vote on the extension in the usual way, the meeting proceeded, the check-list being used. The total vote was 12, 108 voting in favor and 15 as opposed.

Breck Emerson then made a motion that for the purpose of meeting the indebtedness to be incurred in extending the water mains as voted under the preceding article, that the district borrow a sum not exceeding $2000, the same to be paid in equal annual installments not exceeding four in number at a rate of interest not to exceed 4 per cent. The motion was passed 84 voting in the affirmative and one in the negative.

SHE IS 91 YEARS OLD

MRS. M. A. BOUCHER OF CENTRALVILLE CELEBRATES EVENT—CAME HERE IN 1847

Mrs. Mary Ann Boucher, widow of Timothy Boucher and mother of Thomas B. Boucher, well-known among militiamen, Knights Templars and Elks, today celebrated at her home, 65 Hampshire street, Centralville, the 91st anniversary of her birth. She is somewhat enfeebled by age, yet her hearing is excellent and her memory undimmed by the years.

Mrs. Boucher was born in Stroud, Gloucestershire, Eng., June 14, 1825. She married Timothy Boucher in Carvercross, Eng., May 30, 1848. One son was born to them, Mr. and Mrs. Boucher came to the United States in the sailing vessel Sheridan, in 1848, and made their home in Fall River. A year later they came to Lowell, and during the dull times of the early 50s returned to England. Both were employed as school teachers. Mr. Boucher was also for 10 years tax collector and marsh clerk.

When they announced their intention of returning to this country a meeting of parents and former pupils was held, at which Mr. and Mrs. Boucher were presented a purse of gold sovereigns.

Coming to Lowell, Mr. Boucher was employed in responsible positions in the Middlesex mills until his retirement in 1893. He died Nov. 23, 1902.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

Gorham street, one of our principal streets, double-tracked and paved to the city line, is from Union street to the Billerica line altogether insufficiently lighted. Its claims to be the next street to receive an extension of "white way lights" at least to Davis square will scarcely be denied. But the darkness at certain points is still so dense, that the street should not go without several new lights and to be installed at once. In these up-to-date times, an important street as Gorham street is, should not be permitted to continue in its present condition after dark.

Preparedness Parade

There's no good reason why Lowell should not have a great turnout on "Preparedness day," one in keeping with her patriotic traditions. The indications are that the parade will be all of that. There's no politics in it of a party nature, which is as it should be; for the idea of having a navy big enough and strong enough to protect our coasts and possessions and an army in keeping with a nation of 100,000,000 people, strongly appeals to the vast majority of the citizens of this country. Uncle Sam has been rather slow in getting aroused; but when he gets fully so, he'll produce the goods.

The Date John J. Golden

John J. Golden died at his home in Riverside avenue last week at the age of 58. John was born in Centerville and lived there all his life. He could remember when West Centralville, so-called, had buildings there so few that he could count them with the fingers of both hands, while his father and mother could almost do the same. Counting the houses between Coburn street and the section beyond. John was a "Centerville" boy to the right. In his youth he knew everybody on River street and was often recalled stirring incidents of a nature that went far to give old River street a peculiar fame all its own—battles between "hill boys" and River street boys, and so forth.

For several years John had suffered with an affection of the kidneys and heart, ambitious to work, being without strength or endurance to do so worried him much. He failed slowly but steadily, and when I heard of his death it pained while it did not surprise me. Poor John! He was a good soul and I thought much of him. I had reason to believe he thought much of me.

The Gentle Bum

He is not the poor "down and out" who accosts you on the street with a whining appeal for a nickel "for a bed," nor the frowsy beggar with his flailing arms and ragged coat, nor the "fine" spring weather; not the wretch whose terror of work is only equalled by his love for beer and whom we speak contemptuously of as a bum. Not him. No Buck or Corinthian of the times of Beau Brummel was ever more scrupulous of his wearing apparel, more particular in his list of eligible acquaintances, more lofty at the bare suggestion of working for a living than the gentleman I would describe. Exuding an air of supreme coolness, he stands in the public eye, eyeing the passing proletariat, and with a soft white hand flecks away the polluting molecule from his immaculate but "disdained" garment. He likes to drape himself about the purlieus of Merrimack square, the Casino or the theatre, and with others of his ilk and approve or disapprove of the young women whose misfortune it is to have to pass him. Or it is his fashion, during the dull hours of the day when all else are at work, to spend a quiet hour or two at the public library, or to stroll about with hands in his pockets, when the slow climb of coin is seldom heard. Your gentle bum's finances are of a fluctuating nature; the "touch system," always a non-dependable standby, is his natural source of income.

Yet we do not fail to recognize worthy qualities in our friend. We do not put him into the same class as his humble colleague, the common bum, to those whom he admits into the charmed circle of his patronage he often conducts himself with fine discretion and with a warmth of heart which lacks not its peculiar appeal. It would not be too much to say that we like him sometimes, regardless of his faults. Like the drone in a swarm of bees, he doubtless fills some occult role in the general plan. Perhaps, after he has made a name for himself in his own particular fashion, and is content that his memory will not be lost to posterity, he may conquer his aversion to the industrial system under which we strive to live, and go to work.

June Weather and Poetry

How anybody can grind out in doleful tones in which are sobs and melancholy cadences, whole columns descriptive of a series of gloomy, dull and rainy days, gets me. I feel like going across the street and asking for the privilege of shaking this blank verse-writing oracle's hand and ask him how he does it and where he gets his inspiration. It's really a wonderful accomplishment—just as much so the lamentations of Job. He succeeds in creating almost as much enthusiasm for dull, rainy weather, as the average republican voter feels for those well known animated ice-bergs, Messrs. Hughes and Fairbanks. If it cheer he would but infuse, occasionally, his descriptions of a dreary day all night be well, but Lordy mussy! Isn't it enough to know that the wind was easterly, that rain was abundant, that the sun and the moon were absent, that we had no baseball, that

JUDGE ENRIGHT TAKES THE CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT—ARGUMENTS MADE

The Pinder case, so-called, was finished before Judge Enright in police court yesterday afternoon, and the court took the case under advisement. City Solicitor Harold A. Varnum argued for the city while the defendant's case was argued by Dennis J. Murphy, Esq.

Mr. Varnum introduced the correspondence bearing on the abolition of the office, the first letter being that of August 27th from Mayor O'Donnell to Supt. Welch giving notice of his intention to abolish the office of messenger as a measure of economy. The mayor's letter to Mr. Pinder notifying him of the abolishing of the office and a letter to the civil service commissioner in Boston notifying them of the abolition of the office as a measure of economy were also presented.

James T. Dunfee, clerk in the auditor's department, was recalled and put on the witness stand, and the court's attention was called to the fact that the roll of the charity department showing that about the time of Mr. Pinder's removal, the pay of three men in that department was increased, one man's from $15 to $22.50 per week, another from $15 to $18, and a third in doubt as to whether he was a third in doubt and put those figures in later.

Mr. Varnum objected to the introduction of this evidence, claiming that he was not prepared to meet it, and requested a continuance, to give him time. Mr. Murphy said that all he would have to meet, would be the matter brought out by Mr. Murphy, from the records.

Brief arguments were made and the court took the case under advisement.

wet and dampness enveloped everything and that one grew sick and tired of the constant iteration of "Kinder get," "Ever goin' to clear up," "Rot-ten weather," "What do you know about this?" and so forth.

As much as June has disappointed us we think she will yet give us much of her loveliness. Under her skies. Such a beautiful and luxuriant vegetation as she already shows should make her this year's advent something to be remembered favorably if but she relents and is kind. So cheer up and believe the worst is over, and that the best is to come.

The first half is certainly not to her credit and she has got to go some to make amends. O June! To me the month of sweetest and tenderest associations, of happiest yet saddest memories vouchsafe to us more dreams of the morning sun and the glimmers of the morning sun and give me more than the promise of a perfect day. Please come out of it! Give us a few ball games and such.

The Late Guy Morey

Guy Morey, whose recent death is so deeply deplored, was a man whom to know was both a pleasure and a privilege. He was a gentleman inside and out—one whose uniform courtesy was inborn and reflected those sterling qualities of mind and heart which made him so widely loved and respected. It was not my fortune to know Mr. Morey intimately, yet from an acquaintance of more than thirty years I could not fail to know something of his worth and to regard him with feelings of highest esteem. For the last ten or twelve years, perhaps, I had met him almost daily, and as he was wont to frequently take evening walks with his dog, it was often my good fortune to accompany him.

These occasions illumined by the brightness of his conversation—his witty comments, his fund of reminiscences I greatly prized, and recall them with pleasure. Saddened by the thought that they are forever ended, I think I was becoming to know him well. I do not know, but I think I was beginning to lay the flattering unction to my soul that sometime might be admitted to the inner circle of his real friends. That is past, however, where Guy Morey now is he may be given to know some things many he left behind would wish him to know—that he might fully know how genuine was the affection in which they held him and how deeply the sorrow that his passing away.

He loved the city of his birth and his beautiful home in Mt. Washington street was the dearest place on earth to him. His domestic life was an ideal one. Here with his estimable wife, his pets and among his books and unique collections he would welcome the coming of his friends with that charming courtesy which was inherent with him. Next to Lowell he loved the sea where it beats upon the rocks and beach of Hampton. Here he was regularly visited and thither he went a few short weeks ago to see if a breath of old ocean would not give him strength to dissipate a physical condition about which he began to have concern. Here beside the sea his rare spirit took its flight, and out there where the white caps and sea gulls played we might have fancied we heard Ariel sing:

—Nothing of him that doth fade But doth suffer a sea change Into something rich and strange.

REP. ACHIN TO GET PLACE

He May Be Appointed to Industrial Accident Board—Claim That $4500 Place Promised Him

Special to The Sun

STATE HOUSE, Boston, June 14.—Representative Henry Achin, Jr., of Lowell, is soon to receive from Gov. McCall an appointment to the industrial accident board, according to a well-defined rumor at the state house.

The position pays a salary of $4500 per year, and an appointment is made for a term of five years.

Since May 22, Dudley M. Holman of Taunton, one of the original members of the board, has been serving as a hold-over, his appointment, made by Gov. Foss, having expired on that date. Holman is a candidate for re-appointment to the governor in his behalf one of the strongest endorsements ever accorded to a candidate for public office in this state, but Gov. McCall is said to have informed them that he feels that the board contains too many democrats in its membership, and while he regrets that Mr. Holman should happen to be the particular democrat to be displaced, nevertheless he is of the opinion that the republican party should have more than one of the five members of the board; at present David T. Dickinson of Cambridge is the only republican on the board, and at the time of his appointment he was known as a "Foss republican," so he is not considered to be one of the "died-in-the-wool" brand.

Or Achin's republicanism, however, there can be no doubt, he having been elected to the legislature as a republican for five consecutive terms, and he is also president of the Franco-American republican club.

Although there are a large number of candidates for the place, it is felt that Robert N. Turner of Waltham is Achin's chief opponent; he made a fine record as commissioner of labor under the original state board of labor and refused to continue in the position when Gov. Walsh substituted a new board after removing the old one. He has long been interested in social welfare work. It is understood that the bar association is backing him for the position on the accident board, on the ground that a board dealing almost exclusively with questions of law should have in its membership more than one attorney.

Achin, however, is backed by the insurance interests and by many of the large employers of the state, as well as by several labor organizations, and Dana Rumor has it that his Excellency has already promised the position to the Lowell representative.

Others who have signified to the governor their willingness to accept the position if offered to them are: Maurice Kane of Waltham, formerly a candidate for the republican nomination for state treasurer; Philip Mansfield of Boston, an attorney and partner of James H. Vahey; Edna Lawrence Spencer of Cambridge, a suffrage worker; D. D. Sullivan of Middleboro, justice of the local court; Jas. J. Tierney of Salem, also an attorney and leading republican politician; and Major Charles Williamson, formerly mayor of Brockton.
